

Turks Likely To Get UN Out

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—United Nations peacekeeping forces may have to be withdrawn from Turkish-controlled Cyprus, following failure of the Security Council to approve an expanded role for the force under the Geneva agreement.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, after the Soviet Union vetoed a resolution that would have expanded the UN role in Cyprus, said he had no alternative but to comply with insist that the UN troops from the Turkish-controlled areas of the island.

The resolution vetoed by the Soviet Union's chief UN delegate, Andrei Malin, would have permitted the UN force to man a buffer zone between the Turkish army and the Greek-Cypriot national guard, and to patrol villages with mixed Greek and Turkish populations.

Mr. Malin said his veto was forced by lack of time to consider the resolution or to receive direction from Moscow.

Mr. Waldheim said the Security Council that the Turkish military commander in Cyprus was hostile on the removal of all UN troops from areas controlled by the Turkish army since they had now "successfully" completed their function.

Grenade Killed Cadets

QUINCY (CP)—Officials at Valparaiso, Canada's Forces head Wednesday said a grenade thrown by a Grenade Guardsman from head band during an explosives safety course caused the deaths of two cadets Sunday and the injury of more than 40 others.

The Grenade Guardsman is among the dummie devices for destruction used by the subject of inquiry by the Canadian Forces' Quartermaster Police and a coroner's inquest.

Quartermaster Police Minister Jerome Choquette, who is in a serious condition and 11 other persons, including two officers, were injured in the explosion.

Capt. Jean-Claude Givens, reprimanded in hospital with injuries, Dr. Jean-Paul Verina said that the Grenade Guardsman shot at the explosion.

About 30 other cadets were injured in the explosion, which was the first of its kind since the Grenade Guardsman was shot.

Convicted

Former White House Chief of Domestic Affairs John D. Ehrlichman faces newsmen outside U.S. District Court in Washington Wednesday after he was sentenced on the charge for conspiracy and perjury in the Elmhurst break-in case.

Ehrlichman said "justice will be found and done and that I will ultimately be exonerated and vindicated."

Nixon's Chances Are Seen as Poor

WASHINGTON (CP)—Even House of Representatives debate on the impeachment of the president, the 48th, is seen as a foregone conclusion.

Some leading congressmen representing both parties and various political philosophies say President Nixon's chances are poor.

Rep. John Ashbrook (Rep. Ohio), a leading conservative who supports the president, said Wednesday that he expects the House to vote to impeach Nixon by nearly a 3 to 1 margin.

A Republican who leads the House, Alexander Haig, said the House would vote to impeach Nixon by nearly a 3 to 1 margin.

Snafu Is Not Sure Force Adequate

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian authorities are wondering whether the United Nations has enough troops on Cyprus to carry out the apparently formidable job assigned to it under the Ureks-Turkish-British cease-fire agreement.

"I don't know," External Affairs Minister Allan Rock said Wednesday when the question about the adequacy of the UN force was raised by a reporter.

Mr. Rock said the UN force is due to be deployed in the next few days in New York (at the UN). At least at this stage the UN force is expected to be deployed in the next few days.

War Council

Indians centered in Ancelina Park in Kenna, Ont., gather around leader Louis Cameron (center) as he breaks tom-tom signifying the start of tribal war preparations.

The meeting marked the first time Mr. Cameron has met directly with the various government officials. Previously, negotiations were handled by a negotiating committee formed of local and area Indian chiefs.

The meeting was designed as a preliminary step leading to a final meeting to discuss the dispute which centers on the land in the area.

Representatives of all levels present, Mr. Cameron said, in their mind that full-sized negotiations will be held in the next few days.

British Secret Societies Toy with Idea of Revolt

LONDON (CP) — Alarmist reports are beginning to filter out about plans by scattered clandestine groups to overthrow the elected government if Britain's mounting economic problems worsen in the months ahead.

Because of the secrecy with which most of these organizations surround themselves, it is impossible to determine their precise nature or the exact size of their followings.

The initial investigations, particularly a well-documented report in the Daily Mail, suggest that the groups are limited in size. Walker, once a top officer in their belief that a new government of "inspiring leaders" may have to be "planned" in power with military backing, if last winter's industrial strife is repeated this year.

Their strength, whatever it is, may eventually turn out to be, as seems to be drawn mainly from right-wing well-to-do private citizens, former military personnel and some prominent financiers and bankers.

One of the leading "ultra-right" government networks appears to be a collection of people headed by retired Gen. Sir Walter Walker, once a top officer in Walker contends that all the diverse groups sharing his opinions now have established a nationwide, well-coordinated network ready to act at any time.

Another organization, calling itself the National Association of Rascals, Active Groups and claiming a membership of 13 million, has made public that it, too, is searching for a man capable of taking the full power of government away from the present leaders in the event of more economic chaos.

David Perri, a sporting goods retailer and leader of the association, says: "It is an historical reality that the existing parliamentary system as we know it will be swept away. The first to go will be the treasury. They are completely out of touch. All we can do now is to bring together under one leader."

Walker refuses to discuss details of his organization but he says that one day recently he received 60 letters and 25 telephone calls before he was offered to back him in his attempt "to warn the country of the disaster facing us" from a widespread trade balance, skyrocketing prices and industrial unrest.

Of the present leaders, Walker said: "None of them are trustworthy... None can inspire like Churchill could. And this is what this country needs—a Churchill figure."

Lake Cottages May Be Moved

OTTAWA (CP) — Two main areas of dispute over use of the Great Lakes are expected to boil to the surface again here this year when the International Joint Commission (IJC) opens public hearings about the lake.

Exact details of the hearings will not be known until later this month, but they will be in October and November.

Hearings in the United States are planned for Duluth, Minn., Chicago, Ill., Cleveland, Ohio, and Rochester, N.Y. In Canada, they are scheduled for Montreal and the Ontario cities of Thunder Bay, Owen Sound, Sault Ste. Marie and Hamilton.

Commission Secretary David Chance said Wednesday the main problem continues to be the conflicting interests of recreational and industrial users. But the fishermen of Ontario and downstream users also have become a significant factor because of the increasing use and diversion of lake waters.

He said in an interview the hearings are designed to get public reaction to the latest report of the International Great Lakes Levels Board, released Wednesday and which is a by-product of a language summary of an earlier, more comprehensive report which is available from the commission's Ottawa and Washington offices.

One IJC proposal to which a lot of reaction is expected is that homes and cottages be built back from the Great Lakes flood plain, a move which will require municipal cooperation.

Many homes and cottages on the north shore of Lake Ontario were badly damaged by a storm last winter and substantial government compensation was involved. It is felt that moving them back from the flood plain will prevent similar damage in the future, but strong opposition is anticipated.

Train Crew Cut Said Dangerous

OTTAWA (CP) — An accident involving a passenger train that killed a woman and injured several others, has led to a series of safety measures to be taken by the Canadian National Railway.

The United Transportation Union (UTU) is opposing the proposal before Mr. Justice Bennett, B.C. Supreme Court, of Canada judge, appointed arbitrator after the fatal accident last summer's national railway strike.

Canadian National Railway and CP Rail say the change in crew can be made safely in the event because of improved signaling, traffic control and radio communications.

The UTU witnesses, one of whom represented the union during trial runs with the common rail crew, told stories of signal breakdowns and injuries that would go unattended if conductors were alone in the train.

"I don't know of any job that is more dangerous than the job of a train conductor," said Thomas Albertson, a 62-year-old conductor with Canadian National who has had 23 years' experience with Canadian National.

Mr. Albertson said a lone freight conductor rides in the darkness at night, because of the long and out of the caboose, and could end up at the back of the train's location. Part of his job is keeping tabs on the train's location.

Hazards mentioned in testimony raised from the possibility of a six-foot fall from the caboose coupled to being thrown off the end of the train or smashed against the caboose wall by the violent jerk associated with "black action" as the train hurtles. Wednesday night started to move. Fast cars were cited as examples.

The hearing also heard evidence from David James Moore, chairman of UTU Local 114, Montreal, B.C., about an accident that killed a freight train crew member.

Mr. Larsen was riding a bus back to couple a group of additional cars to a train that was on a track with one conductor manning the caboose.

The latter derailed and Mr. Larsen was crushed between the car and a short by the side.

Mr. Morgan said the accident would not have happened if a system of radio communications had been in place.

The UTU witness, one of whom represented the union during trial runs with the common rail crew, told stories of signal breakdowns and injuries that would go unattended if conductors were alone in the train.

The real end crew accident was a call from the engineer could be made if the freight crew was on the caboose platform waiting for a signal. Freight crew could check the railway regularly, and make repairs.

The change of freight train crew has been in place since 1968. The freight crew has been in place since 1968. The freight crew has been in place since 1968.

Plans Made to Share Oil Supply if Scarce

OTTAWA (CP) — Society

plans people who adopt family units that don't conform to the existing laws, says the Minister of the Family.

Unmarried couples living together, with or without children, says the Minister of the Family.

The real end crew accident was a call from the engineer could be made if the freight crew was on the caboose platform waiting for a signal. Freight crew could check the railway regularly, and make repairs.

For example, a married man would have no trouble claiming his unemployed legal wife as a dependent for income tax purposes. But a single man would not be allowed to claim as a dependent his common-law spouse. Neither would he be able to have his common-law spouse included in his provincial health insurance.

During the last four years, the Family Institute has expanded its thinking. It now expects to have more than one family structure, rather than to change one family into another.

It has an adult male and female viewed as the legal property. Some of family life, people have become servants to social institutions, rather than to serve and perpetuate the traditional family. Human relations are being eroded.

Unusual Families Penalized

BRUSSELS (AP) — Tentative agreements were reported Wednesday in a plan under which 12 of the world's major consuming nations would share petroleum if cuts by exporting countries the three-day shortage.

France boycotted the Friday meeting in Brussels. In Paris, French Foreign Minister Jean Scavignone, chairman of the European Common Market council of ministers, was meeting with Arab leaders on a special system of co-operation between them and the Market.

The system under discussion in Paris would exclude the United States, Canada and Japan. They participated in the Brussels conference along with the other eight European Common Market countries and the Arab world.

Another official said in Paris that France eventually will join the Brussels group so the nine Common Market members can be represented "as a community."

Another meeting is planned for Sept. 13, immediately after a session of Common Market foreign ministers on energy policy. There was doubt, however, whether Britain will be able to settle its differences with France by then, which would prevent a common European energy approach.

Market members are at odds over use of North Sea oil fields between Britain and Norway.

Opera Company Well Endowed

TORONTO — Herman Gatte, re-Torol, General Director of the Canadian Opera Company, has announced that the company had achieved an all-time record in its 1974 subscription campaign.

The campaign closed on June 30, with 11,888 subscriptions, adding to the 1973 26th Canadian Opera season, Sept. 4 to Oct. 12 at O'Keefe Centre. Subscriptions sales this year represented 265,726 in revenue, and 50.8 per cent attendance.

The previous subscription record was set in the 1972 season when brought in 10,822 subscribers, representing a revenue figure of $200,000. Last year, with an expansion of the season from five to six operas, the company drew 10,170 subscribers and $215,500 in revenue.

The Canadian Opera subscription program, first introduced in 1964, this year offered subscribers seven different series from which to choose.

Singles tickets for the 1974 Canadian Opera season go on sale by mail order from O'Keefe Centre on August 10. Due to the unprecedented demand for subscription opera passes are urged to purchase tickets to the opera performance.

Boyd Neel Is Directing Summer School of Music

TORONTO (CP) — After a successful musical career and an active musical life, Boyd Neel, at 60, shows no signs of slowing down.

Officially retired, he was off to Winnipeg recently to direct the Winnipeg Festival Orchestra. In a few weeks he takes on the directorship of the first annual Boyd Neel Summer School of Music at Collingwood, Ont.

In 1951 Mr. Neel left his London medical practice to devote his energies to music. His decision marked a major historical moment in the musical world when almost abjectly he and his children brought about the Baroque revival.

"I know it seems hard to believe how hot we were at the start of this was one of our first concerts of Vivaldi in print and even that was a first. The whole of Handel's Concerti Grossi, Opus 3, were virtually unknown except to a few musicians."

"I wasn't a musicologist by any means, but I had assembled a group of 18 string players and three woodwinds. Boyd Neel was virtually unknown except to a few musicians."

"I started copying it all out, all the parts, by hand — and we gave a concert in the London Hall on Broad Street (now a BBC sound studio) in London."

"That concert took London, and ultimately the rest of the music world, by storm. Mr. Neel became a celebrity overnight. The day after the concert his orchestra performed for the BBC and Decca Records."

Mr. Neel started in 1949 Britain and later the Continent. He also conducted for films.

In 1953 Baron Frankenstein, the Austrian ambassador to the Court of St. James's, invited the Boyd Neel Orchestra to perform at the Salzburg Festival.

That week by a young British composer in Salzburg was the start of Benjamin Britten's international reputation.

Following a tour of Canada and the United States, Mr. Neel was offered and surprisingly accepted the post of dean of music at the University of Toronto. He came here, he said, because he felt that he had taken his orchestra as far as it could go and that he was needed as a teacher at the possibilities of Canada.

Under his leadership, prospered at the university and the Royal Conservatory the faculty of music and the school of music moved into new buildings. He also started the first music department which gained the reputation as the true successor of the

Outdoor Concert On CBC

A memorable evening of music took place in Old Town last summer when citizens were invited to "sit away melancholy, and to embrace the joys of sweet music" in the "Garden" at CBC's Midsummer Revels.

The evening of popular entertainment was recorded, by CBC Radio, and a major portion of it will be aired as a CBC Tuesday Night feature program Aug. 6, 9 p.m., repeated on Encore, on the CBCFM network, Aug. 9, 9 p.m.

Producer Michael Catterall was master of the arrival of the first of the series. As the concerters arrived in the courtyard of Toronto's Stables, the wind swept Ensemble de Solo-Laurent performed music by Rameau and other masters, allowing the guests "to take the air, explore the gardens, greet their friends and enjoy refreshment."

A horn call announced the start of the grand concert and the audience found seats up and on the grass. The Grand Concert Orchestra was conducted by Pierre Rolland, who is based as a composer on the CBC Radio program "Music de Chez Nous."

It is this concert that will be heard August 6 with music from the Baroque and Classical eras by Handel, Vivaldi, Purcell, Corelli and Haydn.

Hillcrest Housing Plan Is OK with Residents

By BOY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Residents of Belleville's Hillcrest district say they have no major objections to a proposed housing development. The Hillcrest Improvement Association, which represents the residents and families living in the area, has approved the plan.

The proposed plan was voted through one man, Frank White, of Centre St., yesterday when the development was approved by the Hillcrest Improvement Association. The plan calls for the construction of 25 to 30 single-family homes on the 2.5-acre site running north from McFarland Dr. to the highway.

McFarland would be a single family, or duplex construction with a minimum of 15 units per acre.

Mr. White said he would not object to a moderate road widening. He said that the Hillcrest Improvement Association has no objection to the plan, and that the residents of the area would be the ones to benefit from the plan.

To make a human pyramid you have to be either very light or else very acrobatic. You might say this one combines a little of both. The Coverup

Sgt. Capt. Ward chose camouflage used to cover in mock warfare by Robert Hyatt and Willard Stainburn, both 17. The youths are among trainees enlisted for summer into Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Training Grounds Getting Scarcer

Organization has spotted the once secluded rural areas of Belleville used for military training. The trainees are equipped with most of the modern weapons of battle, but they don't even have a tank, in ammunition.

All this week, the young troops-in-training are now covering against each other. The largest of the two, valued at $12,000 was given by Stephens & Adams Manufacturing for a supply of better parts.

The other contract worth $2,000 was given to Spada Inc. Ltd. to furnish over 2000 pairs of Canadian Forces shoes, trousers.

Talent and Team Spirit Carries Als

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's Als won their first place in the Eastern Football Conference today thanks to talent and team spirit, says coach Mary-Lou.

The Als' 20-17 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders Wednesday night before a rain-soaked crowd of 13,720 at the Autostar was a combination of playing an "80 minute game" and having the talented players to do the job, Mary said.

"We played with more character at any time than I've been here. We had just lost the game last week, and the absence of all-star guard Ed George and on-helmet injury through the game to centre Wayne Conrad, who suffered a strain in his left knee, was noticed by import, Boston-born Kennedy and Pat Bennett, 22-year-old Canadian who filled in at one guard position but dropped late in the game. The Als' first touchdown in the first quarter was a 28-yard pass from George to wide receiver Jerry Smith. The Als' first touchdown in the second quarter was a 28-yard pass from George to wide receiver Jerry Smith. The Als' first touchdown in the third quarter was a 28-yard pass from George to wide receiver Jerry Smith. OTTAWA (CP) — Consumers will pay 7 per cent of an additional 91 cents farmers will get for a hundred pounds of milk under federal policy changes announced Thursday by Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan.

The increases in dairy subsidies and support prices mean that dairymen will be paid 14¢ for a hundred pounds of milk, will get a minimum 15 cents for a pound of butter, 10¢ for 17, and 24 cents a pound for skim milk powder, up from 16 cents.

The consumer, it means that eight cents for a pound of butter, four cents for a pound of skim milk powder—about one cent a quarter—costs more for a pound of cheese and a consequently increase for ice cream.

The government is committed to support a long-term policy that will link producer payments to the cost of production, he said.

The target is to find a system that would provide automatic increases in revenue to producers when the cost of production rises.

Milk production last year down 1.8 million litres from 18.7 million in 1963.

At a meeting with Mr. Whelan and Consumer Affairs Minister Herb Gray in late June, Whelan said that the government was concerned about the price of milk.

Fighting Erupts As Turks Take Kyrenia

NIOSIA (AP) — The biggest outbreak of fighting since the Cyprus ceasefire agreement was stopped three days ago erupted across the western Kyrenia mountains today.

Turkish forces advanced into four Greek-Cypriot villages that were abandoned after heavy Turkish artillery barrages in the last 48 hours.

Turkish tanks launched a major assault against the Greek-Cypriot strongpoint at the top of the mountain, the artillery defused opened at the top of the mountain.

An UN armed patrol at the top of the mountain was machine-gunned for hours before noon and turned back without suffering any casualties.

A car full of reporters travelling behind the Turkish representative said he was also fired at by Turkish soldiers.

The fighting was centred at the village of Agia Kyrenia on the Kyrenia mountain range.

Reporters drove to the village and found it was a scene of destruction and death.

On the other side of the mountain, overlooking the sea, reporters saw a line of Turkish tanks travelling on a dirt road just below the crest of the narrow rocky ridge.

Answering fire came from artillery and machine guns.

Earlier, a scheduled meeting to draw up buffer zones and ceasefire lines under UN auspices was postponed because the Turkish representative said he was not ready to attend.

The village, plus the Greek-Cypriot strongpoint, is the last of the mountain range.

Pitchers Have Long Night Rollins Drops Sixth Game to Devolin

It was a long night for pitchers in the Quince Festival League last night, but an even longer one for Rollins County. The Devils lost their third game in two starts to the team in Devlin, Minn. 5-4.

For the six pitchers who worked in the doubleheader, it was a very long night. They were tagged for a total of 46 hits, with 18 runs scored and the plate as a result of the shagging.

Twenty-two of the bats came in the first game of the night, with the victorious home team collecting a dozen of them.

They got all to their regular fast start in the top of the first, gathering in two runs on three hits and a fielder's choice. Ray Lundgren and Jan Howard connected for each to drop a single, with Terry Mosher stepping in with a two-base hit.

They added two more runs in the second, to go four up, but didn't score the winning run until the fifth, when Lundgren's again sprang with a long hit, one of the three he collected. He went to second on a sac-fice by Howard, going to third on an infield out, he scored on a double by Rick Roushach.

The Devils' second baseman added his third run of the night, and an insurance marker, the fifth inning, in the seventh, once again striking things off with a home hit. He was doubled in by Mosher's second two-base hit of the game.

Rollins scored all four of their runs in the bottom of the fourth inning off Devils' starter Ron Hill. Carl Bloomer scored the rally with a single, with Doug Adams, Don Doyle, Ken Demille and Ralph Bloomer following.

Ken Demille broke the string of singles with a double.

Don Howard was still summoned to pick out the first, getting Ralph Frane in ground out to end the inning.

The Rollins attack, both offensively and defensively, was deflated somewhat in the first frame, when their third baseman, Wayne McTaggart, was ejected from the game by umpire Al Kotcher. Th. had-hitting McTaggart is currently slugged at a .418 clip, but didn't get a chance to put his bat into use last night.

Howard got credit for the hit, firing the last four innings of ball. He gave up three hits in the sixth, striking out three and walking none.

Rollins' batting order was: Bill Lewis, Don Doyle, Steve Campbell, Jan Howard, Ken Demille, and Wayne McTaggart.

The win for Devils' comes on the heels of a 12-0 victory over the Juniors, and a 15-0 to take the win, only the fourth of the season for the club.

Expo Reps Like What They See at Camp Here

By MIKE BRADSHAW Staff Reporter
The Expo started out to be an excellent tryout camp for baseball's future stars trying to get into a national baseball league.

Expo officials, Bill MacKenzie, Claude St. Vincent and Pete Cavanaugh.

The Expo's annual tryout season was held at Centennial Ball Diamond for the first time. The three officials were delighted by the facilities and MacKenzie described the park as one of the "better ones in the province."

All in all there were 38 boys from the area - Kingston to Peterborough - turned out to the camp. On a comparative basis it was quite good since Toronto only had 19 players turn out.

The disconcerting part of the afternoon game when the three national baseball league club officials decided to hold the exhibition exhibition game.

The reason for the cancellation was that both of the catchers who turned out for the Expo were injured during the early workdays. One caught a foul tip in the end of his finger and split it open, the other three his shoulder while firing a ball to a base.

Since there was no one else around to handle the catching duties adequately enough for a game, it was cancelled.

Nevertheless the three Expo representatives took a long look at the available talent. "They were amazed by the excellent facilities here," they said, "and we were very impressed by the players."

Bradley suggested that the pair returned to read off a few of the rough errors and develop some of their weak points before next year's tryout.

Bill MacKenzie, however, is a different story. The local official, who made the trip the first time while playing minor league baseball, was a strong proponent.

MacKenzie's pitcher, who drew runs from the Expo for all the boys who came out to the camp there will be a couple of weeks before you find out how they are related.

The three Expo officials will tabulate their evaluations and if a youngster is considered good enough he will be invited to the Montreal camp.

In the event, if you don't make it this year Bill MacKenzie has already stated that he and his sons "will be back next year."

Broadloom Sweeps Set

CAMPBELLFORD (Special) - Belleville Broadloomers from the Provincial Women's Seaball Union Intermediate C series with Campbellford beat Wednesday night, taking an 18-15 win for the second straight in the three game series.

They were the extras. Kathy Bullough had a triple, with Janice Adamson and Sherry Wynne adding one hit each.

Mary Anne Sims and Sue Robert worked the win for Belleville, slowing 31 hits, and nine walks. The pair faced eight.

Leading the Belleville attack was Mary Anne Sims, with a double and first baseman Sue Robert had a pair of doubles and a pair of singles, with Norma Fuller contributing a home run, triple and single.

Great for Ducks: Marsh Facilities Include Feeding Stations
Hunters Turn Conservationists

Plan to Boost Shooting Paid Off for Wildlife

By HARRY MURRAY,
Staff Reporter

STIRLING — A couple of hunters who wanted to improve their chances for satisfactory shooting have become the best thing that has happened wildlife in this area.

Three years ago Ed McPherson and John Ray were producing the results of duck hunting in an Oak Hills marsh, long a favored local hunting area.

They formed a nature reserve, the wetland, close to it off and start a feeding program to attract the ducks.

The project worked as planned. But, there was no deer development.

The hunters became conservationists.

Today, the 30-acre marsh is one of the best places to see a variety of wildlife in the area.

There's never been as much bird life as there is now.

And they intend to keep it that way.

Ed and John are hunting in the marsh, but those who wish to observe wildlife in the natural setting are welcome.

The project originated in 1971 when Ed and John approached farmers who owned the marsh — and the surrounding area — and asked them to lease the area for a natural area.

The cooperative relationship became more enthusiastic as the years of the scheme evolved.

Ed and John are hunting in the marsh, but those who wish to observe wildlife in the natural setting are welcome.

Ed and John are hunting in the marsh, but those who wish to observe wildlife in the natural setting are welcome.

But, the working sites of the marsh are continuing to expand.

Currently, "each year a new project, they're breeding the birds — this year spring and summer — and releasing them to propagate wild throughout the preserve."

During the winter — when they had been in by November — they're organized a deer yard — to provide support for the big game and the marsh.

Ed believes deer now some they will be introduced in the preserve and regularly range the refuge. Plans — long absent in the surrounding marsh — have been resumed.

On their resources the habitat could never have realized its present dimensions.

Citizen Power

They say you can't fight City Hall. Or you can, but won't win anyway. Well, occasionally some brave souls have tried to fight the local administration but with as little success.

There are times also when the daddy of governments in this country, the one in Ottawa — falls flat on its face and some citizen or other wins the day. It does not happen all that often, but Macdonald-Baldwin is one of the few exceptions.

Demetri is an aircraft re-builder who put together a Japanese Zero fighter of the last war. The plane underwent landing gear troubles on a test flight and Demetri was charged with failing to report the accident as quickly as possible to the Ministry of Transport and with a couple of other technical matters arising from the incident.

The accident was reported however by the RCMP and this was recognized as sufficient by Judge Bruce McDonald who went on to criticize the federal government for wasting the court's time with the prosecution.

Public And Inflation

Moving from flying and the wild blue yonder to another feathered bird, the one called inflation, its inflationary tendencies — it may be asked if the individual can do anything to help bring this perplexing problem under control. Barring more than this is one that is being recommended, but what can we, when governments, agencies of government, and municipalities, do not set such of an example? Or what to do when that little left after bills are paid.

Costs are rising at a hurtling rate and there is not even as much as a hint that the recently re-elected government of Ontario, Province of Ontario, is doing anything to curb it. Increased production is also sound policy in an inflationary situation and we wonder how much has been achieved from the last election.

As for cost increases there have been protests at Ontario Hydro. A Kingston housewife, Irene Mooney, recently went before the Ontario Energy Board to oppose a Hydro bid to raise the wholesale rate by another 15 per cent by Jan. 1.

She said people on fixed incomes simply cannot afford the higher retail rates that would result.

How true! Inflation continues unchecked there may be little point in even going to the post and getting stamps, but so, and so, will be of increasingly questionable value.

Incidentally, where Hydro is concerned, one of its representatives — public relations director Jim Durand — told Belleville Kiwanis in May that the public should cooperate with the bill of war when it comes to making decisions concerning both.

That makes sense. Hydro should bear in mind the kind of complaint voiced by Mrs. Mooney who said that even cutting out Christmas lights and other power-wasting efforts had not prevailed against cost boosts by the utility. In fact her rhapsodies about brief shortages of the bills of various households had risen between 1971 and 1973.

Can the public help fight inflation then? At the present rate of going we win, say no. Inflation would appear to be winning hands down. Only a co-operative effort by the public and government, will succeed in bringing inflation under control. Active leadership, together with firm and inflexible policies, must come from government.

Children's Aid Staff Feels Provincial Pinch

By JIM SMELIE
Staff Reporter

Hastings County's Children's Aid Society, like many others across Ontario, is trying to do more with less money. At 174 inches, the six-year-old has been credited with being the biggest home in the country.

The children's aid staff, said Scott O'Neil, local supervisor of family services.

Mr. O'Neil and D. E. James, office manager, attended a meeting in Toronto July 31, to present government cuts in their budget.

There were representatives from one of 47 out of 28 Ontario children's aid societies that met in closed sessions that day.

Budget cuts range from 10 per cent to 17 per cent in Hamilton. Belleville's cut places it below the average. Some 32 societies were hit harder.

In Hastings County, the CAS attends to 128 children, the CAS has fewer resources for the children's aid staff.

It is this staff that stands in for the children's aid staff.

The 1968-69 budget for this year also includes a deficit of $38,000 from the previous year. We have to live on the cash we have to less opportunity to work with children in their own homes. We have fewer resources for the children's aid staff.

Mr. James, office manager, said he thought the timing of the budget cuts was wrong. He says no cutting back on the children's aid staff, and we need to be able to do as much as possible in the actual year.

"If they had waited four or five months, it would have been better. We have to live on the cash we have to like a cut. We will have to cut our services," said Mr. James.

The Hastings County CAS was advised that the government's plan through a letter dated July 22 and signed by Mr. MacDonald, the minister of social services.

Larry MacDonald, supervisor of children's services, said the society wasn't told why such a cut had to be made until this cuts were to be made.

en out of their homes if needed. Budgets are cut by 53 per cent.

It is Dr. MacDonald, executive director of the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies, said 80,000 children were living at home and being visited by society social workers to make sure their parents are not abusing or neglecting them.

If the societies cannot afford to do so, the children will be taken into the care of the province. This means that the children will be in a foster home or institution.

BC's Olympic Bid Comes to Dead End

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver-Greyhound bid for the 1976 Olympic Games was killed by the winter Olympic committee in a motion and Friday when it was largely by a provincial government.

The New Democratic Party government scotched the Vancouver-Greyhound Olympic Committee's hopes of obtaining the bid for the 1976 Winter Olympic Games in 1980, citing high costs and disruption of the province's long-term recreational goals.

"It was the final blow for the committee, which presented a bid for the 1976 Winter Games, only to see that offer turned down in favor of Denver. It then passed up to land the 1980 Olympics."

Denver later withdrew its bid to stage the Games after Colorado taxpayers refused to authorize the necessary expenditures. The 1976 Games were then awarded to Innsbruck, Austria, a previous Games site.

That run in with the idea of the provincial government, which suggested that the Games were "a white elephant" and that the province would be the worse for it, was not the only reason for the bid's failure. The committee planned to build a new stadium, rather than building new ones every four years.

Resource Minister Bill Bennett said in a press conference that the province would not support the bid for the 1980 Winter Games as a gesture to the recreation committee set up by the government.

They cited upturning of the highway from Vancouver to Whistler Mountain, about 80 km north of the city, where the committee planned to build a new stadium, as one reason for the turn-down.

They suggested that building new roads to accommodate expected volume of traffic.

IOC Publishes New Amateurism Draft

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The International Olympic Committee has published a new draft of its amateurism rules, which would allow a new rule on amateurism, but would not make any major changes to the existing rules.

The rules, to be presented to the IOC members in Vienna in September, would allow athletes to be paid for their services in the Olympics, but would not allow them to be paid for their services in other sports.

Main point at issue is whether professionals in one sport could be allowed to compete in another.

Hill Has Strange Putter

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Dave Hill's putter is acting a little strange.

"I'm making the long ones and missing the short ones," Hill said Friday after taking a two-hole lead in the second round of the $200,000 Western Valley golf tournament.

"That I know it well," he said. "On the long ones I'm just trying to get down in the hole, but on the short ones I'm just trying to get down in the hole."

"On the 15th hole, the one I should make, my Adam's apple is beating my brain out of my head," Hill said.

Hill dropped four putts of 10 feet or more and holed out a 10-yard shot from the fairway on an eagle two, on his way to a course record—matching his late 1973 record.

Tom Weiskopf, playing in his 10th year, also had a 75 and was alone in second place, six under par and two behind Hill's leading total.

"I played very, very well," said Weiskopf, who didn't make a par and missed only one green. "I'm very satisfied with my play."

Ken Kern of London, Ont., shot a 69 to qualify for the final but he had a 75 Thursday for a 144 total.

Ken Stokich, Albany, Minn.; Lee Trevino and Gary Player were competing in the final that immediately precedes next week's PGA national championship.

would cost between $50 and $100 million.

Committee members disputed that claim, saying that the government had inflated the number of spectators.

Mr. Williams suggested more people in the province would be interested in the games if it were held in an already-existing recreation plant, rather than build new money for the Olympics.

The winter work that's already been carried out by Mr. Reid in terms of recreation facilities established across the province on a scale we've never seen before," said Mr. Williams.

The ministers also suggested that putting the Olympics into the winter area would provide a boost to private recreation facilities in the region, which would be very timely.

The government recently dropped a three-on-one demand in the winter area for a new stadium, a previous Games plan.

The committee, while admitting the bid was not a realistic proposition with the aid of the province, carried out the plan.

Mr. Taylor, vice-president of the Olympic committee, said the bid was not a realistic proposition with the aid of the province, carried out the plan.

Expos Make Use of Pair Of Mistakes by Carlton

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Philly Steve Carlton of Philadelphia made two mistakes in his first game, and the Expos made use of them to take a 3-2 National League baseball victory.

"I don't think he wanted to throw that pitch, but pitchers don't want to throw a ball that's going to be hit," said Carlton, who said his thirdinning homer had given the Expos a 1-0 lead.

Bob Bailey hit Carlton's second pitch, a 90-mph fastball, into the park, and a drive later took advantage of a mistake by Carlton to make it 2-0.

Carlton, in a night game, struck out three batters in the sixth, seventh and eighth, but still was not able to get the game back on a 3-2 lead.

"I never worry about statistics," he said. "I just try to get three outs in an inning and win the game. That came at a moment when they could have said game. Statistics just put unnecessary pressure on a guy."

In other games, Pittsburgh Pirates defeated St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 in 14 innings. Los Angeles Dodgers topped San Diego Padres 3-1 in 11 innings. Cincinnati Reds topped Cleveland Indians 4-0.

Ron Hunt led the Montreal team with a double, Fred McGriff hit a home run, and Larry Leadner scored in the eighth. Steve Harvey, 11, hit a home run, and Chuck Taylor hit the ninth in the eighth.

Here's one reason why Canadians were kept warm last winter.

An important reason for this happy result was that the oil industry was able to react quickly to sudden and drastic changes in the supplies of heating oil in parts of Canada.

As a case in point, Texaco promptly increased to maximum our capacity to make fuel oil in order to supply the looming shortage in Eastern Canada. We increased our fuel oil storage capacity at Halifax. Then we chartered extra tankers to move crude oil into the Montreal area through the seaway. 35 jumbo tank cars were added to improve distribution of products in Eastern Canada. And to further make sure that sufficient supplies would be available, we shipped crude oil from Vancouver through the Panama Canal to our eastern Canadian refineries.

Don't think for a moment that the above example is intended to create the impression that Texaco alone averted what could have been a crisis. We have used our own experience to illustrate the situation. The fact is, the oil industry reacted in this fashion, to avert what was shaping up as a severe fuel oil shortage for many Canadians.

Right now we are thinking about future winters—that's why we decided to proceed now with our new 400 million dollar refinery in Ontario. Without it central Canada would soon be seriously short of refining capacity. This 400 million dollar investment is equal to more than seven times our 1973 earnings! When an oil company earns a profit, that's how most of it is used—it's "plowed back" into the business to make sure that you continue to be well served.

The oil industry in Canada was born and raised in an environment of competitive enterprise, and the record shows that we have done a good job. The question that bothers us, and we hope it concerns you too, is that we need this kind of 'no-meddling' environment to continue to grow. Because if we're going to meet Canada's future needs, we must grow. To do that we need adequate profits which provide a fair return on investment. The oil industry lives, or dies, on these economic realities because they in turn attract the enormous amounts of private 'risk' capital needed for exploration and development. Today these needs are greater than ever, and without this type of investment capital, Canadians will risk lack of development to provide their future energy needs.

The oil industry has come this far on its own. We know that in the future we can continue to meet Canada's energy needs...but we're going to need understanding from you—and co-operation from our governments.

Diesel Fuel Spills

HALIFAX (CP) — A break in the heavy fog is needed to allow a team of military, transport and environment officials to arrive today at Sackville, N.S., to tackle the clean-up of a spill of 300,000 gallons of diesel fuel.

Officials of the three departments involved in organizing the operation said Monday night in Halifax that they were prepared for the clean-up were expected to wait in Goose Bay, Nfld., until the fog lifts.

A Canadian Forces spokesman said environment and transport departments experts and 12 navy divers were waiting in the central Labrador community.

Arrived forces planes will fly them to Sackville, 400 miles north of Goose Bay. Their equipment, including a 7,000-litre portable tank to control oil slicks, and dispersion gear, may also be taking.

The oil spilled Sunday after being pumped into land-based storage tanks by the Canadian tanker ship St. Joseph. The ship, Capt. Harry Provost of Canada, said it had been "considerably damaged" by the spill and waves.

The remainder of the oil, said he had heavier than ordinary kerosene oil, was reported later to be collected in a five-mile long slick.

The spill is the largest of its kind since the tanker Exxon ran aground at Sackville Bay, about 125 miles from the northern tip of Labrador, in rocky and barren waters. It was little likelihood of oil-spilled lands and wildlife.

The spill was expected to harm to marine life.

Municipal Unity Advocated

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's municipalities would have a more effective voice in the province with the provincial and federal governments if they joined forces in a single body, the Association of Municipalities of Ontario (AMO) said in a statement in its annual council meeting Monday.

The AMO is the largest of four municipal associations in Ontario, with delegates to the four-day conference here representing 45 of the province's 300 municipalities.

The association said in a statement its prime objective is to bring all 300 municipalities into one organization.

If this objective is achieved, the four associations could pool their resources and eliminate the need for the municipal liaison committee, D. G. Newman, chairman of the committee, said in an interview.

The 13-member committee represents provincial government representatives twice a month to coordinate municipal policy. The other three associations are the Ontario Association of Municipalities, the Ontario Association of Counties, and the Ontario Association of Towns.

Mr. Newman said an amalgamation of the four bodies would reduce duplication of work and save money.

Paul Godfrey, New Toronto chairman, said the conference municipalities must have access to a share of the federal income tax cuts with no conditions attached to receive municipal responsibility and autonomy. A united front would help achieve that.

Mr. Godfrey said funds "laid down through the inter-governmental process" pick up the reins and regulations that "waste the capacity of municipal councils to respond to changing community needs."

Costs May Force Farm Prices Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Increased food costs may force farm product prices higher, says the Minister of Agriculture, John G. Newman.

Speaking Sunday on the CTV television program Question Period, the minister said farmers are "not any different, thus any other part of society" and that their input costs increase, farm prices will increase.

As an example, Mr. Whelan said the restricted supply of soybeans, the major source of protein feed, has forced producers to seek more expensive feed sources, thus pushing up input costs.

Last Thursday, Mr. Whelan announced that farmers would be paid $1.41 for a hundred pounds of soybeans, an increase of 81 cents.

He said the increase is necessary to stimulate high production while giving producers "a reasonable farm price."

Mr. Whelan said the product for our consumer is right here in Canada and that it may go to make sure that the money they pay in business to produce those products," he said.

Unwed 'Widow' Awarded Estate

BALFAS (CP) — A widow has been awarded the net $1.2 million of her husband's estate by the House of Commons Supreme Court. The decision was not legally challenged.

The decision came after a five-year court battle by the widow's 12 brothers and sisters who claimed entitlement to the estate because the couple was not legally married.

Chief Justice Sir James Callaghan ruled in a decision that Dorothy Spence, formerly of Montreal, was the widow of the late John Spence, a doctor and contractor, in 1947. The couple had lived together for 20 years before his first husband died in January, 1971. His estate did not exceed $1.2 million.

Chief Justice Sir James Callaghan, in his decision, said the 1947 marriage contract was null and void because the couple was not legally married. The couple was still married to each other in 1971 and then remarried in 1972.

Rhodes Considers Cut in Speed Limit

TORONTO (CP) — John Rhodes, Ontario minister of transportation and communications, says he is considering recommending a reduction in highway speeds in the province.

Mr. Rhodes said in an interview Monday that the highway ministry's "safety" or "the highways made him sick."

He said he is expecting accident statistics in two weeks and if they show excessive speed is a major factor in the highway deaths, he will recommend a cut in speed limits.

Cass Elliott's Death Caused by Overweight

LONDON (Reuter) — Singing out an autopsy on the singer's body last week, Prof. Keith Simpson, said the singer died of natural causes, a coroner ruled Monday.

Coroner Gavin Thurston said a pathologist's report indicated that the 39-year-old singer died of "acute myocardial degeneration due to her overweight."

The pathologist who conducted the autopsy reported that Miss Elliott may have died after chocking over a sandwich were discussed by friends who gave evidence that a sandwich found inside the singer's body had not been touched.

Dr. Simpson said Miss Elliott was twice the proper weight for her height of five feet five inches. He said his report was a degradation of muscle fibres throughout the body.

TORONTO (CP) — Andrej turned in Toronto after (striking) 17 days publicly in front of him and four other Canadian students on the plight of Ukraine. Three other Canadian students outside the British Embassy in Ottawa probably have joined the strike.

"That we've done has probably ensured that Maren won't be allowed to die," said Mr. Maren, 23, associate editor of the Ukrainian weekly newspaper, Pravda.

"The public awareness of the issue wouldn't allow it because the Soviets like to have a favorable image abroad. We can only hope they'll be sympathetic."

Postmen's President Charged with Mischievous

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph Davidson, president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, has been charged with mischief after an incident at Toronto International Airport Sunday.

Peel Regional Police said Monday.

Police said a man carrying a briefcase approached a ticket counter at the airport. When he was asked what was in the brief case, he replied: "Nothing but a toothbrush and a brush."

3 'BEST' TIRES

ALL OF THEM CANADIAN MADE

The WHIPPET...

BEST BEST TIRE FOR SOFTEST RIDE

The POLYFLEX...

BEST BEST PRICES IN A BELTED TIRE

The MULTI-CORD 'FIBRE B'...

BEST BEST BIAS-PLY TIRE MADE

One of these tires is BEST for you—

The 'best' tire is one that suits you and your requirements best—whether you're looking for mileage potential, high-speed action, traction, car-handling etc. (Remember, the most expensive is not necessarily the best for you.) Examine these 3 great performers and judge for yourself.

The Whippet—Best for Softest Ride

Constructed of twin plies of stronger-than-average Du Pont 66 Nylon, the Whippet won't give you the long mileage of a belted tire but will more than compensate with its cushioned "limousine-style" ride. And that means savings on shocks and other running-gear repairs. Best-suited for high-speed highways.

Polyflex—Best Prices in a Belted Tire

An exciting new breed of tire, constructed of 2 Polyester Belts and 2 plies of Nylon. Captures much of the best characteristics of both belted and non-belted constructions. A cushioned, safe ride. No question about it, Polyflex is outstanding value. (See Nevada Test results posted in Canadian Tire stores.)

Multi-Cord 'Fibre B'—Best Bias-Ply made

Nylon Polyester Fibre Construction (see catalogue for details). A 'best buy' if you intend your current car to do more than 40,000 miles. Fibre B is a Du Pont cord developed specifically for high-performance tires. Replaces steel because of its fantastic strength—5 times stronger. Can't kick like steel or fall like glass.

All tires shown are 5-Year Road Hazard Guaranteed and Wear-Out Insured (See particulars in your local Canadian Tire Store). Discount for each in line of Bonus Coupons.

Like tires on NEW CARS before '69

The Contender—Rugged Four-Ply Polyester...

Twin-ply Polyester was popular new-car tire equipment in those years before 1969—prior to introduction of long-mileage belted tires. Our Contender is similar construction except that it's 4-ply instead of twin-ply. A much stronger, more enduring tire. At a very modest price too!

5-Year Road Hazard Insured. 20% 24-Month Pre-paid Wear-Out Discount Allowance.

'Butter' Was Oleo

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Harry Hubbard, 41, of Mississauga, Ont., was fined $200 on 60 days jail Tuesday for selling 200 pounds of butter to a couple from Brantford who thought they were buying butter. Hubbard was chief of the ministry of agriculture after a sample of the product was analyzed.

High-wire Walked

NEW YORK (Reuters) — A French President denied going to the polls today to win a high-wire between the two forces of the World Trade Center here. The man, identified as Philippe de Nemours, walked back and forth several times between the two 110-story towers, 1,500 feet above the streets of Manhattan's financial district.

CAIRO (Reuters) — Egyptian-Libyan relations deteriorated today when President Anwar Sadat accused Libyan leader Col. Muammar Gaddafi of masterminding sabotage attempts in Egypt.

Principal Demoted

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — The Durham Region separate school board voted 10 to 2 Tuesday to demote an Oshawa school principal to teacher. The trustees said Larry Crockett could no longer function adequately as a principal in the Durham separate school system because of his past rejection of board policies and his inability to work with board personnel.

Lake Swim Planned

TORONTO (CP) — A 14-year-old Toronto girl says she will swim across the lake in five weeks this month when she will attempt to beat the record of 14 hours and 45 minutes set by a woman across Lake Ontario 20 years ago. Angela Koudounis, 14, of Toronto, says she will swim from the Toronto Islands to the north shore of Lake Ontario, a 14-mile trip.

NICOSIA (CP) — A nervous, angry atmosphere settled over the Canadian camp today following the death of Pte. Joseph Lionel Gilbert Perron, shot during the night by hidden gunmen during a United Nations peacekeeping operation in the Turkish Cypriot area.

Sources said the 29-year-old Montreal native was in a jeep with two other soldiers attempting to enter Turkish-Cypriot territory in this divided city when the incident took place.

He was shot twice in the back by a hidden gunman while the three were stopped at a checkpoint on a bridge on the side of the Turkish enclave. Military sources said the shot came from the direction of the Turkish-Cypriot but there was no immediate official confirmation of this report.

The driver of the jeep immediately turned around and headed for the Canadian headquarters at the Ledra Palace Hotel where Perron was loaded into an ambulance and taken to a military hospital.

The Canadian's regiment, the 2nd Airborne, is based in Cyprus since April 1974. The regiment had been in Cyprus since April 1974. The regiment had been in Cyprus since April 1974.

After that incident, Senior Gen. Tower (then T-1) said that the incident was a "great error" and that the Canadian's should be "greatly disappointed" and that the Canadian's should be "greatly disappointed" and that the Canadian's should be "greatly disappointed".

The Texas Republican, chairman of the party's policy committee, said that there is "great concern" that the president does not perhaps comprehend the great hatred he faces in the Turkish Cypriot area.

Other sources said the major U.S. favored resignation is withdrawing and that "there was expression of support" for the resignation. A press release said that the Canadian's should be "greatly disappointed" and that the Canadian's should be "greatly disappointed".

Vice-President Gerald Ford went about 30 minutes at the luncheon, sketching for several minutes before he left to return to his own view of the matter but supporters to keep them from leaving.

Ford conducted himself "very unbecomingly," said Tower, and then left at the luncheon to go to the dinner the next night. Tower said he was "greatly disappointed" and that the Canadian's should be "greatly disappointed".

The spokesman confirmed what other White House sources disclosed Monday night: that Nixon again expressed during the weekend whether to resign, "but the president did not choose that route."

After another another, Warren said Nixon issued a statement and made public the partial transcript of three more White House recordings disclosing his attempt to disavow a conversation with his own handwriting of the "Watergate" scandal.

Warren said Nixon's cabinet to a Tuesday White House press conference and that he would say he "wants to say to you that I am not going to resign."

Today's Checkle
One unhappy looker at the White House said he was "greatly disappointed" and that the Canadian's should be "greatly disappointed".

Nixon's Top Aide Confers With Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House chief of staff Alexander Haig said today that he had met with Vice President Gerald Ford today on demands made by Nixon to resign.

The meeting in Ford's office was a "very serious" one, Haig said. He said that the two men "exchanged views on the current situation," but refused to elaborate, saying: "That's all I can tell you."

Earlier, White House sources acknowledged that a presidential resignation letter was being drafted by the president's chief of staff.

"It is all options are open," said one source. Another agreed, saying that despite Nixon's view to his cabinet, Tuesday that he has no intention of resigning, "the situation is fluid."

Complaints to Pictou Council House Permit Regulations Ignored, Claims Inspector

PICTOU — Complaints from Pictou building planning inspector Hector Brooks concerning builders who neglect to follow the required plumbing bylaws have prompted action from town council.

Mr. Brooks, said that two individuals have consistently ignored the existing plumbing permits. He said he has been "out to first base with them." The inspector reported that one man had plumbing installed at a house without obtaining a permit, and another had installed a plumbing permit without a building permit.

"I've written them letters, but they just don't come and I'm not going to sit in the middle of the road and watch them," said Mr. Brooks.

Liquor: Village Votes

FRANKFORD — Close to 120 voters today decided whether this village of 2,000 people will have licensed dining lounges and cocktail bars.

Results of the vote will be made public Thursday.

The plebiscite was prompted by a letter to village council earlier this year. It said Frankford should increase its liquor outlets as an attraction to tourists like those visiting this tourist village.

At present, Frankford has a liquor store and a brewer's retail outlet, established in 1972. The local Canadian Legion serves drinks only to members.

No Response

PICTOU — Advertisements offering free fire inspections to homeowners have failed to elicit response here.

Donna Ross, spokeswoman for the fire committee chairman, Tuesday told town council the advertisements drew only six responses.

The advertisements were hand-drawn and said the fire department was offering a free fire inspection to homeowners who requested one by the owner's phone call.

Mr. Ross said the advertisements were hand-drawn and said the fire department was offering a free fire inspection to homeowners who requested one by the owner's phone call.

Additional six homes were inspected in July by fire department inspectors.

Deputy-councilor Larry Richardson said the value of random inspections is not known. He noted in July the fire department quadrupled its usual number of inspections.

Town solicitor Jack Ward said if the bylaws relating to permits is interpreted correctly, they can be laid in provincial court.

Mr. Ward said he thought sewerage connections were made by the town works department. He suggested the department paid refuse to install them to property here.

He said the individual seeking service.

The solicitor suggested that restrictions as to installing lateral connections to the problem. He was supported by Mr. Brooks.

Council passed a motion that the public works superintendent be directed not to install lateral connections to the property until the necessary plumbing permits are obtained.

Deputy-councilor Larry Richardson moved a second motion directing the building inspector to report all violations of the plumbing bylaws to the town solicitor. That official will be instructed to take necessary action after discussion.

Public Opinions Sought On Outlet Expansion Plans

OUTLET — Public input for a master plan for Odet-Sandwich provincial parks now being promoted by the natural resources ministry.

Comptroller and day editor at Outlet Park last weekend received written notices of the goals and objectives of a master plan for the parks.

The need for park expansion and importance of a new design strategy was discussed in the leaflets distributed to visitors.

Since Outlet and Sandbach provincial parks were incorporated in the provincial park system in 1968, the number of visitors has increased from 1,000 to 12,000 in 1973.

"These areas have been noticeably affected by this increased visitation than Outlet Park," states the leaflet.

With the increased environmental damage "has risen to a level which indicates that the number of visitors has well surpassed this area's carrying capacity."

In addition, overcrowded campsites need to be redesigned between campsites.

To maintain the parks' potential recreational areas without present problems, ministry has purchased adjoining land and begun work on a master plan.

Purpose of the plan is to formulate a goal for the park and define the type and quantity of facilities and services it will provide.

Present and future requirements must be estimated, including public needs and interests, and use of recreational facilities.

A resource inventory and analysis of all physical aspects of the area will be conducted.

Resource potential will be related to planning goals. Requirements and ways suggested to satisfy them.

There will be estimates and plans to minimum costs in order to obtain the maximum use of tax dollars. Tangible and intangible values of facilities and services will be estimated against potential alterations.

The master plan will be used in the planning process. It will be presented to the District Office, ministry of natural resources, Pictou, N.S.

Deadlines for replies is Sept. 15. This will permit time for compiling and analyzing the data. After the Sept. 15 deadline, the park and facilities they would consider potential alterations.

Pictou Will Hire Engineer

PICTOU — Town council voted $15,000 to employ a town engineer.

Deputy-councilor Larry Richardson, who moved to hire a town engineer, said Pictou now is faced with increased planning demands.

The draft official plan for Pictou Edward County has been introduced. If adopted, a prince-fair for Pictou will follow.

Recent development in town indicates a corresponding need for planning, he said.

The motion was opposed by councillors Robert Ingham, Bruce Ward and Russell Alexander.

Councillor Alexander noted the cost created by the new post and questioned.

He said the town engineer's salary will be $12,000 to $15,000.

Paddle-wheeler Planned For St. John River Service

SANIT JOHN, N.B. (C) — may be playing New Brunswick An 1800-year-old paddle-wheeler tugboat, designed by the St. John to ferry docks along the river and its tributaries. He said such a boat would open up to tourists more than 100 miles of the inland waterways of the river, which empties into the Bay of Fundy in June. Also after winding its way across the western part of New Brunswick and through Fredericton. The Victoria, a 200-foot, 1,000-ton vessel that plied the river government, under the St. John River Historic Trade Act. It would cost about $1 million to build the tugboat, which would be owned by the provincial government, has been encouraging he said. The vessel would be named after Queen Victoria's port, funding for the project would come from the federal government, under the St. John River Historic Trade Act. and might carry an odd-shaped brass band. The committee has been studying the project since last year and collecting historical data on the river and the paddle-wheelers. The Victoria was chosen because it was the largest and fastest of the riverboats. It carried 900 passengers on its last run in 1914. It was built during the Diamond Jubilee year, marking the 60th anniversary of Queen Victoria's reign.

Ottawa Expects Cabinet Shuffle

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau is expected to shuffle his cabinet this week, and there are indications that at least some of the decisions have already been made.

Source: A. the environment department have said they may lose today who will replace John D. Davis, defeated in the July 1 federal election while holding the environment portfolio.

And another source has said the decision has been made to move Allan MacEachren, president of the Privy Council, out of that post.

Mr. Trudeau is expected to announce the shuffle by Friday, and a news conference on the subject could come even earlier.

Speculation revolves mainly around External Affairs Minister Michael Sherry, Foreign Minister John Turner and Justice Minister Otto Lang. Mr. Sherry is considered a key personality in any shuffle, because external affairs is the senior portfolio after the prime minister himself. If the post were vacated, other ministers would move up a notch, some could be moved sideways and there would be room for one or two new members of cabinet.

Observers feel it is unlikely the prime minister would push Mr. Sherry aside, however, both because domestic do not come easily to ministers who have been in the cabinet for 11 years and because Mr. Trudeau has never been inclined to demote ministers.

There is the possibility that Mr. Sherry might ask for a

Secrets Expecting No Trouble

OTTAWA (CP) — Realistically, Tuesday he does not expect difficulties in arranging for Social Credit to function as an unofficially-recognized party in the House of Commons. Only 11 Social Credit candidates were elected to Parliament, and the 7th federal election, one short of the minimum 12 MPs required for official recognition in the last House. The number is irrelevant to the status of each Parliament.

The Social Credit leader told reporters Prime Minister Trudeau and Stanley Knowles, New Democratic Party house leader, have both agreed to give the party official status. Only the Conservatives had yet to be approached.

Mr. Connelley was interviewed after and other members of the party were seen in official capacity.

He said the other parties would like to avoid a debate in the House around the recognition of Social Credit.

"But they would, I think, object to an announcement to the effect because they wouldn't like to create any precedent by giving any precedent by giving any other group (of less than 12) would come in and say, 'There, we want to form a party.'"

Mr. Connelley's party standing would give Social Credit the right to reply to questions during the House session, provide funds to support their party and would mean extra pay for his Constituency party leader, and for a party leader.

Tuesday's swearing-in ceremony would see the arrival for Mr. Connelley who was first elected to Parliament in 1948 and has not continued for the northwestern Quebec riding of Timiskaming since 1962.

FOR MY OWN AMUSEMENT — OVERTURE FOR BEGINNERS — F. R. Delderdfield.
Mr. Delderdfield is a very popular novelist and playwright but we have heard little about his early career. We now have two volumes of reminiscences written sometimes seriously and sometimes lightheartedly, as he recalls boyhood in Bermuda and working as a reporter in Buffalo, Salton, etc. example, he describes Bernard Shaw down on a hotel floor sketching the rival merits of troop movements by French and English commanders at Waterloo. The war saw Mr. Delderfield in the RAF and later he was in public relations with the Air Ministry. A good book to dip into or to read straight through.

POST-MORTEM — David M. Spain.

Some of the most prominent trials of the past 10 years have turned on post-mortem evidence uncovered by Dr. Spain. In this book by a pathologist, the part of modern medical technology in 13 cases of unnatural death. He is a crusader for medical truth and has often had to fight prejudiced officials, large corporations and racial bias. The new science of forensic medicine is playing a part in changing the American system of justice.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE PURPLE MARTIN — J. L. Wade

Why a book about the purple martin? Because each baby martin costs $2.00 mosquitoes a day! This book tells the story of Griggsville, Illinois and its adoption of the purple martin as a form of insect control. The program was begun in 1962 and has spread to other areas of the central United States, as well as eliciting enquiries from all over the continent.

HOMESTEADING — HOW TO FIND NEW INDEPENDENCE ON THE LAND — Gene Louden.

Mr. Louden says he is writing for the modern "homesteader" — the family seeking the independence that comes from raising one's own food. Whether you have half an acre or a hundred acres you can have something from your garden every month of the year. A practical program is outlined, from the first planting to the last harvest.

JOHN RAMSAY OF KILDALTON — Freda Ramsay.

John Ramsay, Laird of Kildalton, was a nineteenth century businessman who resided on the Scottish island ofIslay. Wealthy himself, and a humane man, he was distressed at the poverty of the people on his lands and he encouraged and assisted many to emigrate to Canada. Then in 1870, he himself came to Canada to hear the missionaries were getting along. He found them prospering and

Theatre Plans Expanded Program

Paul Kirby, co-ordinator of events, said plans include children's matinees, a stage school production, Christmas show, a midnight production and tacting workshops.

The objective, he said, is to broaden the opportunity for involvement in the guild and provide experience for those interested in the stage.

As a result, Mr. Kirby said the guild is open to any suggestions for other programs for production between the four full-scale plays the guild mounts each season.

CP News Roundup

Workers On Hydro Jobs Idle

TORONTO (CP) — No negotiations are scheduled between Ontario Hydro and members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) who went on strike Tuesday.

About 1,200 electricians and linemen on 10 construction projects did not report for work Tuesday. Hank Schuster, IBEW business agent, said: "He said the union is waiting for Hydro to set up further talks."

A spokesman for Hydro said the union must take the first step to resume negotiations. Major Hydro projects affected by the strike include new and generating plants at Niagara Falls, including 25 IBEW workers. Another 300 men were called out of the Bruce nuclear power generating station at Douglas Point last Wednesday.

The dispute concerns out-of-pocket allowances for workers, seniority and free room and board; and extra pay for men travelling to work sites. Hydro says it is not an issue.

The Hydro spokesman said service to customers will not be affected by the strike.

The union, whose last agreement expired in July, 1973, has been in a legal position to go on strike since July 28.

Electricians and linemen employed at the Hydro sites currently earn $7.20 to $9 an hour.

Disclosure Advocated

TORONTO (CP) — All municipal politicians should be urged to disclose the nature of any possible conflict of interest, says a committee of the Ontario Council of Municipalities.

The committee's trustees said it is not enough a councillor to declare if he has a conflict of interest, "committee chairman" Charles O'Neil of the association's executive.

"The committee believes that a councillor has a mortgage as a property under discipline, or whether he is a shareholder in a contracting company, it matters."

This is the only way that the full extent and duration of conflicts can be judged."

Assassin Dies

KARACHI (AP) — A man was killed in an abortive attempt to assassinate Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto last Friday, the Pakistani government announced Tuesday. The home minister of Baluchistan province, Ghous Raza, speaking to the provincial assembly, said that a young Baluchi tribesman made the bid on Bhutto's life as the prime minister was speaking at a public meeting in Quetta.

Reduce Aides

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives passed and sent to the Senate on Tuesday a compromise bill to limit the number of high-paid White House assistants to the president. Passage was by a voice vote. The president has 14 top-level staff men each of whom earns $42,000 a year. The bill would require that this number be reduced to 12 by Jan. 1, 1976, and to eight from Jan. 30, 1977, and thereafter.

49 Fires

TORONTO (CP) — The mid-level of natural resources Tuesday reported 49 forest fires burning in Ontario, with only four small blazes not under control.

There were 38 fires in the northwestern region, 24 of these in the Kenora district, with 10 fires in the north-central and one in the eastern region. The fire danger rating is high in the northwest, moderate in the north-central and low elsewhere.

Will Run

QUEBEC (CP) — Maurice Bellemare, 61-year-old, retired leader of the Union Nationale party, announced Tuesday he will be a candidate in the Aug. 26 by-election in Johnson riding.

Sudbury MP to Be Nominated as Speaker

OTTAWA (CP) — James Leeson, MP for Sudbury since 1967, will be nominated Speaker of the Commons, Prime Minister announced Tuesday.

If elected by the Commons, he will succeed James Lamm, who did not contest the July 4 election.

A native of Kingston, Ont., Mr. Leeson was chairman of the Commons justice committee in the last Parliament and served as a member of the House of Commons since 1967.

He graduated from the University of Toronto's Osgoode Hall law school and practised in Sudbury.

Serving as a Sudbury alderman in 1965-67, he was unsuccessful in a federal by-election in the riding in 1967 and then won in the Trades Liberal sweep of Ontario the following year.

He is married with four children and lives in an apartment in Toronto's Osgoode Hall.

He is elected by the Commons, he will succeed James Lamm, who did not contest the July 4 election.

Dutch Couple Renewing Canadian Friendships

HALIFAX (CP) — For two years, the Second World War. Gerald Aders, 40, and his wife, Mrs. Aders, 38, have returned to their home in the Netherlands after a long absence. The couple had been in Canada for 10 years, during which time they had built a life for themselves and their two children, who were born in Halifax.

When the war broke out in 1939, the Aders family was in the Netherlands. They were forced to flee their home and spent time in various refugee camps. In 1945, they were liberated and returned to their home in the Netherlands. However, they found that their home had been destroyed and they had no family left.

The Aders family moved to Halifax in 1946. They found work and eventually started a business. They became friends with a Canadian family, the Smiths. The Smiths were a Dutch family who had also fled the Netherlands during the war. They had come to Canada in 1945 and had been in Halifax for a few years.

The Aders family and the Smith family became very close friends. They spent a lot of time together and the children became very close. In 1950, the Aders family decided to return to the Netherlands. They had been in Canada for five years and they wanted to see if they could rebuild their life in their home country.

When they returned to the Netherlands, they found that their home had been destroyed and they had no family left. They were forced to live in a small, crowded apartment in a city that was still recovering from the war.

The Aders family decided to return to Canada. They had heard that life was better in Canada and they wanted to see if they could rebuild their life there. They moved back to Halifax in 1955. They found work and eventually started a business. They became friends with the Smith family again.

weapons to be used against our people." German troops searched the house, searching three or four times a week. "It was very strange," Aders said. "They would shoot at him using live ammunition, and the always showed back in the same manner."

"How should I now where my husband is? You took him the very first day so it is to you who had better tell me." "Then often the soldiers would want to apologize, explaining that they were only doing their duty." The Aders family and the Smith family became very close friends. They spent a lot of time together and the children became very close.

"We were living opposite a school that had been used by the Germans as barracks," Aders recalled. "When the Canadians took over the school to billet their men, hardly any windows were left in the building. We had quite a big house, so we lived in a number of them to live with."

Eighteen months later, the last of about 50 Canadian soldiers who stayed at the Aders' home left when Allied occupation ended. "We had a very pleasant time with them, all of the best of memories," Aders said. "He and his 50-year-old wife have come to Canada almost 30 years later to see once again. The boys who were so much to us are sitting at a table covered with old photographs and letters to a home in the Netherlands."

"If the Germans saw a man with long hair, they knew right away that he had been hiding," Mrs. Aders said. "The couple had a radio in the house, and they listened to the BBC with a small group of friends."

One day two Dutch police men entered and went directly to where the radio was hidden. "Luckily they were good soldiers," Mrs. Aders said. "They had interpreted an anonymous letter sent to the Germans and told them to search it. If the letter had been found, our house could have been burned to the ground."

"You can see, how close we were to the end of the world," Mrs. Aders said. "It was a very close call. The couple had a radio in the house, and they listened to the BBC with a small group of friends."

Wooden Nickels Once Legal Tender

POMONA, Calif. (AP)—Rejected wooden nickels and their Don't take any wooden nickels were legal. Remember that nickel? With the value of the dollar during the Depression, the fluctuating from day to day, citizens of Blaine, Wash., so-wooden money has turned out to be a good investment too, al- though it is no longer legal ten- der. Legal wooden money was first issued in Tempe, Wash., when the local bank failed in December 1933, says Earl O'Cahey, the president of the Western Money Association, headquartered in this Los Angeles suburb. The town's newspaper pub- lisher and the Chamber of Com- merce joined forces to obtain congressional approval for the first legal wooden money issued in the United States. The Tempe money, O'Cahey explains, was in the form of bills. "The money was made by laminating two thin slices of wood to a sheet of bond paper." Because the money was made of flexible cut spruce and was roughly the same rectangular shape as paper money, Tempe citizens could carry it in their wallets. It wasn't until 1933 that a legal wooden nickel was issued. The bank in Blaine failed that year and the citizens followed the lead of Tempe and issued wooden money. But Blaine issued its money in the form of coins. Perhaps because the Blaine coins did not have an expiration date and them as the Tempe bills did, O'Cahey's rejected wooden money from legal tender a few years later, says O'Cahey. A 78-year-old retired construction engineer, those two cities are the only ones to ever have legal wooden money in the United States. Even though wooden money is no longer legal tender, it re- mains legal to this day if it is intended for use in only one

THE INTELLIGENCER, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 7, 1974 15 business, says O'Cahey. During the Depression many chopkeepers continued giving their private wooden coins to customers in payment. It is likely that the saying, "Don't take any wooden nickels," originated with a Spokane mother ex-horting her child not to accept change any pretender issued wooden tokens, O'Cahey says.

Today a Blaine wooden nickel is worth more than $1.00 and climbing upwards annually. Wooden money is owned by the more than 100 members of the California Wooden Money Asso- ciation and by coin collectors across the country. O'Cahey owns the first bill issued in Tempe and the first wooden nickel from Blaine.

Value of Permits Rises But Unit Starts Decline

By COLIN BRUCE

Staff Reporter

The number of residential units in Belleville is falling, but the value of the permits issued for the construction of new units has doubled during the same period, says the city's building inspection department.

In the first six months of this year, residential building permits valued at $2.4 million were issued, compared to $1.2 million for the same period in 1973.

A major factor in the increase is the rise in the value of building permits issued for the construction of new units. The value of these permits has risen from $100,000 to $200,000.

Mr. DeLoraine, a spokesman for Belleville's Building and City Trust, said that the value of these permits has risen because of the increase in the cost of building materials.

For the prospective buyer, the value of these permits is also a reflection of the increase in the cost of building materials.

Mr. DeLoraine said that the value of these permits has risen because of the increase in the cost of building materials.

Authority Will Try Reservoir Increase

The Moira River Conservation Authority is going to experiment on the possible effects of increasing the water level at its 1,000-acre Deer Lake reservoir in Kildare township. The authority executive committee at its July meeting voted to increase the height of the dam slightly by four inches to determine whether any additional reservoir capacity will have an injurious effect on lake shore areas.

If there are no injurious effects from the increased spill way height, the additional four-inch spillway will be left permanently. The Deer Rock Lake dam on Partridge Creek, north of Plattsburgh, was completed by the authority in 1971 at a cost of $20,000, of which 90 per cent was paid by the federal and provincial governments. The dam, officially opened in October, 1971, was the largest single project of the authority in its 15-year history.

Sun Valley Streaker Detained

Streaking hasn't been in the news lately but a 19-year-old man was arrested on an attempt to break into Sun Valley.

Police police report that he answered a call about 11:30 p.m. when he arrived at the Sun Valley.

The police said that he was wearing a wet suit, left his clothes in the washroom, got as far as the lobby and returned to find his clothes missing. He was detained and police arrested.

The Village of Stirling has received $2,000 a year for four years while the only other grant came from Stirling Township council for $10,000.

The township grant was made with the condition that if the area is not incorporated within the next three years, the money plus interest is to be returned to the township, a township official spokesman said today.

"We'll either be building soon or we won't be building soon," said Mr. Bush. He said he has told the township that at least $30,000 will be needed to replace the Stirling area, which he described as the oldest covered area in the township.

Mr. Bush said there has been some talk of building the area into a private membership organization.

He said a great deal about private shares, he said, "It's tough to raise grant money."

Investigation by city police has resulted in a 17-year-old city youth being charged with theft and possession of stolen goods.

Mr. Edward LaFave of West Huron, 26, was charged following a break-in at a service station on Station Street recently.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Five new members-entrants Tuesday night in the illustrious Crown City Sports Hall of Fame in Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

Charles Whittepham was presented to accept his plaque commemorating his inclusion on the list of leaders inducted in the Hall, as well as McCrory, later on the jersey roster to receive the honor. Two of the other inductees were also rare horses: Dan Sargent and the first to win the Billy Pyle Crown, Dark Mirage.

Hit Win Column

Riders Come Through

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders had a bit of the benefit from their defending City Cup champion reprieve Tuesday, dumping Hamilton Tiger-Cats 30-23 in an Eastern Football Conference game.

It was the first victory for the team in three starts and the 123 fans who watched the game around a collective split of relief during the 30-23 loss to Ottawa Rough Riders.

Brancato has made virtually no changes in this season's lineup. He was named as the starter as it was last year.

He was named as the starter in the Eastern Conference and the first four he really counted on, he said after the game.

The Riders displayed some of the well-balanced play that let them to the top last season.

"We picked up 37 yards in net offense and received our outstanding performance from running backs Art Green and Shane Nix in the fourth. Brownson picked up a touch down on a five-yard run late in the fourth quarter and kicker Gerry Organ booted three field goals from the 25, 27 and 28 yard line along with converting the touchdowns.

End Terry Gerstler scored two touchdowns for Hamilton, grabbing a 61-yard throw from the 10 in the first quarter, the second quarter and a 14-yard throw from the 10 in the fourth.

Organ connected with wide receiver Mike Haggard early in the fourth quarter for the first of his two touchdowns. The other Touchdown, however, came from the 10 in the fourth quarter and also booted a 37-yard field goal in the second quarter along with a single on a field goal attempt in the fourth.

The Riders came on strong in the opening quarter and controlled the play. Penalties, however, forced the nullification of a touchdown.

After catching a sideline pass from starting quarterback Rich Cassata, and Tommy Pallen made-possible his way across the field and through a phalanx of Hamilton tacklers into the end zone. But over action blocking by Ottawa linemen resulted in a clipping and a holding penalty.

Kentel picked holes in the Tinter defense to engineer the win, aided by full interception by Ottawa's defensive backs. Hamilton intercepted two Ottawa passes and picked up one fumble.

The Tinter had a total net of 128 yards, 138 along the ground and 223 through the air. The Riders had 111 yards, 111 through the air and 111 through the ground for 111 yards.

Tetrahlon Scheduled

A new sporting event, called tetrahlon, makes its debut in Canada next month in and around Belleville.

A combination of riding, running, shooting, swimming and fishing, the event requires multiple sporting skills.

The tetrahlon is being organized by the Haghans of Belleville Pony Club for the national Canadian Pony Club (CPC).

The development of such an event has been discussed at CPC regional meetings for the last year, says F. Basil Kuzin, head of the organizing committee for the Hastings.

Mr. Kuzin, who owns a farm at Chatterton on Highway 11 northwest of Belleville where some of the events will be held, expects about 25 participants from pony clubs in central Ontario and Toronto. Competitors will be between 19 and 29 years of age.

Because it's a first — rules had to be specially selected and drafted — the winners won't go any further this year.

But if success merits an annual runoff, too participants next year might enter an international tetrahlon held each year in the United States.

Training for the tetrahlon requires "much practice and real hard work," said Mr. Kuzin.

It takes an awful lot of training. A senior entrant should run about two miles a day, swim as much as the cars, fence and shoot as often as possible.

But the tetrahlon also recognizes the modern increase in leisure activities. Interest in riding and horses has steadily increased in recent years. There also are more people participating in shooting, fishing and other activities, said Mr. Kuzin.

The program will be run in several centres, Sept. 14-15. Cross-country horse racing will be staged at the Kuzin farm, swimming at the local pool, and track events at Centennial Secondary School grounds.

Kingston Lions Roar to Titles

KINGSTON (Special)—Kingston Lions roared to the championship of the McDonald's International Baseball Tournament here on the weekend, challenging a perfect .64 record on the way to the title.

Lions had to do it the hard way. Don Smith's crew went into the three-day event with one starting pitcher on the sidelines with damaged ankle ligaments and another suffering from a hernia.

Knievel Gets Not

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—The state of Idaho granted a license to permit Tuesday for the celebrated daredevil to jump over the Snake River Canyon.

Knievel plans to use a rocket-powered motorcycle to jump the canyon, which is about 3,000 feet deep. The motorcycle must jump be expected to sell up to 50,000 tickets at $25 a head.

Regular third baseman Bob Ramsey who had drawn only periodic pitching assignments prior to the tournament, got his chance, and he responded by picking up four wins.

Left-hander Ron Skiggs was one of the lineup and big right-hander Kevin Scott was available for only limited mound duty. Scott did see plenty of action at shortstop, however, and showed enough talent to earn most valuable player honors.

After losing Quincy, Massachusetts Nationals 4-3 in the final Lions took the championship by shoving Brockville Braves 4-0 for the grand championship.

Brockville took the 11 title by shading Trenton State Braves 5-1.

To get in the 11 final, Brockville had to nose out Belleville Legion 99 by an identical 1-1.

Earlier, Belleville had overpowered motorcycle to jump the canyon, which is about 3,000 feet deep. The motorcycle must jump be expected to sell up to 50,000 tickets at $25 a head.

MARINERS GET HUGHES

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Venezuela defenceman Brent Hughes has signed a three-year contract with San Diego Mariners.

Metis Association Generates Programs and Cuts Them Loose

EDMONTON (CP) — Stan Daniels is a proponent. He would probably head a sports syndicate and own interests in teams.

If he were involved in politics, he would probably run a party's national campaign.

Instead, he is president of the Metis Association of Alberta (MAA), a 40-year-old organization responsible for at least a half-dozen programs serving about 3,000 poor-districts Alberta citizens of mixed white and Indian blood.

"I'm not interested in creating a bureaucracy," said Mr. Daniels, a former carpenter who, except for one year where he had a real-estate job, has headed the organization since 1977.

"We create a program to meet a need, then cut it loose as it's on its own and not connected to us. It gets more people involved and keeps things simple."

"Our budget never changes, except the programs do. We keep creating new things, then cutting the money out of the programs we create go by."

Another reason, of course, is as in the case of the Metis Association, it won't take all the programs that the people need in the

Since its launch in 1940, the MAA has helped the provincial government create a number of social programs. In 1970—the MAA has grown from a modest group of 200 members to a 40-year-old organization with 3,000 members.

The MAA gets $57,000 from the federal government, and $240,000 from the provincial government. The books always balance, with "every thing accounted for," said Mr. Daniels.

"Our accounting methods are used by the federal government as a guideline for other groups. We know we are on money, but we don't have to show where every cent goes."

The MAA employs a former bank manager at part-time accountant. His accounts are subject to numerous audits because of the number of government departments involved in its various programs.

"Gordon Minley (now Alberta treasurer) used to be my accountant before he got elected to government," said Mr. Daniels. "When you go to the government for money he says you have to be honest."

The aim of the MAA, in addition to serving the needs of organizations such as a Metis Outreach agency to help find jobs for Metis people, a Metis Friendship Centre—the largest in Canada—and court worker programs, is to involve Metis people in the political and social life of the province. "We are looking now to educate adults in the province," said Mr. Daniels. "Few Metis people were before the government because they didn't know what government was all about."

Metis people have not been successful in getting elected, but more are becoming involved in politics.

Harvest Pains After Fire

WHITECOURT, Alta. (CP) — Some of the trees burned when a forest fire raged through 30,000 acres of prime pine and spruce trees this summer may be salvaged.

Bob Miller of the forestry department said lumber companies and individuals are allowed to work the fire-ravaged areas. They get government about half the risk they would pay to cut down undamaged trees.

A spokesman for Imperial Lumber Co. said the method of cutting trees that have been hit by fire does not vary much from cutting a healthy tree. But it's harder on the men and equipment, with the men being asked with saw and grime and the trees dried out.

Girls In Driver's Seat

NEW YORK (AP) — There are more than four million recreational vehicles owned now in the United States and, says Rand McNally's newly published Recreational Vehicle Handbook, 80 per cent of the rental and purchase decisions about such vehicles are made by women.

Republican Leader Says Nixon Will Resign Within 60 Hours

WASHINGTON (CP) — The triumph of Richard Nixon's presidency ended towards an end as the controversial leader disclosed his decision to resign and proposed a broad-based coalition for his replacement.

"I feel relief, sorrow, gratitude but also optimism," said John D. Rockefeller III, Republican leader of the House of Representatives. "One of the great things about Nixon will resign later this year."

Nixon ended for television and radio at 9 p.m. EDT. Rhodes declared the resignation plan after the president met with Vice-President Gerald Ford, who will become the 38th president. One of Ford's aides said the vice-president would have no immediate comment.

However, a top presidential aide said Nixon called Ford to inform him of the impending resignation.

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler announced that Nixon will meet shortly with Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress before the television broadcast.

Events developed swiftly in the last few hours of Nixon's presidency. He had limited himself to appeals from his own close supporters to quit.

Supporters of authority, he said, must not let the president resign, critical participants in the Watergate cover-up but, there was some speculation that the government under Gerald Ford would be reluctant to pursue the case.

Ben Wicks

"It's a far better thing than I..."

However, Senator Edward Brooke (R-Mass.) introduced a resolution that would provide Nixon with immunity from prosecution and make a public confession of guilt. There was some talk whether Democratic, who are the majority, would be willing to agree to such a move.

The resolution by the liberal

Senator would not have a binding legal effect, but expresses the sense of Congress that if Nixon should resign, no federal, state or local government should conduct civil or criminal proceedings against him.

Brooke, who in November became the first Republican senator to call for Nixon's resignation, said the Senate's role was intended to help bring about a national reconciliation following the Watergate scandal.

Some Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, who disclosed the resolution Wednesday with Brooke, said today he has no doubt about it. He said it would cause extended delays in the government's move to prosecute, but punishing any one individual providing the president of the United States.

Ford would automatically be asked to resign if Nixon resigned. Nixon would receive $50,000 a year pension and would receive sufficient funds to maintain an office and staff.

Nixon and Ford, the man he picked for the vice-presidency after Sporn Agency resigned last October, met alone in the Oval Office. The session began at 11:30 a.m. EDT for a 60-minute summer day as the country and the world awaited formal announcement of the embattled president's plans.

Hundreds of reporters and photographers rallied in the smoke-filled White House press room while the two leaders conferred in the guarded office 26 floors above.

Free Fishing Would Bring Total Collapse

CARACAS (AP) — Continuous freedom of fishing would lead to a total collapse of fish resources of the seas, Canada said today in a report to the Canadian delegates at the Caribbean Fisheries Conference.

The coastal states must have sovereign rights and responsibilities over the extension, the management and the conservation of living resources within the economic zone. It said.

Provisions should be made to protect the interests of developing countries as well as landlocked states so they would be able to fish in order to meet their needs.

A Long Way Up

Forms for brackets that will support the seven-story pod on the CN Tower in Toronto started moving toward the 1,100-ft level Tuesday. The brackets, weighing a total of 350 tons, are being lifted by cables attached to 43 hydraulic jacks ringing the top of the tower. The lifting operation is expected to continue until the end of the week.

Society to Tour Chinese Exhibit

The Hastings County Historical Society is organizing a bus tour to Toronto to view an exhibit of Chinese archaeological finds at the Royal Ontario Museum (ROM).
The tour will take place in the summer, says Carol Brown, society president who is a guest at the exhibition's official opening Wednesday night.
"It is the first North American showing of the display which has gained world attention."
Mr. Doyle said the event is a "diplomatic coup for Canada."
The display of nearly 600 ancient Chinese treasures some 3,000 years old - is displayed at the ROM as a "premium" by Mr. Doyle.
Particularly striking, he said, is a jadeite mask made of jade and used for burial purposes dating from 200 B.C.
The exhibit is insured for $3 million and the ROM has spent more than $1 million refurbishing the display area, said Mr. Doyle.

No Coverup for Her

No fancy coverup would do for this youngster at Zwick's Island wading pool. She preferred splashing in the natural state and even seems to be basking from litigant Laurie Preston, who has to enforce rule against nude bathing in the pool. With her back turned is two-year-old Sheila Golden.

Every prescription is different. Ingredients, dosages, directions for use, effects are just a few of the things that may vary. However, one fact remains the same: if you do not take your medicine exactly as your physician prescribes, it will be ineffective and may even be harmful. After the medicine has been prescribed, it is your responsibility to take it exactly as directed and avoid any self-medication and future misadventure.

Gerald Ford Waits in Wings For Job He Does Not Want

WASHINGTON (CP) — Gerald Ford, 69-year-old career politician from Michigan who became "vice-president" of the United States amid scenes of turmoil, still months ago along the wings to succeed to the presidency he has said he does not want.

Ford, Republican member of the House of Representatives from Michigan's 5th congressional district, was elected president last December by President Nixon to replace disgraced Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew who resigned after pleading no contest to income tax charges.

Agnew's cry of "I will never resign" had faded when Ford took his oath of office nearly three months after Agnew stepped down.

The same cry — this time from Nixon — still was ringing steadily, however, as rumors flared that Ford would not want to take the job and would quit and that Ford would step forward to become his country's fourth president.

One reason behind the choosing of Ford for vice-president was the widespread claim that he had no ambitions to be a president. This was the path for a wide-open race for the Republican presidential nomination for the 1976 election. Nixon, having held the office twice, was ineligible to succeed himself.

Ford was known as a competent intern who he served loyally for the University of Michigan. From there, he went to Yale law school and finally from there into the U.S. Navy. When he returned to Michigan, he became general counsel to the state. He then moved to New York City, where he became general counsel to the city. He then moved to New York City, where he became general counsel to the city.

Democratic generally have shown they like him as a man and respect him as a tough, but not a career politician.

While still looking he has no presidential ambitions. Ford has been felt to be "extremely well prepared" should the post be thrust on him. He cited his years on various House committees and the leadership he has received from top cabinet members during his eight months as vice-president.

Before he carried his open speech of Nixon on the White House. Ford was so far as to suggest that the House Judiciary committee was "wrong in the action it has taken" in voting articles of impeachment.

Later, he said it would be wrong, under any circumstances, for Nixon to resign.

"A person who would resign under these circumstances could be accused of admitting defeat," Ford said.

And impeachment and conviction would be "very, very bad" for the U.S. both on domestic and foreign fronts.

Ford, never known as an outstanding speaker, has improved since becoming the vice president and leading force to voters speech-writing.

After one early Ford speech, a critic suggested that Ford had been "keeping himself too long in the shadows."

Ford once admitted that poets and speakers, his own not excepted, were "not very good."

Last Watergate Tapes Are in Sirica's Hands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last of the White House tapes ordered turned over by Judge John Sirica to the U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C., were in the hands of Sirica's clerk, Judge John Sirica, on Tuesday.

In turning over the supposed last tape, Judge Sirica said at least 15 of the 64 tapes turned over to him by the White House were missing.

Another supposed tape was a recording of a conversation between Sirica and another person, Charles Galt. That tape was turned over to Sirica on Tuesday.

In explaining why the 18 conversations were never given, Sirica said most tapes taken from Nixon's bedroom, the place which had no recording device.

Pliers And Juices For Roaming Rover

wire brush: pliers: boric acid; and a piece of rope at least two feet long. Your food provisions should consist tomato or lemon juice, vinegar, salt or dry mustard.

Experienced dog owners will recognize immediately the anti-shank remedy.

Boric acid in solution is essential for washing your pet's eyes if he's been sprayed by a snake. It will cleanse and soothe them.

After a soap and water bath, dose your find-smelling dog in either of the juices. They help to neutralize the stink's secretions. This technique may not work wonders, but the worst is that it's better than nothing.

The scolders and wire brush, of course, are for getting rid of the inevitable burr and fleas that bring leashed pets. The pliers are useful, not only for removing fly hooks, but also for porcupine quills, should that unhappy occasion arise.

In situations like this, when your dog is panicky (even gain, the rope is useful as an emergency muzzle. Then you can handle him within, fear of being bitten.

To a bone slip knot in the middle of the rope, making a large loop. Hold the rope up and slip the loop over the dog's nose. Tighten the loop so that he can't open his mouth, then bring the rope down under his chin and make a knot there. Bring the ends under his ears and tie behind his head.

Because a dog prurges through his tongue, don't leave the muzzle on any longer than necessary.

When removing quills, work them out gradually. Don't try to yank them.

With the pliers, twist each nail out slowly, starting with those in the chest area which could be harmful, starting with those in the chest area which could be harmful to vital organs. The quills can be softened and taken out more easily if vinegar is applied to them.

Put any standard antiseptic on the wounds, and take your pet to the veterinarian as soon as you can.

If your dog has been poisoned, pacify any symptoms such as retching, trembling or convulsions. Immediately contact the dog won't by giving him a mixture of mustard and water. If that won't go down, a spoonful of salt on the back of his tongue may work.

Again, get to a veterinarian quickly, and try to locate the source of the problem.

By the way, the problem that family had with poison ivy is a common one. Many hold are often carriers of the oily substance that causes their masters to break out in a rashy rash.

In provincial parks and most game reserves, don't even't be allowed to run free. Most hold for their own protection as for the safety of humans.

From a humane point of view, if your pet isn't used to the woods, it may be advisable to keep him on a lead. If you can't bear to let him loose, keep that same lead handy!

"It isn't the children getting into scrapes that make us holiday a horror show," a reader phoned to say last week.

"It's the ruddy dog. No matter where we go, he manages to get into some trouble or other. This year it was a porcupine, two years ago a skunk, and last year he gave the whole bunch of us poison ivy. But we can never bear to leave her at home in some strange corner."

The wisdom of their decision is questionable, but most people do take pets along when they travel. Sp-4 is as much a family member as Daddy, although the latter sheds much more good sense when confronting porcupines (he doesn't stick around).

Many provincial best friends can be as awfully big pain in the test in a campsite, and not much better at the cottage. Even the most obedient dog, when confronting an unwelcome force, is apt to have disagreeable intentions.

The latest series of these is the bur-covered coat. The worst can be pleasing or getting caught in a trap. In any case, owners should be prepared for emergencies with the name of the nearest veterinarian.

Included among holiday supplies should be, but following pet aids: scotch,

Modest Boy Unusual Case

Ann Landers

A 15-year-old boy might be considered a modest boy. But when his classmates find out he is a physical underdevelopment or overdevelopment, it is not so much a modest boy. It is a boy who is different.

Dear Ann Landers: You must be the same kind of girl. I refer to your answer to that 13-year-old boy who was embarrassed at first to show after giving down of others. The last of his privacy, and that should be allowed to wear bath trunks.

You told the kid he must have a hat of a hangup and if he didn't get over his feelings of discomfort in a year or two to get professional help.

I honestly think you are wrong. Where is your sense of modesty? Do you believe that when a young boy is asked in the presence of other boys that he is not? Who did you consult for that? The head of a school camp?

Please talk to some sensible psychologists, psychiatrists, high school coaches and normal people and see what answers they can give you. —Play It Again, Sam

Dear Ann: Your letter was one of thousands complaining about my advice. So I did play it again. I consulted three psychiatrists, one Dr. William Benjamin of the Manlyville Foundation—an excellent specialist in the field of father-son relationships and two Chicanos high school athletic directors. I also spoke with three teenage boys—14, 15, 16. The boys told me that the doctor is driving at it so, he have her excellent advice.

Dear Ann: Thanks for helping the Federal Drug Administration do its job. I refer to the letter you printed about the boy who ignored the drug instructions and spent two days and two nights in agony.

Recently we collected some data. Last year about 9,000 people were treated in hospital emergency rooms for such hangups. Most of the hangups were to the face and eyes. Female patients outnumbered the males by one to one.

We'll keep looking for ways to get people to read the instructions before they use a hangup. In the meantime, thank you, Ann Landers, for a big W—A.M. Schmidt, M.D., Commissioner of Food and Drug Administration of Food and Drug.

Dear Commissioner: Glad to be of help. I hope this second letter will be a reminder to the people who do not read the instructions before they use a hangup. —Ann Landers

I also spoke with three teenage boys—14, 15, 16. The boys told me that the doctor is driving at it so, he have her excellent advice.

Dear Ann: Thanks for helping the Federal Drug Administration do its job. I refer to the letter you printed about the boy who ignored the drug instructions and spent two days and two nights in agony.

Recently we collected some data. Last year about 9,000 people were treated in hospital emergency rooms for such hangups. Most of the hangups were to the face and eyes. Female patients outnumbered the males by one to one.

We'll keep looking for ways to get people to read the instructions before they use a hangup. In the meantime, thank you, Ann Landers, for a big W—A.M. Schmidt, M.D., Commissioner of Food and Drug.

Dear Commissioner: Glad to be of help. I hope this second letter will be a reminder to the people who do not read the instructions before they use a hangup. —Ann Landers

NON-BELTED TIRES

1. Standard Twin-Ply Nylon

Similar construction to original equipment on many new cars in the early Sixties. Not insured (you save the cont.) Meets or exceeds government safety standards.

2. Contender 4-Ply Polyester

Twin-Ply Polyester was popular new-car equipment prior to 1969—before introduction of long-mileage belted. Contender is similar but is 4-ply instead of twin-ply.

3. Whippet Twin-Ply Nylon

Shaped much like a European radial. Best suited for high-speed highways. At twice the price we couldn't offer a cooler-running softer-riding tire.

4. Long Cord Safety 99 Wide Track Nylon

High-performance, low-angle tire built to replace belted tires. Provides close-to-the-milage of belted, but with double safety. Also available in Polyester.

All tires shown (except Standard) 5-Year Road-Hazard Guaranteed and Wear-Out Insured. (See particulars in your local Canadian Tire store—or current catalogue)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gerald Ford became the 38th president of the United States today, a plain man vaulted to the pinnacle of power by the scandals that shattered Richard Nixon's government.

Before walking into the office that now is his, Ford declared himself "not a star, I'm a bull."

His first report to his new office was that "the world is a terrible mess, but it's not as bad as it looks."

For Text of Nixon's Resignation Speech See Page 10

Ford is the first president never to face national election, succeeding the first president ever to quit voluntarily.

As the transition of power was formally realized at solemn ceremonies in the Oval Office of the White House, Nixon was in the presidential airplane, flying home to California.

He had taken farewell from the White House two hours earlier, telling the men and women who served him that only a man in the deepest valley can know how magnified it is to be on the highest mountain.

No Guilt Admitted

There appeared to be much agreement in the White House, as it welcomed Nixon, he allowed to leave the White House, he was escorted to the airport.

Special White House press men made clear he made no deal with Nixon on his resignation, but that only a man in the deepest valley can know how magnified it is to be on the highest mountain.

Ford, praising Nixon for his great personal courage in stepping down, said he has no regrets and that he is proud of his cooperation between Nixon and himself.

Nixon's resignation, which he had made known to the world, was uniformly welcomed by the Senate Republican Leader.

Sen. Spiro Agnew, Republican, said the way is open to a "balanced budget" and that the country is in a "good position" to face the future.

Sen. Howard Baker, Republican, said the country is in a "good position" to face the future.

The New and The Old

Kissinger Assures World Of Continuity of Policy

WASHINGTON (CP) — Relationship between the United States and Canada are expected to undergo little change under Gerald Ford's presidency.

Wall Street Backs Quietly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market slipped back yesterday in a calm mood of profit-taking.

There was the normal bustle of activity at the office, but no heavy surge of orders either to buy or to sell and trading was slow.

Secretary Henry Kissinger has met with the world and is scheduled to meet personally with foreign ambassadors today.

This emphasis on continuity of policy is expected to carry over into the new administration.

Ford, who grew up in a small town in Michigan, has shown little interest in Canadian affairs during his 32 years in U.S. politics.

Laird, he explained that he regarded Canada as a neighbor, friendly, but said he feared that the "official government" look-over it might shut off any such pipeline.

Pioneer Insurance Firm Celebrating Centennial

PICTON — The Bay of Quinte Agricultural Mutual Fire Insurance Company will hold its centennial in Picton this Sunday will mark its centennial.

Although most of the old records have been lost, a detailed history of the company in its infancy, has been preserved. This was the "insurance act" passed on August 11, 1874, with a goal of "insurance at cost for mutual protection."

Grocery Store Broken Into

TRENTON — Bart's Grocery, 10 Dufferin St., was broken into overnight and a substantial amount of cash and merchandise stolen. The police are looking for two suspects who will be charged when the extent of the theft has been determined. The money and merchandise has been recovered.

vice-president, Andrew Wysocki, secretary, Frederick Dodge and treasurer and auditor R. S. Roblin. Directors were Robert Carson, John Murray, R. S. Bartholomew, William Haskany, William G. Shaffner, David H. Spence and Thomas Wellwood.

Although records are complete, it is believed the company's first office was located in the Junction Block, in 1920 office space was rented in the new Gold Fish Block and in 1947 adjoining office space was rented and furnished. Boardroom chairs, still in use, were purchased from G. M. Hicks and Son at a cost of $27.50 each.

A modern office building was constructed for the company in 1962 on the Boardwalk Road. The Bay of Quinte Agricultural Mutual Fire Insurance Company has no subscribed capital. When it was formed, it was organized by farmers for farmers to provide members with sound insurance at cost. Company officers and directors were farm members.

Because it was difficult for farmers to obtain insurance readily a century ago, the mutual fire companies originated. When protection was offered from other sources it was often too costly as the farm business was regarded as too hazardous.

Losses in the early years were not as large as today's. Losses were not as large as today's. Losses were not as large as today's. Losses were not as large as today's.

Common fire causes in the early years were lanterns, stove pipes, candles, kerosene, gasoline lamps, three smoking, and matches. Although a century has passed the causes today differ very little, with the exception of candles and lanterns.

The insurance company grew quickly to become members in October, 1911 and at the close of 1912, 1913, 1914, reported 115 policies in force.

The books closed in 1973 with 1,523 policies, $5,441,800 insurance in force and a surplus of $50,075.

The company, so to mark its centennial, has initiated four projects to entertain members and to provide lasting memories of the anniversary. The first project is a historical tour of the fair board, has invited financial assistance this year to make a donation to the George Hamilton the Fourth show free. The board also will receive material assistance in form of a special souvenir plate.

The first would give benefits totaling about $1.77 million annually for a cost of about $760,000 a year, the commission said. The second would cost less than $500,000 a year while providing benefits totaling about $1.8 million annually, it adds.

But without proper zoning of the lakeshores, the benefit from either plan would be reduced, the commission says.

Canning Craze Strikes City

An early crop shortage of garden foods, a current lack of hot bottles and other shortages of sealers is making stores of sealers for summer preserving all points to be tight in Belleville, as across Nova Scotia, families are going back to "canning old-time" — putting food in jars.

How slow at Smith's Hardware was the fact that the shop ran out of garden preserving jars in the year, a good indication that canning jars have been in short supply. Jars are going to be in great demand.

Mr. Rose, who is the general manager, is having a difficult time getting preserving bottles to sell. He is able to stock them, but they are likely to be gone before last year.

Don Douglas at Walker's

Hardware says that store is selling "more of everything" than last year. "There's more demand this year than other years and we need to be selling more jars to the public," he says.

Mr. McGill, manager of the "Food Mart" in the city, ordered "700 times the number" of preserving jars as he has in other years.

Mr. White said that sealers are more expensive this year. "When they do come, they're a little expensive than last year... I don't know how much, prices will be a little higher than last year."

Test reports that their sales, too, indicated a strong interest in canning.

The Free Shot Goalies Won't Like This One

TORONTO (CP) — The National Hockey League, hoping to end its tie to the 1973-74 season, may be giving out free shots to individual players if the NHL committee approves the move.

Sonny Marston, chairman of the rules committee and NHL referee, said "I don't know if the free shot was proposed at a meeting of the NHL committee formed to prepare a new rule book for the 1975-76 season."

The free shot would be taken after a foul by a player on the attacking team trying to take a shot on goal. There would be no substitution at the time of the foul.

"If approved, I designated from the opposing team—it could be very few or as many as 10—would be on the ice at the time of the foul—would be allowed to take a free shot at the goal."

Marston said the puck would be taken from the spot where the foul occurred and the player would take the shot.

"The stick man is in contact with the ice and must shoot the puck into the goal," Marston said.

Leafs Sign Valiquette

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League signed forward Jack Valiquette.

Nicklaus, Snead Tied

CLEVESIDE, N.C. (AP) — Ten years ago golfer Sam Snead said that because Jack Nicklaus started to play golf so young "he will burn out before he is 30."

This prediction came home to roost for the 42-year-old veteran as Snead and Nicklaus found themselves tied at 18, just one stroke off the par going into the final round of the 1974 PGA golf championship.

Nicklaus not only has not burned himself out, but has announced he will play in the PGA title contest after 84 consecutive years.

"I guess I all depends on whether you can keep on hitting the golf ball," said Snead.

He is playing because I love it. I love the game. I love to go on the same for Jack."

Rookie Leads Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Rookie Eddie Strickland making his pro football debut, drew Jacksonville Sharks 30 yards late in the fourth quarter Thursday night and scored on a 25-yard touchdown pass to win a 21-17 victory over the Houston Oilers.

Strickland, who missed the first four games with a shoulder injury, was the third Jacksonville player to start.

He took two quarters to get warmed up, then connected a mixture of passes and punts to rout the Oilers.

Ricky Lake hit a 36-yard field goal for the Oilers, Jacksonville coach downed the Oilers 17-10.

Three Blue with a 24-yard pass for the big pass in the drive.

McQuarters' Knee Injury Has Coach Payne Worried

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders coach Don MacQuarters is worried about his star player's knee injury.

"I'm worried about his knee," MacQuarters said. "He's got a bad knee and it's a real worry."

MacQuarters said the injury could keep the player out of the game for a while.

MacMillan Leads WFC

THE CANADIAN PRESS: Blackburner from MacMillan of British Columbia Lions led three converts, a single and a field goal Thursday in a 21-17 victory.

MacMillan scored six goals and 17 points to lead the Ontario Blue Bombers.

The young guys should do things up a bit," said Leafs coach Leonard (Red) Kelly.

Lions Maul Bombers Harris Sets Record

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions defeated the Winnipeg Blue Bombers 34-17 in the first quarter on a 36-yard pass from Don Harris.

But it's doubtful that Lions head coach Mike Harris could have lost a 34 victory over the Bombers.

Lions won the game, Harris turned to team captain Gerry Weller and said "I hope I get 100 yards."

Seconds later Harris and the crowd of 35,000 heard through the public address speakers that Harris had just passed the 200-yard rushing mark.

The sophomore half carrier totalled 202 yards and scored a pair of touchdowns in the third quarter of the game.

Bombers, on the other hand, have lost their last six games since the 28-21 defeat last week in Winnipeg.

"I'm the best player I've coached since my high school days in Sacramento," Harris said. "I'm a defensive player."

Don Harris is expected to get the call of McQuarters' knee injury.

On the Edmonton side, split end George McGowan, who has missed all exhibition and regular season games this year, after being named the Canadian Football League's most outstanding player last year.

He has missed the last two games of the season.

But Harris' defensive back Barry Givens picked off two of Winnipeg's passes and Don Harris' passes and also recovered a fumble.

Harris opened the scoring in the first quarter on a 36-yard pass from Don Harris to a 34-yard major which MacMillan converted and Lions had a 14-0 lead.

Farm Income On Rise

OTTAWA (CP) — Farm cash receipts for the first six months of the year totalled $4.62 billion, up 40 per cent from $3.23 billion during the same period of 1973, Statistics Canada reported Friday.

The estimate of farm income calculated receipts from sales of products, cash advances on stored grains and payments under certain agriculture support programs.

By province, the estimates for the first six months of this year lead last year were: Prince Edward Island, $24.5 million; and $29 million; New Brunswick, $19.5 million; Quebec, $67.3 million; and $61.5 million; Ontario, $1,029 billion and $877.6 million; Manitoba, $41.3 billion and $23.9 million; Saskatchewan, $141 billion and $12.9 million; Alberta, $215.5 million and $115.5 million; and British Columbia, $154.1 million and $112.1 million. New-farmers figures were not included.

Beef Quotas Announced

OTTAWA (CP) — Details on the administration of import controls on slaughter cattle, as well as fresh and frozen beef and veal were announced Friday by the trade department.

The controls, which become effective at 12:01 a.m. EDT Monday, were announced by Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan Aug. 2.

For the next 12 months, the quotas permitted into Canada will be $2.53 head of live cattle weighing 700 pounds or more for slaughter within 90 days of importation and 125.8 million pounds of fresh and frozen beef and veal.

The trade department said in a news release that imports in any quarter are not to exceed 30 per cent of the annual quota. For the balance of the quarter ending Sept. 26, the quotas are 11.81 cattle for slaughter and 18.9 million pounds of fresh and frozen beef and veal.

Transit Strike Could Strand 600,000 Riders

ONTARIO (CP) — Talks between the Toronto Transit Commission (TTC) and the Amalgamated Transit Union have broken off and the union plans to go ahead with a strike, starting at 12:01 a.m. Monday, a union spokesman said Friday.

Leonard Murphy, president of division 113 of the union, said the transit authority has been bargaining in bad faith and will have to come up with a whole new offer if talks are to resume.

The union's main demand has been for a 40 per cent wage increase over the $5 an hour now paid to experienced drivers. The transit authority has offered a 10 per cent increase.

The union also wants a shortening of the driver's work day, ending at 10 p.m. and spreading over as long as 13 hours.

Fire Reinforcements Sent

ONTARIO (CP) — Fifty firefighters and eight supervisors left for the region with air support provided by 13 planes—two from the region, the resources unit and 11 helicopters.

The department now has 440 men fighting fires on all shifts in the region, with air support provided by 13 planes—two from the region, the resources unit and 11 helicopters.

Claims Ontario Hydro Rides Inflation's Tide

TORONTO (CP) — A former Ontario Hydro commissioner told the Ontario Energy Board Friday that the utility's rate increases are "excessive."

But he said the utility's rate increases are "excessive" because of cost "escalations" which amounted to 100 per cent or more in improvement in productivity and cost savings.

Although Hydro seems to be riding the tide of inflation, Mr. Macneaney said, it is not the responsibility of this body to increase rates to meet the inflationary tide.

He said that Hydro's cost increases do not sufficiently offset increased productivity, and the utility's prediction that wage rates will increase 75 per cent in the next five years will "happily" understate the rate.

Mr. Macneaney suggested that Hydro should be required to provide a 100 per cent "return on equity" is excessive, and suggested it be trimmed to 75 per cent for a saving of $25 million.

He also told the board that Hydro's 1974-75 budget for a 100 per cent "return on equity" is excessive, and suggested it be trimmed to 75 per cent for a saving of $25 million.

Graduates Can be Dropouts: Davis

EDMONTON, Pa. (CP) — New students of the 1976 no longer will be "dropouts" from school, Premier William Davis said today.

Whip's Job Not So Vital

OTTAWA (CP) — Tom LeFebvre, Liberal MP for Prince Edward Island, said today that the job of a whip is not as vital as it once was.

Mr. LeFebvre, a 42-year-old Ottawa Valley service station operator, was government whip in the last Parliament. As whip, he is primarily responsible for ensuring that Liberal MPs are on hand for Commons votes.

He said that the Liberal whip's job is not as vital as it once was because of the 100 seats, but he said that today's situation is a life-long situation.

Mr. Trudeau said his intention was to cabinet ministers who had served not full two-year terms will be re-appointed 50 per cent for another year. Three new parliamentary secretaries will be appointed for two years.

But he said there was no possibility of negotiations taking place during the weekend, as the union executive would be busy arranging Monday's picket line.

Speaker at the summer commencement of Edinboro State College here, the premier said these students will have a profound effect on the direction of post-secondary education during the 1976 "hot" in a more constructive manner than their predecessors.

"They look to post-secondary institutions not as academic ivory towers, but as social institutions that can help them to obtain the basic education necessary to get a start in the career of their own choice," he said.

"The big difference between the new students of the 1976 and those of a decade ago is that today's students are more concerned that their chosen careers have some meaning and relevance than with the material rewards of a high salary."

Mr. Davis told his audience that today's students also are living in the concept of a life-long education.

"The question of a degree will be less significant in the new generation which has already learned that a degree does not guarantee a job," he said.

Traditionally, post-secondary institutions have been regarded as sanctuaries, often openly competitive and sometimes downright non-cooperative, said the premier.

"Students who can cross state and international borders quite freely will not accept such parochial attitudes in future," he said.

"Also, stiff competition for other social priorities for a share of the tax dollars will no longer permit every educational institution to be relevant, the premier said.

Canada is now facing an era of 'tough' oil.

So far as finding crude oil is concerned, the 'good old days' are over. Today most of our undeveloped Canadian oil reserves are in remote areas of the Arctic, locked in the Athabasca tar sands, or are far out under the sea off our coastlines, requiring multimillion dollar costs to develop. That's why we say that Canada is now into the era of 'tough' oil. Tough to find, expensive to get.

The bright side to this picture is the fact that Canada does have sufficient potential oil reserves to see us through for many years to come. The trick is to get to it and get it out. And that takes time, technology and money. By way of example, the petroleum industry has already spent more than four billion dollars in the last 10 years in the search for oil reserves. The result of this search is that knowledgeable estimates can be made. Fortunately, these indicate that we have in Canada potential oil reserves on a scale comparable to those of Arabia!

But it is going to take a great deal of money to get at these new reserves, and so keep Canada self-sufficient in oil—60 billion dollars in the next 10 years!

Some from Profits

Some of the money that is needed must come from earned profits of the oil companies. In spite of the erroneous statements that people have made about oil industry profits being "too high", this is not so. Last year the average return on capital employed by the four largest integrated oil companies in Canada amounted to only 12.2%! Considering the investment needs of our industry—and comparing with the level of return one can get from investments in less risky industries and even from no-risk government bonds—this average return is not "excessive"—or even sufficient.

Our Company on average realizes net earnings of not much more than one cent a gallon on all the petroleum products we sell.

It does seem to us that a cent a gallon is a reasonable amount for manufacturing the many different petroleum products required, and making them conveniently available to our customers. We hope you agree.

It is a fact that profits have to be made or a company cannot stay in business. Companies that only make losses are not around long. The best "job insurance" our employees—and their families—have, is the knowledge that they work for a company that makes a profit. You need profitable companies to serve you and to create employment.

Most, from new investment!

Canada's oil industry needs many new investments if we are to continue to spend vast sums exploring for oil in hard-to-reach places, and developing both the technology to get at it and the equipment to get it out to where it is needed.

What is required is a fair return on money invested and an opportunity for growth in relation to the amount of risk. So, it is very important to Canadians that governmental policies encourage massive investment of risk capital.

Tough or not—it CAN be done!

All this is not going to be easy, but with the right incentives and public policies that recognize the size and difficulties of the job ahead, the oil industry can continue to meet Canada's future energy needs. Even though, like we said, we are now in an era of 'tough' oil.

Widow Says Husband's Death Was 'Needless'

By COLIN BRUCE

Staff Reporter

Capt. Robert Wicka, who was killed in the crash of a Canadian Forces aircraft near the town of Hama, Syria, last Sunday, said his death was "needless."

Capt. Wicka was among nine Canadians killed when their Buffalo bomber was shot down on a flight to Damascus, Syria, from Beirut, Lebanon.

"He should be helping our men at home to develop our resources to protect our (Canadian) waters," she said. About 50 CFB Trenton personnel are stationed in the Middle East.

"They wouldn't say so in public but some of them would do it," Mrs. Wicka said. "Why we should have our men die for us is beyond me."

The injury to her husband's death is he may not have been needed in the peacekeeping zone.

Three days before the crash, he wrote: "The admission to reduce our establishment and to Canada has definitely been submitted and run, but it is that will be approved."

The letter to his wife suggested he might be home in August.

Capt. Wicka, 39, father of two children with 22 years of service, left for the Middle East June 17 for a six-month tour duty.

"They didn't promise he'd be home for Christmas," said Mrs. Wicka. "They said it would be after."

When the armed forces alerted Capt. Wicka, he was leaving for the Middle East, Mrs. Wicka said the family began working on a way to get out of the forces.

"We needed the pension," he said. "But they cut the departure date back a week and there was a time," said Mrs. Wicka, an East German, who fled her country, ended up in Winnipeg where she met her husband. She now works in research at Canada Centre.

The letter, bringing home of an early return home, arrived at Belleville the day after Capt. Wicka's plane crashed.

"It's still as new as it is to really feel it — it'll be months before I realize —"

"My attitude about the United Nations is not very good," she said. "We shouldn't be meddling in those countries."

Now she plans to return to the comfort of her family — this time taking her children.

"The Canadian government has warned her she might be detained in East Germany travelling this time with her immediate family."

"It's too bad," she said. "The home my husband and I dreamed of 13 years ago when we were married is here. Canada is my country and I'll fight like a tiger."

Cause of Crash Sought By CFB Trenton Team

CFB Trenton's 424 Squadron commander, Lt. Col. Jack Carr, is in the Middle East in charge of Canada's foremost crash investigation team.

He and three other CFB Trenton officers left for Syria Saturday night on a commercial flight to investigate the crash of a Buffalo bomber which took the lives of nine Canadian. The aircraft, on a specialist Capt. Brian Nis. Maj. Gibson said "we'll stay there at the crash site until we find out what happened."

United Nations peacekeeping mission, plunged to the ground moments after crossing the Syrian frontier on a flight to Damascus from Beirut.

The other team members — "specialists with the particular type of aircraft and crash circumstances" — are British Royal Air Force and Maj. (Colt) medical officer.

Maj. (Colt) medical officer and Maj. (Colt) medical officer.

"If the aircraft went down for maintenance reasons, it would be the first time it's ever happened during United Nations duty," he said.

"It's not to be extremely objective when we get over there," he added.

McTaggart's Young and Old

Two hundred years ago Capt. James McTaggart fled the United States and came to Prince Edward County as a United Empire Loyalist. More than 400 descendants gathered in the Ben Blocker auditorium Sunday for a family reunion. Rev. Sam Bowman, a grandson of the corporal and oldest member of the clan took time out to read the youngest, Jey, Andrea and Annette and clark with parents Clark and Lorraine Martin. Organizers didn't expect such a large turnout and say there will be another reunion next year.

Trio Rob 34 on Bus

CAMARILLO, Calif. (AP) — Authorities said today that three armed men boarded a Greyhound bus and raped a pregnant teenage girl, plus shaped a man and robbed all passengers before making a getaway.

The Fresno County sheriff's spokesman said the girl, who was not identified, was six months pregnant. The spokesman said the men had been in the bus for about 10 minutes before the robbery.

man said he was raped in the rear of the bus, but had later continued the trip. The trio boarded the San Francisco-bound bus at North Hollywood and pulled out hand guns and a sawed-off rifle about 10 minutes later. As one of the men leveled a pistol on the driver and another stood at the rear, the third walked down the aisle demanding money and valuables from the passengers, police said.

Clara Coates, 56, of Santa Barbara, was hit with a gun after he told the men he was not carrying any money, despite the risk.

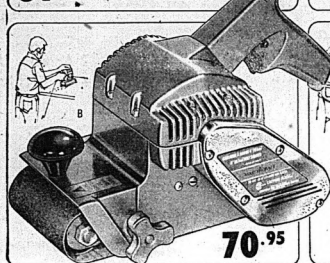

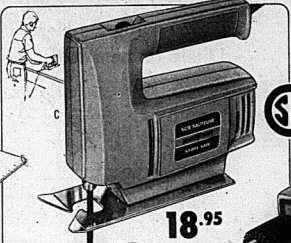

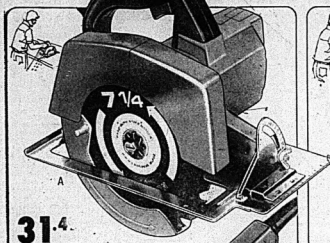

The gunman, in their early 20s, got about $2,000 in cash, jewelry, clothes and jewelry. They ordered the bus driver to stop near a freeway exit where they got into a waiting car, police said.

Conservation Authority Studies Reservoir Project For Bend Bay

The Maita River Conservation Authority plans to do a cost-benefit study for the proposed Bend Bay reservoir. The Executive Committee of the authority will meet on Tuesday at its last meeting, voting to hire consultants to do the study and also set up terms of reference for the study which will determine whether the project is feasible.

The reservoir project, if approved, would see construction of two dams across the Maita river valley — a short distance above Maita Lake.

Terms of reference include an analysis of any potential benefits to the watershed with regard to the supply of water downstream to Belleville, and have effect on recreation and have effect on recreation and have effect on recreation.

The study will also include an analysis of the estimated cost for preliminary and final design engineering, actual construction, land clearing, access and maintenance costs and the authority.

Changes in land values will also be considered with losses to owners due to flooding and the gain to owners due to water storage.

Fossils Abound

Keen-eyed campers at Presque Isle Provincial Park can enjoy a treasure trove by taking home some of the thousands of fossils that can be found in the area.

Millions of years ago when the peninsula was part of a vast sea floor, the fossilized remains of sea creatures died and were buried under layers of sand and silt.

Mt. Maita, which is a part of the Maita river valley, has a rich history of fossils. The study will also include an analysis of the estimated cost for preliminary and final design engineering, actual construction, land clearing, access and maintenance costs and the authority.

Changes in land values will also be considered with losses to owners due to flooding and the gain to owners due to water storage.

Construction of the Bend Bay reservoir was recommended in the report on the original watershed study done by the conservation branch experts following formation of the authority in 1971.

The reservoir, if approved, would be by far the largest single project to be undertaken by the authority since its inception.

Authority chairman Guy Hughes of Trenton, said the Bend Bay reservoir project is required to provide the additional water storage needed to boost downstream summer flow.

"It would be long range project — from three to five years," said Mr. Hughes.

He noted the original cost estimate 25 years ago was for $25 million and said today the figure might be easily double that estimate or more.

Sidney Township Gets New Fire Communication System

Pocket pagers were by Sidney Township volunteer firemen are reducing the cost of maintaining the 36-man, volunteer brigade.

John McCormack, township fire commissioner, said new pagers were by volunteer firemen are "drastically cutting the costs of running a fire."

During the last three years Sidney Township Council allocated $25,000 for a more sophisticated fire department communication system.

"One man was happy with the old system," said McCormack, "but at times was inefficient and it was difficult to estimate the actual savings using the pagers, but when we got at it at first it was the big item and now it is the small one."

In recent months only a handful of men have been equipped with the $200 pager units, but savings were still noticeable.

Following last night's receipt for the balance of the order, every man in the department will have the pager.

"The ones that were in the fire house were the radio, and the ones that were in the fire house were the radio, and the ones that were in the fire house were the radio."

With the pocket pager which resembles a thick, grey glass card and is worn clipped to the belt.

"With the radio communication network we now

Tourists Covet Motel Property

By JIM SMOLE

Said Repower:

The quiet area during this time of the year is a haven for Canadian and American tourists.

And while campers and hikers have increased in popularity it's still a busy time for local motels and hotels.

Human nature being what it is, it's only natural to expect some tourists to leave behind a reminder of their visit, or in some cases to help themselves to a souvenir — sometimes at the resort owner's expense.

Sometimes the objects or articles left behind can be quite humorous and at times embarrassing.

At the Hotel Hotel, formerly the R. B. Leach, on the corner of the 400 block, manager Loretta Boush, recalled her experience.

"People very rarely leave things they're more likely to take them home with them," she said. "We had people walk off with towels, soap, toiletries, and anything they can get."

"The thing that I remember best was a six-foot long screw set taken from one of the rooms. They just pulled a truck to the door and took it away. We've also had drawers and a bed-spring taken with a bed."

"We have had a lot of things taken from the rooms."

Recalled a recent incident of something left behind that placed him in an embarrassing position.

"A couple had checked in for a week and I'd signed the register. After the man and woman left, I noticed that I had a new and expensive pair of shoes left behind."

"I then looked up the man's address and mailed the shoes to him, enclosing a letter explaining what had happened."

"I got a phone call a few days later from the man's wife saying that the shoes were still there."

McFarlane Gendron Workers Accept Pact

Workers at McFarlane Gendron Ltd. have accepted a new contract, calling for a 25 per cent increase during the next three years.

The general manager Les Young said the 71 workers are satisfied with the new contract.

Rate base at the plant for the month of June was $2.00 an hour with the top rate at $2.50 and Mr. Young said the new contract was a "no cost of living clause" established in the new contract.

Negotiations closed during the month of June with the local's first three-year contract expired.

Early negotiating showed both sides "intentions of bargaining in good faith."

"The new contract will make a sincere effort to reach an agreement."

Cyclist, Cruiser Collide

A 12-year-old child is in satisfactory condition in hospital after being injured in a collision following an accident on the road.

Debbie Wainwright, an 11-year-old girl, was taken to hospital after becoming involved in a collision with a cyclist on the road.

The accident occurred on West Main Street about 4:30 Sunday afternoon.

Water Termed Unsafe

Spring water near the Great St. James St. area may cause health problems, said Dr. Leach.

If people drink the water, the water should be boiled or chlorinated.

A city hall source said the second report of the health department on the quality of the water after hearing reports from local residents were carrying spring water away by the "bucket" full.

"We have checked the water and while it might taste better than city water, it could lead to many ailments including lead, cadmium and other pollutants," said Dr. Leach.

Housing Perspective

People supposedly in the know are speaking with many tongues on the question of housing.

Last month the high cost of housing was described by Hamilton Mayor Vic Coppe as a "national tragedy."

An "impossible problem" as far as young people are concerned, according to Mr. Coppe.

Now we have the new minister of urban affairs, Bart Steward, approaching it from another angle.

The Prime Minister Treasurer on the theme of work a while back, but he suggested that perhaps a home is not for everyone. Not one to own that is. Instead he mentions apartments, and the rental route.

Again, he speaks of priorities and alternatives. He makes a good point when he says cars, boats, color TV and so on are all in the line of obtaining homes. It might be asked also how much money goes for cigars and alcohol.

No wonder then that a home of one's own is that much farther away from many young people.

A realtor in the other day, incidentally, was the Ontario Housing Corporation's mobile trailer containing pictures and information on Home Ownership Made Easy and other facets of provincial housing policy.

As suggested above, home ownership may be that much easier with more careful budgeting, perhaps even a little sacrifice.

Relative Values

Mayor Coppe was in Edmonton for a one-day conference of mayors from eleven large Canadian cities.

They included Mayor Jane Bigelow of London who said Canada has a responsibility to help alleviate overcrowding in other parts of the world.

That is all very well, but as we have suggested on a number of occasions lately it is time we began looking more closely at the needs of people at home.

Only a week after the Edmonton conference a report from the same city told of the appalling living conditions no fewer than 30,000 Métis in Alberta.

A Metis official accused the province of dragging its feet on housing, despite statements from the Western Economic Opportunities Conference that native housing would be given top priority.

Thus there are problems enough at home with regard to housing to warrant off with offers of help to all and sundry overseas.

Men Too!

Staff member Isabel Huggan in a recent All In The Family column discussed the visit of a feminist bombshell, noted that its sponsors find men usually too shy to invade its precincts, and asked if perhaps the men of Belleville are more advanced in their thinking?

Could it be, she pondered, that local men are "liberated from traditional male fear" by many feminists and anxious to escape discrimination?

"Probably not," she concluded. "But women it is lovely to see." Well in the same issue of The Intelligencer we read of one male, a retired engineer who clearly is unafraid of the ladies. Indeed he has shown himself to be quite prepared to work in a voluntary capacity in a large female-dominated field.

He is William Fortner, a Coloured native who recently retired as president of a United States firm and is now in the printing trade. He has been helping out in the printing shop of Belleville General, is now taking a summer break, and may return later in a less active basis.

And with a young man also doing volunteer work in the children's ward, Women's Auxiliary president Mrs. C. D. Ashley says there could be a change of name to Boys' Auxiliary.

It is all further proof that some of the old barriers are coming down, and that even some of the menfolk are being "liberated."

The Diefenbaker Legend

PCs May Now Have To Listen To Counsel Of "Old Chief"

By RICHARD JACKSON
OTTAWA (The Post) News
Mr. Diefenbaker, 74, has spent 10 long years in the parliamentary wilderness and finding a further four years in Ottawa's grey-furred, white-haired, and toothy form in former Prime Minister's office.

After all, in the 44 years since Richard Bedford Bennett took office in 1930, Mr. Dief has lived five brief years' tenure of the premiership. After that, he was the only winner.

The archaic have had four: Mackenzie King, Louis St. Laurent, Lester B. Pearson, and Pierre Trudeau.

Now, however, R. B. Bennett, the Conservatives have only three years' tenure — all of them by the Tories' Tory king in what has been their state.

He did it on a massive scale, and he did it in the face of a Canadian political landscape that was in the years since 1930, with a mounting 38 seats, a result that has led to the generation of Parliament to be.

So maybe the Old Chief has been so long in the wilderness that he is now a legend, not a man. He is not going to get his way, but he is going to get his way.

Francophone Youths Heckle As Bourassa, Trudeau Speak

QUÉBEC (CP) — Heckling waving banners and shouting acrostic slogans disrupted speakers Sunday by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa at opening of the first International Festival for Francophone Youth.

The demonstrators, kept back by police and crowd handlers, booed and chanted at any mention of Canada's role of host to the opening ceremony before the 100th anniversary of the confederation of the Dominion of Canada.

From a blue and white striped canopy in front of the legislature building Prime Minister Trudeau told the brightly dressed delegations from 21 countries that "the majority of Canadians would not greet you in this way."

He said the "reactionaries" in the crowd would never be able to get together on anything, even a demonstration, and he added that he hoped their "spite" would be destroyed by the spirit of international co-operation of this festival.

Mr. Trudeau said Quebec had worked in close cooperation with Ottawa in preparing the festival being held under the sponsorship of the Paris-based Agency for Cultural and Technical Cooperation set up in 1970 to promote exchanges between French-speaking countries.

He said delegations of 15 to 20 people, coming from Ontario, Manitoba and New Brunswick will be to the 12-day festival with the co-operation of their provincial governments and this will be the equilibrium of the Canadian nation.

The demonstrators, forming a solid line across the crowd, agitated over the street in front of the national assembly, shouted "Quebec Libre—Free Quebec" and waved Quebec fleur-de-lis flags and a banner which read "Trudeau, une note pas de Québec—Welcome to our country of Québec."

Members of the Quebec section of the Canadian delegation to the festival joined in the shouting, which first erupted during the opening ceremony.

The Quebec flag was raised along with the flag of Canada, Manitoba, New Brunswick and Ontario while "Oh Canada" was sung by the band of the Royal 22nd Regiment.

"The Quebec flag should have been raised by itself," said Pierre Bourgoin, a socialist with the Quebec group. "This festival is being held in Quebec and we must be recognized as a sovereign entity."

Premier Bourassa chose to ignore the loud boisterous shouts of "Canada—Canada" and the acrostic shouting saying that the recently-passed legislation making French the province's official language "was a one-way route to 'speaking white'."

More than 1,000 young people from 15 countries including Canada are attending the festival, which will feature more than 200 poets and cultural events at sites throughout the city during the next few days.

Earlier, both Prime Minister Trudeau and Premier Bourassa made separate forays among the backdrop of colorful costumes and high spirits on the legislative lawn.

When Mr. Trudeau arrived, the regional band which had been valiantly pumping out popular songs amidst the cheering and shouting of the delegations struck up "Swaguer in Paradise."

With son Justin on his knee, Mr. Trudeau waved and greeted as the parade of festival participants passed in front of the V.I.P. stand, surrounded with photographers and Quebec government figures, and wound out through the crowds on the way to the Place of Abraham more than a mile away.

Parade participants reaped their and children's delight as they to the green chiffon with white and red sash and the white and red sash of the Lebanese.

The African delegations made the biggest hit, particularly the group of young people from Congo, wearing vivid costumes that glowed in the sun, and their leader, a young man, who sang and danced as one of their number took a large, round drum carried on a litter high above their heads.

Family Fuss Makes Good Joke

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to be home."

comment on the letter from the woman who had an affair with her husband and became pregnant. She wanted the nice, quiet fellow who was engaged and so one was very angry when she gave birth to a little girl.

Now, 13 years later, the daughter brings home a guy she's in love with and it turns out to be the husband of the woman who was so angry. The husband was frantic and wanted to know what to do. He says she doesn't have any right to worry about it. I'll say this: You have a right to be angry. I've heard of a woman being married to a man who was a good father and a good husband, but she was a bad mother. I'll say this: You have a right to be angry. In Spite of Reading Problem, Boy Graduates, Becomes Actor

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: "I'm Robert Can't read." We adopted a boy of two in 1950. He also had a reading problem, but Robert.

The teachers were very understanding and he was able to get Grade 11. Since, we have learned his problem, which is named "Dyslexia."

I have just finished reading a book about it which I found in a paperback edition. Now we have a copy of this handy, helpful book in each of our schools in this small town. This will, I am sure, help teachers and parents understand the children with the Dyslexia handicap.

Dear Doris: Great news! It is a triumph when teachers help a dyslexic student to get straightened out with reading enough to read and perform plays.

Did you know that your body can take in as much as the equivalent of two cups of sugar from cereals, vegetables, fruit and bread consumed during the day of otherwise "sugared" eating?

Newfoundland Fishermen Seek Help in Moving

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) —

Hundreds of several thousand fishermen could be fighting communities have asked the Newfoundland government for assistance in moving to larger centres.

The move, first in 1961, is reviving controversy over the resettlement of fishermen, who the province provides grants to relocate, while in the past, some of the smaller outports, such as Franks Island, had decided that the answer is being completed to abandon small settlements but there have been reports that government services have been reduced in some of the island coves and harbors on Fogo Bay.

A fisherman who moved to the Bay of Fundy from one of the outports said he was faced to leave by a lack of facilities, standard schooling, poor communications and transportation difficulties.

He said there is no school in which $1 to $9 children were attending a study from Grade 1 through Grade 11.

Scores of small coves and islands along the shores of Bonaville Bay and the north-west coast, were officially evacuated several years ago when some residents refused to leave their homes and have hung on under trying conditions.

During May, June and July this year, two small fishing communities, St. John's and Cooch, were isolated because could not move their heavy Arctic ice that drifted south, filled the small harbors and cooled the coastline.

There is no other means of transportation along the rocky coast, and it is difficult for summer residents, who are being objected to their lives in such isolation.

But much depended on aid from Ottawa, and sometimes along the line between the Newfoundland politicians and Ottawa civil servants, community problems drive fishermen in Florida Bay ended up near Conception.

Sabah Bars Long Hair, Prostitutes

KOTA KINABALU, Sabah (Reuters) — "If you are dressed as a shabby or dirty person or living in lewdness, you will be asked to leave within 15 minutes."

The government has cracked down on houses, prostitutes and other "undesirable elements" in Kota Kinabalu, a coastal town with a long history of tourism and other activities.

The state assembly recently passed a law making it virtually impossible for prostitutes to work long hours.

The new law prohibits "undesirable elements" from taking part in or attending any public gathering, and other activities, including those in restaurants, nightclubs and cinemas.

Chance, the site of a 300-000-barrel-a-day refinery and fuel removed from their traditional fishing grounds, that have been pulled back to fishing.

The oil refinery only required skilled and educated workers and most fishermen, unable to read or write, were obliged to take to their boats.

Some fishermen, who were employed by the government, were paid to work on the boats, but they could not obtain credit from fish supply stores.

Now the federal government is going all out to lure them back to the Florida Bay islands for the fishing season.

Regional Expansion Minister Don Jamieson said the government will provide fishermen with various facilities, including training and possibly even luggage.

The federal policy was well-cared by fishermen but some questioned why the facilities had been abandoned in the first place, mentioning the thousands of millions of dollars for even partial regions.

Beyond this, the fishermen found themselves in a predicament. Apart from the Canada-Chance refinery, the fishermen had no other choice.

Some members of the foreign community here believe the law reflects a deep concern that Western influences might lead Sabah's culture and possibly its religious-Islamic, state officials claim, such blanket charges as grossly unfair.

"We're afraid, we're only afraid of bad influences from outside the state," said Herman Lim, an assistant minister and close aide to Tun Mustapha.

Just before the law was passed, the state said it was taking a stand against "undesirable elements" from taking part in or attending any public gathering, and other activities, including those in restaurants, nightclubs and cinemas.

PUC Gets New Home

Official opening of the new Belleville Utilities Commission office on the corner of Front and College Streets will be held Oct. 19. The staff of the PUC will move into the new building Sept. 15.

Utilities commission chairman, Gerald O'Connor, said Tuesday the commission hopes to rearrange public hours by Oct. 19 of the commission plant and the Sidney St. service centre.

With the opening of the new building, PUC employees will leave their old PUC office since 1968, will retire.

Although he was well over retirement age, Mr. Marner agreed a year ago to retire with the commission until after it had completed its move to the new office.

Church Repairs Proceed

Heavy specialists A.M. Shaw and Sons of Toronto are given another award in recognition of their service to the community. Mr. Shaw was named as the Federation of Teachers' Associations of Ontario (F.T.A.O.) award for the work done in the renovation of the St. John's Anglican church in Belleville. The work was completed in the month of September.

Learning of more work in the town and portions of the stone walls necessitated the removal of the job which with woodwork repairs on the tower and window sills is costing $50,000.

Parks Board OKs Rezoning Plan

The city parks board and the recreation area committee have approved the rezoning of the Pines Road area. The plan for a new park area in the Pines Road area north of Bridge St. to allow condominium construction.

And approval for the zoning change is on the understanding that the City Planning Board will give consideration to the need for a park area to serve the developing residential area in the city's west end and in adjoining Sidney Township.

The area, for which the rezoning has been requested, is on a 16-acre parcel west of Palmer Rd. where the hotel portion of the 133 lots in three blocks of residential structures, and a large single-family house is in the area in the hotel portion.

A draft plan of the development was presented to the council meeting of the

More Land Needed

Bruce Nickson, chairman of Belleville's industrial commission, says more land is needed in the city to continue recent growth patterns. While industrial land to residential, he says his personal emphasis is towards industrial parks at the city's north end.

Retired Teacher Honored

In 1972 she became the first woman to be awarded the Sir Mackenzie Bowell trophy for outstanding service in education. Mrs. Blakely first special education consultant with the Hastings County Board of Education, has had a distinguished career.

Mrs. Blakely's quiet retirement from teaching in 1968 was followed by a move to Belleville and to teaching in 1969 when school superintendent L.A. Kells asked her to put a special education certificate, earned 13 years before, to use with a girl's home economics.

During her years as a teacher, Mrs. Blakely became aware of the need for special education and assistance for parents and leaders. She organized the Quinte branch of the Council for Exceptional Children and the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities.

Mrs. Blakely was also president of the Belleville teachers' association, a member of the board of directors of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario and in 1971, she was awarded the Sir Mackenzie Bowell trophy for her contributions to education.

Retired a year ago, she remains active in the associations she helped form.

Vandals Sought by PUC

Vandalism at the Pine St. reservoir, owned by Belleville Utilities Commission, has become so severe the commission has appropriated money for repairs for information leading to the identification of the vandals.

Highest reward for information will be $125, the commission decided at its monthly meeting Tuesday.

The reservoir area has been sealed and is used by neighborhood children as an informal playground. However, general manager Neil Britton said destruction of property by older youths has reached serious proportions.

Metaphors have torn up the turf and a "vandal" pool of paint and debris have been smashed, he said.

He said the vandals are using the door of the adjacent Pines Road area.

Germes Seen Key To Feeding Masses

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Vital nutrients for the world's hungry masses can be produced for future generations by conventional plants and animals, a Japanese researcher says.

Prof. Takuya Harada of the University of Osaka said that controlled conditions such as micro-organisms as yeasts and moulds can produce pre-ursors for a cell division in pre-laminated and moulded and climate. Artificial feeding and coloring would make need two to three weeks. But plants need one to two weeks, children the green produced food need two to four weeks and cattle one to two months.

Food factories using micro-organisms would also be much more compact than farms. The chemical process would take place in fermentation vats under controlled temperatures.

Paraffin reacts with yeast, an additional ton of yeast protein-sufficient to overcome the protein shortage forecast by the year 2000.

Microorganisms generally have been used in the past as agents of decomposition. But they have the ability to create new products in decomposition. Harada said, the predicted world population in the future on their powers of creation.

Alouettes Handed First Loss

Riders Put It All Together

OTTAWA (CP) — Rejuvenated Alouettes' first loss in 1974 came Tuesday night when they defeated the long-suffering Montreal Alouettes 21-14 at Eastern Football Centre (EFC) game.

The defending Grey Cup champions were picked apart by Montreal's quarterback Jerry Riggins and his supporting cast of players during their last meeting and after leading most of the game, Ottawa won the shut-out of a 20-13 loss.

At that time it was the second loss in a row for the Riders and rookie coach George Horne began having the little slams for the team's next meeting. The plan worked and the Riders are still Riders and Jones to 40 fans.

The Riders led 8-0 after the first quarter. 14-0 at the half and 20-0 after three quarters.

Riders' defensive back Al MacNeil intercepted a pass by Montreal's quarterback on the first play of the game. MacNeil later intercepted two other Montreal passes, both by Jones.

Both teams lost one fumble by Jones and the other by the Riders' quarterback, Rick Casata.

Casata led the ball when he was injured in the second quarter. He left the game and didn't return. Officials said later that the quarterback may have suffered a mild concussion but Casata said he is fine and is ready to play.

Montreal said the team used a wider defence to contain Jones and as a result stopped Riders, who picked up 17 yards on passes.

Montreal had 21 first downs with a total net offense of 277 yards while Ottawa had a net offense of 301 yards and 13 first downs.

The Riders made effective drive came through the air as leading receivers on six of 15 passes for 200 yards. Jones accounted for 168 yards, grabbing five first downs. Before the game, Riders' coach George Horne said the team was looking for a franchise of the type.

And fan, who is suffering from an injured index finger, hopes to dispel doubt about his competence as starting quarterback for the Argos.

Evanshen, outstanding Canadian in the Canadian Football League in 1967 with Calgary Stampeders and in 1971 with Montreal, was released by the team before the start of the 1974 season.

his injury, Casata threw three passes, one successfully for 21 yards, one for 10 yards and one for 10 yards. But most of the passes were late in the game on desperation plays when the Riders gave up the short passes to protect the deep zone.

He also scored a 25-yard field goal in the third quarter. Kicker Don Sweet converted the touchdown and booted field goals from the 52 and 30 yard line.

The Riders' controlled the game throughout, displaying the defensive and offensive ability that led them to the title in 1973. The Riders' defence was much to the pleasure of the 24,000 fans.

MEMO FROM HELEN GAGEN, CUSTOMER ADVISOR

For most meals, shoppers today are taking a long, hard look at prices. But sometimes we want to splurge for a special occasion, a birthday or event. For such occasions, you might want to know that fresh Canadian lamb is now reaching the market - a luxury still thrifter than eating out.

To balance your budget on ordinary days, consider pork chops, pork shoulder roast or chops, braising ribs and chickens. And remember that heavy demand for steaks during the barbecue season can be reflected in good freezer buys of beef forequarters.

Whatever your meat choice, let summer fruits, vegetables and green herbs to make meat both nourishing and delicious. Fresh corn, for instance, can put excitement into a simple meal. And imaginative handled salads of home - green beans and tomatoes can change an economy meal into a feast. Use all a matter of thoughtful planning, careful shopping, and economical use of every bit of food you buy.

Planning State Critical

OTTAWA (CP) — Publishers of City, a new national urban affairs magazine, say planning is in a critical state in this country.

"The situation might be changing only because people are putting so much pressure on their governments," Ben Clark, a director of the Charter Group Publishers Inc., said in an interview.

Mr. Clark, a co-ordinator of four in the federal department of urban affairs and four other planners decided in 1973 to revive publication of a magazine.

The decision was reached at the 1973 convention of the Towns Planning Institute of Canada (T.P.I.C.) in Charlottetown, where, they say, they felt their attempts to make planners more responsive to citizens needs were stymied by other demands.

Publishing colleagues include Audrey Stewart, research officer in the federal department of urban affairs in Ottawa; Ken Genovese, assistant professor at the University of Waterloo, school of urban and regional planning; James Smith, senior lecturer in urban planning at the University of Toronto; and John D. G. Smith, Toronto neighborhood planner.

The non-profit Toronto-based magazine runs feature stories, regional reports and book reviews. Mr. Clark said it is establishing a network of contacts in Canada's five main regions which he expects to become very broad and very reactive.

City prints articles in French and English as written and, Mr. Clark said, hopes to be able to translate submissions to the magazine, to be published eight times a year.

"Planners don't want to be politicians, and it's naive to think you can work at the municipal level and not be," said Mr. Clark of a theory planning issue. "Planners are part of the problem, not the process."

Dr. Genovese said another theme in Canadian planning history is British influence.

"These British planners which the C.I.R.P. (Central Institute of Research and Planning) at one time brought over as educators are just a wasted resource in the upper middle positions of C.I.R.P. and harmful because they have locked other types of ideas through their eyes."

"They have a very physical orientation and don't see a city as a social entity."

Mr. Clark said university planning education is still a large error, in the hands of British-trained educators.

Isle Royale Tailor-made Ecosystem

COPPER HARBOR, Mich. (CP) — To biologists in the United States, Isle Royale is a perfectly enclosed ecosystem where the effects of predation can be carefully studied.

Work by Dr. David Mech and others have shown wolves and moose can live together and live best together.

To biologist the archipelago of 200 tiny satellite islands is an interesting laboratory of natural forces that shaped the earth some 4 million years and nine miles wide, Isle Royale is the second-largest island in the Great Lakes.

Archaeologists view Isle Royale with wonder. They count some 400 pits dug in the ground by some prehistoric people 4,000 years ago who sought high-grade copper and shipped it across Lake Superior.

Geographers prize over its isolation in Michigan. Some 48 miles from Copper Harbor on the Keweenaw Peninsula, it is but 17 miles from Minnesota and 20 from Ontario.

In 1962, Governor Elmer Anderson of Minnesota suggested that his state should "let it take its own course," setting in place the National Park Service move its headquarters to his state.

Bee Research 25 Years Old

LONDON (CP) — Meetings around the world this year mark the 25th anniversary of Britain's Bee Research Association, the organization which provides scientific and technical advice and aid to beekeepers and apiculturists in 35 countries.

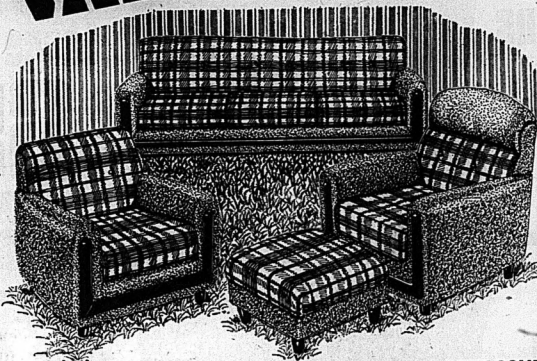

The importance and usefulness of the humble bee is common sense and more acknowledged, says E. J. Crane, association director. Besides providing honey it is important in crop-pollination. "The next 25 years will see more use of bees for farming, education and environmental studies."

The association's main members were held at the University of London. Members visited the university's museum of natural history where much of the association's collection of old beehiving material is preserved.

Gathering the Faithful

Hundreds of pilgrims gather at the cathedral in Ste. Anne de Beaugard to celebrate the July 25 feast day of the saint. The town is one of several pilgrim communities along Quebec's Highway 15. In the background is the St.

Lawrence River and the St. d'Orléans. (CP Photo)

Quebec to Ste. Anne Road Provides Step into Past

QUEBEC (CP) — A visit to the myriad tiny communities along the north shore of the St. Lawrence River, east of Quebec City, can be likened to a time backward in time. With maple-evaporating towns such as Beaugard, Beaudette, and L'Ange-Gardien, the towns found in ascending fashion with only the road signs at their boundaries to differentiate them.

The communities hug the Lac Highway 15, which General Wolfe used as a supply line to his troops, encircling the base of Cap Diamant, rising steeply to the city in late spring and summer of 1759. Previous efforts to subdue the ships within range of General Montcalm's cannon proved disastrous.

The towns can be reached easily from any major Quebec City landmark, for example the Chateau Frontenac, by simply following the Highway 15 signs past the downtown shopping core. One scores of routes along the edge of the city and into the rolling countryside.

Along a major two-lane artery was built in the 1950s on the banks of the St. Lawrence river 400 yards from the original one-lane road. The rugged dwellings and tall chimneys separating the two villages as effective fire signals the din of fast-flowing traffic, preserving the river and easy pace characteristic of the area.

The road dips and swirls with the contours of the Lac region foothills and at times is so narrow that two approaching automobiles have difficulty creeping past. Along its tree-lined periphery are hundreds of small, five-story dwellings, some built so close to the road that their owners have trouble obtaining insurance.

Alexis Gingras, a lean, grizzled farmer whose family has owned such a home for generations on the slopes of L'Ange-Gardien, said the closeness of the highway to his house is a dread prevention problem.

"The wife and I were having supper one night," he said, "when the whole house shook and the fender of a truck jolted into our living room door."

"So we went back, thank the Lord, but the whole side of the house had to be shored up and recemented. The insurance covered a good part of the cost."

Mr. Gingras, however, is not so confident that the next accident will not cost him more. It is said about 10 or 15 semi-trucks have struck the village in recent years, and insurance companies are displaying increasing reticence at providing coverage.

The road gradually becomes steeper as the visitor approaches Montserrat Falls, where the visitor can see his car's shadow on the misty side of the falls, misting into the Montserrat River on its journey to the St. Lawrence.

Across the river, linked by the mist-filled by a suspension bridge, lie the gentle hills of the d'Orléans, dotted with tiny farming communities whose agrarian methods have changed little since the late 19th century.

Dipping back into a small valley the visitor comes upon a cluster of handcraft shops and several outdoor shops, where one can savor hot brick-ovens bread served with glass of fresh butter or thick molasses.

The little shops offer hand-woven rugs and sweaters as well as wooden lamps and figures grown in the local form of farm labor, from the form of farm labor, from the form of farm labor, from the form of farm labor.

Occasionally, but rarely because of their popularity with tourists, the shops offer an opportunity for the visitor to have an intimate meal away from the crowded restaurants.

The road finally yields and leads to the town of Ste. Anne de Beaugard, famed for its shrine where Benedictine nuns, on the feast day of the saint to pray for relief from their afflictions.

Inside the massive entrance to the two-spired cathedral are huge thousands of wheelchairs and crutches, which the Benedictines say have been left behind after visits to the shrine.

The shrine has become a religious mecca famous around the world — even since a crew of terrified sailors, caught in a gale off the d'Orléans in the 19th century, prayed to Ste. Anne to save them.

The wind rainedly sub against the shrouding. The men of the shrine, they built a tiny chapel on the site which was supplanted years later with the present les convertis in 1971. Down the hill stands the house of Ste. Anne de Beaugard, its streets lined with shops of various trades and the village of various trades and the village of various trades.

Several citizens' groups have tried to have the sight replaced or moved down, but their efforts have thus far proved largely unsuccessful. At sundown, the hundreds of thousands of summer visitors line the entrance to the four-lane highway, to return in high-speed conflict to their motels or campgrounds.

CUPE Calls For Inquiry Over Wage Issue

TRENTON — A spokesman for the Canadian Union of Public Employees says he will request an Ontario labor ministry inquiry into salaries of workers at Hamilton Ambulance service here.

Douglas Lindsay, CUPE spokesman for Hamilton's eight employees, made the statement today following fruitless mediation talks Wednesday.

"It's the only recourse the union can take," he said.

Mr. Lindsay said he will request the ministry's enforcement of the Employment Standards Act.

He claims the CUPE members, certified last January, earn an average of $10 to $13 a week. The salaries cover an alternating shift of 10 hours one week and 12 hours the following week. This includes both active and standby duty.

Mr. Lindsay said provincial minimum wage regulations for ambulance services pay call for a $10 wage for a 48-hour week.

Mr. Lindsay said the Hamilton company is "laboring under the microscope" that they only manage the business.

"The ambulance service is really subsidizing by the ministry of health under emergency health services regulations."

"This is another stab as far as I am concerned," Mr. Lindsay said.

A company spokesman said today that Hamilton will not enter any agreements with the union until all parties are satisfied.

"We're already in a neutral position at the moment," the spokesman said. "We have to find out who will pay the wages."

The ambulance service solicits a budget to the health minister for provincial ratification.

A provincial decision on the legal question is expected before another company-union meeting August 28, Grant.

Schools Grant Gap Widens

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario elementary schools need further share of provincial education grants, Premier Henderson, executive secretary of the 33,000-member Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario, said Wednesday.

Miss Henderson told 60 delegates to the federation's annual meeting that the gap between elementary and secondary school grants widened to $27 in 1973, with $65 a pupil for elementary and $125 a pupil for secondary.

She said elementary teachers are registered outside the provincial government and so receive the 1973 grants with more secondary and elementary cuts to which $100 each other.

"It is surely desirable that top quality education must begin in the early grades which means that the present inequity between provincial grants for elementary students and secondary students must be eliminated," he said.

A Penny Still Plenty For Evening of Fun

PICTON — A penny, despite inflation, still can buy evening of party rides, games, fortunetellers and amusements.

For a one-cent admission for the young, and young at heart, Wednesday night enjoyed a penny carnival at Benson Park. The event was sponsored by playgrounds supervised by the parks and recreation committee. It followed a parade up Main Street from the fairgrounds to Benson Park.

They'll Dance To Raise Cash

PICTON — A benefit dance sponsored by members of the Wellington arena building fund will be held Aug. 17, at Prince Edward Centre Club.

Music will be provided by Anita and Company, a DJ with dancing from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. Admission is $5 per couple. No minors will be admitted.

Proceeds from the dance will be contributed to the arena building fund which now approximately total $25,000.

Richard Hall, Picton recreation director, estimated that more than 200 youngsters from nine playgrounds and games were operated by the children with parks supervisors on hand to offer assistance if necessary.

Mr. Hall said that money earned at the carnival will be used to offset the cost of paying for the summer playgrounds scheduled to close next week.

Among the parties participating in the carnival were Abbot, Mountfield Hall, and the Picton and Benson P.A. & C. Diner, Roxy, Fairgrounds, Queen Elizabeth and St. Gregory's.

Mid-East Tragedy

Grief and regret are the twin legacies here of the crash of the Buffalo aircraft on June 19, 1973. The Middle East, that black, Nino-Candiano, a number of them Palestineans residents, died in the crash.

By being in the line of the flight, as part of a peacekeeping team, it is all the more difficult for those at home to reconcile their loss.

For the family of Captain Bob Wicks there had been earlier hopes that he would be home soon. A suggestion that he might that navigators might return to Canada. But it was not to be.

The tragedy of course goes beyond mere job classifications. An entire crew were lost. It would be true to say they gave their lives in the cause of peace, for they were sent to the plane was downed by a missile in the still-dimmering conflict between Syria and Israel. However, they were not sent to die. It was not clear and had clear and attendant risks.

Gains For Liberation

With the way being cleared for independence in Portugal's African colonies, movements at large.

The Palestine Liberation movement for an office in Moscow and this is further proof of Communist support for Mid-East insurgency, and for Communism in other parts of the world.

We may now expect all-out Soviet support for whatever black governments take over in Angola and Mozambique, support that without question will include the building up of the military.

This will have grave implications for Rhodesia and South Africa where the ruling power of the land is the white minority in the latter country at least, the policy is one of "separate, parallel development." South Africa contends this is an "equitable evolution" for all the races. At the same time it is quietly abandoning the older policy of "apartheid."

The new governments in the Portuguese colonies doubtless will be authoritarian (even strong representation from such as the Frelimo guerrilla movement in Mozambique) rather than democratic. It may be that it will be too busy to care where economic development is concerned, but ultimately, and with Communist backing, they may well mean Rhodesia and South Africa.

Meanwhile the "respectability," or others of "liberation," have again gained what might be thought of as an unlikely ally — the United Nations Educational and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

A recent issue of UNESCO Features refers to an act where 100,000 hand-picked men in Paris in aid of liberation movements in Africa. It is further proof that the liberation cause these days has a very respectable standing: as saying that its philosophy was picked up in Toronto from "internationalists from Algeria and Angola."

"These people," he claims, "know where it's at and understand a people's dignity." He does not mean that they also know the right or two about anarchist, urban guerrilla warfare and terrorism.

It is not as if we are shut by Kenora, or among the native population generally, but it has not to be understood that the militants from overseas are always seeking their burning grounds for such sinister activity.

Thus, while the needs and rights of Indians and Eskimos in this country should not be neglected further it is well to ensure they do not become a vehicle for yet another excursion into radicalism.

U.S. Cattlemen Protest Month Delay in Exports

WASHINGTON (CP) — United States cattle and horse packing executives asked for a federal regulation Wednesday to allow exports to Canada to begin almost immediately.

The correct regulation had been passed by the Canadian market since last April—but never back into that market before Sept. 15.

Dr. Gilbert Wise, head of the Animal Plant Health Service (APHIS) of the agriculture department, promised the department would take another look at the restriction.

Wednesday's meeting was called under an agreement with Canada which stipulates that all persons wishing to ship beef to Canada must be bonded on all aspects of the two-country agreement on the use of the growth hormone desialylant (DSS).

The agriculture department said Sept. 15 as the earliest point at which all possible shippers could be bonded and start shipments could not begin before that date.

Opposing the date were C. W. McMillan, executive vice-president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, and Don Magadan, executive vice-president of the National Live Stock Producers' Association.

Both asked that their organizations be allowed to begin shipments as soon as they can.

Canada barred imports of beef from the U.S. shortly after the U.S. released its law on DSS, a compound known to cause cancer in laboratory animals.

Subsequently, the U.S. and Canada worked out an agreement to allow resumption of imports where it can be proved that the stress or most involved had no contact with DSS.

Both McMillan and Magadan also protested a Canadian beef quota announced when the ban was lifted.

Last year, 125,000 slaughter-and feeder cattle, and 35 million pounds of beef and veal were reported to Canada at a value of about $19 million.

The quota, to be in effect for at least a year, will limit U.S. sales to $2,835 head of cattle and 18 million pounds of beef and veal for this year.

McMillan said there was "no excuse" for delaying shipments of cattle beyond Sept. 15.

He said Canada is using the situation as a non-tariff barrier to protect her own cattlemen, adding that "otherwise they wouldn't have announced quota and acceptance of the DSS certification agreement at the same time."

By further delaying the shipment of cattle to Sept. 15, he said, "We're playing right into their hands."

Magadan said, "There is a strong feeling among the Canadian government" over the situation and that "if cattle shipments are held up by U.S. regulations, 'that feeling is going to be against the U.S. government."

He said Canadian certification requirements "are arbitrary," but "we've got to live with them."

In Ottawa, S. B. Williams, deputy minister of agriculture, said neither side had agreements to a firm date for the beginning of resumed U.S. beef exports to Canada. The decision is up to the U.S. authorities, he said.

Williams said, Canada's first interest in the situation was the period limit in force of the historic provisions.

Mr. Williams said Canada's original position was to suspend exports to begin by about Sept. 1, two weeks earlier than the time recommended by the U.S. department.

White House Tapes Nixon's Property

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration says the special Watergate prosecution will have to deal with former president Richard Nixon if the prosecutor wants additional White House tapes.

That was the outcome of a decision Wednesday that the controversial tape recordings are Nixon's personal property.

A Ford spokesman said that White House lawyers reached their decision on the tapes after consulting with the prosecutor's office and the justice department.

The spokesman said they "reached no objections."

Presidential press secretary Jerald Terrell says the "tapes are a collective one."

However, a spokesman for special prosecutor Leon Jaworski said his office was informed about the decision but "did not take part in it."

He refused to say whether the press agrees with it.

Terrell later said that the "collective judgment" actually was the decision of James S. Chase and Fred Banham, the two lawyers who led the fight to withhold the tapes while Nixon was president.

Nixon had refused to obey eight subpoenas from the House of Representatives Judiciary committee for tapes on the Watergate case. There are no subpoenas outstanding for the prosecutor's office but Jaworski had requested by letter many tapes he never received.

Earlier in the week, when a spokesman for the prosecutor's office was asked about the tapes remaining at the White House, he replied: "Certainly, this is material that is potentially of interest to us."

Indians Acquitted At Wounded Knee

LINDOLN, Neb. (AP) — U.S. courts were lawfully engaged in the performance of their official duties.

Wednesday declared Gregorio Jaramilla of Denver, Colo., and Michael Eugene Gurdanov of Neopla, Wis., not guilty of charges filed against them in connection with the 71-day occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D., last year.

Under the decision said there was "reasonable doubt as to whether law enforcement officers" were lawfully engaged in the performance of their official duties.

The men were charged under the section of the federal anti-riot laws dealing with interference with law officers.

Urison said they could not be found guilty because there was doubt as to whether the FBI and federal marshals were acting lawfully at Wounded Knee.

Cornwall Hospital Pays More

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — A new two-year contract affecting 14 employees at Cornwall General Hospital, gave them an average 10 percent wage increase, was announced today.

Richard Belanger, chief negotiator of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) representing the workers, said the new contract gives them an 8-cent-an-hour increase this year, and an 8-cent-an-hour increase in 1977.

Belanger said that, in the new contract, the most increase was about $1.00 for each employee, Mr. Belanger said.

Big Cars Regain Popularity in U.S.

DETROIT (CP) — The popularity of small cars intensified by the U.S. economy's decline in 1976, but recent U.S. statistics show that the large-car market is now on the rise.

Just seven months ago small cars took a record 40 percent of the U.S. market, while large cars were gathering dust in dealer lots.

Forecasters of big cars were double those of small cars, and the auto companies staged a series of contests aimed at selling big cars.

Small cars are still selling well and are expected to account for almost half of U.S. sales this year, but the big cars have been back on their feet.

Last month full and intermediate size cars took 55 percent of the market.

Anti-freeze Fraud Alleged

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Police say they are conducting a fraud investigation into the sale of non-permanent antifreeze to several local car dealers and trucking firms.

A spokesman said they are investigating complaints from three firms who bought between $300 and $1,000 worth of non-permanent antifreeze and found it to be worthless.

The alcohol mixture can freeze at high temperatures, and is not suitable for use in cars.

Permanant antifreeze is also being sold to the forensic laboratory, but the police are also looking into the forensic laboratory.

For analysis, police said.

Chemical firm of Burlington, Ont., one of the firms selling the non-permanent antifreeze, said it was not involved in the sale.

Drums of solution sold by the company are clearly labeled and could not be mistaken for a permanent type.

Police Lawyer Says Honest Error Made

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — The Niagara regional police made a mistake when they arrested a man on the premises of a restaurant, a lawyer said today.

Mr. McKelvey referred to earlier a public order violation by the man, who was found on the premises and that the police officers were necessary.

He said that although the man was not a police officer, the commission the man was given was not justified.

But he said, it was "the honest error of judgment" on the part of the police.

He added that "police officers should not be 'guilted' for an honest error of judgment."

Filipinos Revive Ancient Rituals

MANILA (Roster) — Rumors are almost reliable to preserve the dead as mummies are being revived in the remote mountains of the northern Philippines.

Legislative leaders here in the mountain town of Kibangay to see his collection of centuries-old mummies have heard rumors that the aged, precious artifacts being continued in the hills.

As far as official information is concerned, preserving the dead as mummies died centuries ago.

Kibangay's town hall alone offers a spectacle of bodies that attract foreign visitors to make the 250-mile journey from Manila to the remote town of Kibangay. The mummies have been carried from an ancient burial ground in a mountain cave perched 4,000 feet above sea level. The mummifying process carried out by the mountain dwellers of hundreds of years ago is long, tedious and complicated. It normally would take days to a month, but rich families often dragged out the ritual for as long as nine years. After ensuring that the friend or relative to be preserved was dead, all the body fluids were drained. The body was tied in a crouching position, and the skin washed five or six times with boiled water, spread with gamsa (scented oil) and then dried. The body that was dried in the sun or smoked inside bamboo baskets. Animal fats and leaves of various plants were rubbed into the skin during the drying-out process.

More Women Seek Employment In Quinte Area During July

Attractive wage settlements and inflation have drawn more women into the Belleville job market during July. There are among reasons advanced by the Ontario power commission explaining why more women than men continue to register for jobs this summer. Statistics on the number of persons seeking work in the Belleville area during July show a drop of five per cent from July last, but seven per cent increase from July, 1970.

"Recent wage settlements in the area have been pretty substantial," said the Manpower official. "And whenever that happens it's always a power of women at the labour market."

He also said, however, that many women who may not have worked for years, may be having to wait longer to be substantial wage rates. But inflation is also a factor in women's return to the workforce.

As a result, Manpower statistics do not accurately reflect the number who have actually been hired and are seeking new employment. The total number of persons registered for work at the Belleville Manpower office are July 1, 1971: June 1, 1971: July 1, 1970.

The figures do not include university and high school students seeking summer work. There were 100 in June, compared to 90 in July. The Belleville Manpower office covers the city, Hastings County and Amherstburg township.

Nurses Protect Jobs

The public health authority in Hastings County Board planned to drop one staff member from the health unit. The nurses have been recently reorganized into Local 31, Ontario Nurses' Association.

The new emphasis being placed by the Ontario health ministry and experts on preventive care has led to a reorganization of the health unit. The letter was placed in the agenda of a board meeting Wednesday. The nurses said it was prompted by word that board had planned to drop one staff member from the health unit. The nurses have been recently reorganized into Local 31, Ontario Nurses' Association.

Officers of the new organization are: Wilma Gaudy, president; Barbara Olinick, Belleville, secretary; and Joseph McEneaney, secretary-treasurer.

Mohawks Prepare For Teaching Jobs

Three Tyendinaga Mohawks are in regular classes to prepare native people to teach in Ontario elementary schools. They are David Marazi, Valerie Marazi and Mrs. Danna B. Marazi.

The three are among the 10 Indian students enrolled in the course at Hamilton Teachers' College. The seven-week course will be followed by a second seven-week session in the fall of next year. Before returning for the second session, all students will undergo nine weeks of intensive training in regular schools to which they are assigned.

Mr. Marazi will be a teacher at Victoria and Grey Trust, and at the Lakeview campus on Plunkett Street, the chief was asked to take a second look and report back to the authority at its next meeting.

The Ontario ministry of education offered the course for native people for the first time in regular schools. "Course standards in many ways exceed minimum standards in regular schools," says Mr. Marazi, principal of the course.

The only standard that has been waived is the prerequisite of a university degree. All participants have at least a high school diploma, except for native students who must have obtained grade 12 standing.

All applicants must have been recommended by local church and council and native associations, he said.

Mr. Marazi will be a teacher at Victoria and Grey Trust, and at the Lakeview campus on Plunkett Street, the chief was asked to take a second look and report back to the authority at its next meeting.

Comrade Given Guard of Honor

Crowds gathered around Eastminster United Church Wednesday afternoon, waiting for the military funeral procession for Cpl. Robert Wick.

He was one of three Canadians killed when their aircraft crashed while on a United Nations flight in the Middle East. Cremation will take place in Toronto. A large group of servicemen attended the brief funeral service while many others waited outside to form a parade of honor.

Fluoride Use Growing Among Quinte Residents

There's been healthy response to a program aimed at increasing fluoride usage in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties. The project, launched by public health authorities six months ago, focused on rural areas where water supplies are not fluoridated.

The counties' public health unit has household water supply analyses and provides prescriptions for fluoride tablets. Since the project began last spring, 67 wells have been tested and 400 prescriptions issued, the counties public health board was told Wednesday.

Dr. Donald A. Warwick, director of the health unit's dental services, described the response as "pleasing." The number of prescriptions dispensed since the program started, Dr. Warwick said, matched the total requested and the two-story building where he is also dental services director. They are Northumberland, Durham, Victoria and Bathurst, which have almost the same population as the two Quinte counties. Under the program, a drop of prescribed fluoride in a child's drink may compensate for deficient water supply. The use of fluoride in basic step toward dental health, Dr. Warwick said.

Police Chief Douglas T. Crook said he will take household water supply analyses and provides prescriptions for fluoride tablets. Since the project began last spring, 67 wells have been tested and 400 prescriptions issued, the counties public health board was told Wednesday.

The matter of pedestrian safety at crosswalks was first discussed by the police and light committee which suggested removal of some meters and then referred the matter to the parking authority.

Quinte Musicians Tour West and S.S.

Belleville musicians are adding to the enjoyment of spectators at the Edmonton Junior Olympics and the World Junior Championships, as well as in Washington, as well as in the capital city of Ottawa.

The Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Band of HMCS Quatre, Cornwall, B.C. is touring the world on a two-week tour period at the end of the summer.

Director of Quinte Senior Band is Sub-Lieut. Dale Jones, of Belleville. Chief Petty Officer Robert Bessie is a staff instructor with the HRCSD band. At home, he is lead drummer with the HRCSD band.

Another Quinte cadet with the Quinte band is Petty Officer Four First Class Stephen Jones, of Belleville. He is a lead drummer with the HRCSD band.

The new senior citizens centre building will be the fifth such structure in the area. It will be built on the site of the old St. George's, near the East Belleville place.

Petty Officer Second Class Terry Crook, lead clarinetist, was with the Quinte band at the HRCSD Quinte Senior Band.

Two Hurt In Crash

A name on May 14th to work and an 18-year-old Stirling was killed in a head-on collision in Belleville Highway 404 after a two-car collision on Highway 11 and Highway 404.

Elfrida Laitanen, of 112 Stirling, was taken to hospital with bruises and lacerations to the head.

The driver of the second car, David Smith of Stirling, was taken to hospital with lacerations and a fractured arm. Both were alone in their vehicles at the time of the accident.

The mid-air collision occurred at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

The number of students applying for jobs has increased by 45 per cent since the 1970-71 term. Program enrollment has increased by a similar amount.

Figures are not available for the operating term, but a spokesman for Belleville's Bank of Montreal said "the help of the bank has been well received by the bank."

Mr. Brennan said the college expects about 1000 full-time students to enroll this year. She said she expects 400, or 600 of those students to apply for loans.

Of the 600 who applied last year, 200 accepted the offer. In explaining the increase in the average loan, Mr. Brennan said loans over the entire spectrum of student needs, including room and board.

The cost of living has affected this particular area, he added.

Boarding house lists at various times show a wide range of prices, from $100 to $150 per month.

While the amount of the loan has risen by 42 per cent, the cost of living has risen by 42 per cent since 1967.

Koch Martin, college instructor of English, said the rising cost of living and increased tuition fees are "major contributors" to the increased student loans.

New Industry Welcomed

Poll Twine Corp. Ltd., a subsidiary of Imperial Oil Ltd., was welcomed by Mayor Robin Jeffrey as the newest addition to Belleville's industrial community. Going over plans, company project manager Gerry Thulouane said the building would cover more than 25,000 square feet at the Duxek St. site. Also on hand for the official welcome was Brian Hones representing Cornerstone Engineering and Brian Nickson, chairman of the city's industrial commission.

The property for the development was purchased more than a year ago by Ontario Housing Corporation from Albert College.

Students Borrowing More Money To Attend Classes This Year

By COLIN BRUCE Staff Reporter A Loyalty College official said more students are borrowing more money to attend classes this year.

Barbara Brennan, college student awards officer, said in an interview with the Intelligencer Wednesday that the average individual loan from the bank was up from $200 three years ago to more than $1,000 this year. This represents a 40 per cent increase in three years.

This province's ministry of colleges and universities administers the loan system and requires the bank of any loan to be repaid.

of the loan is considered a grant and is not repaid, says Mr. Brennan.

Based on college records, 339 of a possible 1,000 secondary students received an average loan of about $1,100 last term.

Mr. Martin said the multiplication of the loan by the number of students would give a fair picture of the total loan value. He said the post-secondary students are borrowing more money to attend classes this year.

Mr. Brennan said. Some time students can't get jobs and the loan system is flexible, she added.

"Some students don't know what assistance is available," she said.

Increased advertising is one reason why more students are applying for loans, though "it's not that. The trend is going money away," she said. Loans up to $1,000 are available, depending on a student's financial position, she said.

Considered in the loan application is the amount the student is expected to be earning during the summer.

Ticats Snowed Under By Argo Front Four

TORONTO (CP) — "We have a good front four," said the Argo front four, but we would have been a second if we could."

That was the comment made by Coach Bob Rasmussen after the Argo front four's victory over Hamilton Tiger-Cats in an Eastern Football Conference game Wednesday night.

Backed by rookie linebacker Ben Johnson, added by Don Gray, Grassy Leggett and Don Rasmussen, the Argo front four was a key factor in the victory. In three games since facing him, he has thrown passes nearly as often as he has intercepted them.

"I think we contained Raley this time," said Coach Rasmussen. "Our defensive tackles did a good job of containing him. He's not the outside player we called him. But he's quite a football player."

Raley's 12-yard touchdown pass to Peter Miller in the third quarter lifted the Argo to victory. In the fourth quarter, Rasmussen's 12-yard touchdown pass to Miller gave the Argo a 21-10 victory. Rasmussen's 12-yard touchdown pass to Miller gave the Argo a 21-10 victory.

He didn't cheer the officials' third-quarter call that gave Argo the ball after the Tiger-Cats' 10-0 lead.

"They called the penalty on the Tiger-Cats," he said.

Old Iron Ore Mines Could Be Oil Depots

BELL ISLAND, N.M. (CP)—Abandoned iron-ore mines on the Conception Bay Island, about 15 miles northwest of St. John's, may become underground and surface oil storage facilities.

A report on a preliminary study of the feasibility of converting the abandoned mines in an oil storage depot says a section of the island "has the safety and geologically sound for more spreads of 10 million barrels."

The study, a joint undertaking of the federal and provincial governments, was carried out by Pacific and Atlantic Inc. of Tulsa, Okla., a consulting firm with worldwide experience in underground storage facilities.

The company's report released in St. John's, also notes there is a possibility of converting the mines into a number of areas for storage of different petroleum products. It concludes that the potential hazards such as fire and leakage are controllable and reversible and that "access to the island are not too complete."

The underground and surface mines reach out under Conception Bay, which surrounds the island, to a distance of about 30 miles. The bay has no good natural harbors but is easily accessible from the open ocean and water off the island is capable of handling the largest oil tankers.

Harry says he thinks the results look affirm.

Quake Forecasts Possible

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Earthquake prediction has advanced to the edge of reality.

Small quakes in the Soviet Union, New York state and Southern California have been successfully predicted during the last two years. Forecasts are likely to start coming thick and fast in the next few years, scientists say, and with increasing accuracy.

"We're trying to build up a good track record," said Dr. James Whitcomb of the California Institute of Technology.

To give some of kind of guidance on whether predictions should be taken seriously, California's office of emergency services has set up an advisory committee of earthquake experts.

These experts have agreed to meet within 24 hours of any prediction to give a collective opinion on how qualified the forecaster is.

Officials are confident it will be a big help in separating qualified scientists from crackpots or questionable amateurs.

One question is how widely word of a predicted quake should be spread. Some people have questioned the value of warning the public of a disaster they can't do much about.

Much of the excitement about predictions surrounds a new theory of how quakes happen. It is called the dilatancy model because of the way underground rocks under pressure are believed to dilate, or swell, under great pressure.

As the gigantic strains build up, cracks form and tiny cracks filled with ground water begin to enlarge. As they do, they are to begin completely filled with water and the water pressure drops.

Seismologists can tell when this is occurring because sound waves from distant quakes or underground blasts may measure as they pass through the dilated region.

Later, ground water from the surrounding region seeps back into the enlarged region and the speed of the waves returns to normal. Under the increased water pressure, the rock falls completely and the huge earth shifts along the fault, touching off the quake.

By noticing the slowed-down waves and their return to normal, scientists can calculate about when the quake should happen.

Whitcomb used the dilatancy model to forecast a moderate quake near Riverside, east of Los Angeles, early this year. The area was jolted by such a quake Jan. 30.

Whitcomb explained the need for further study before the method can be refined to an accuracy that will be truly useful.

Whitcomb said quake prediction has advanced more rapidly than has the study of the social and economic effects of such disasters and how forecasts can be put to use.

Fears Changes

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — New provincial liquor laws easing restrictions in restaurants and permitting neighborhood pubs may bankrupt some restaurant owners, said Dr. Bellamy, managing director of the B.C. branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association. He said he feared too many new investors would enter the business.

SHOOTING THE BREEZE

with Steve

There are two kinds of people who don't say much: those who are quiet, and those who talk a lot.

Flattery is the only card that never misses its mark.

Back in the days of gun-toting, before doctors had a shoulder holster was the only "modern protection."

Confidence is simply that quality which allows you to tell you have just before you fall flat on your face.

Victory Achieved Turkish Advance Halted at Nicosia

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Cyprus government has announced that Turkish troops were within hours of seizing the top third of the island. Turkish Premier Indrek Gencer said his forces would cease fire at 11 p.m. (noon EDT) and use coordinated land to impose a federated state with separate Turkish and Greek administrations.

Turkish forces have already occupied a 25-mile section of the capital of Nicosia. They were occupying the conquest of Morphou, 10 miles west of Nicosia, and Derfika, 10 miles west of Lefka, 20 miles further west.

At the same time, Turkish army and artillery attacks forced the Cyprus government to abandon the capital and flee to the southeast coast of Limassol.

Cyprus President Glafos
Kisiris and his ministers fled hastily, but the down of the deserted presidential offices were left hanging in the wind.

There was no evidence that any attempt had been made to remove files or other papers.
The building was destroyed.
Even the armed police guard surrounding it, until earlier in the day was nowhere to be seen.

Ereivi said the Turkish troops were expected to reach their military objectives no later than the ceasefire hour.

He said the military objectives which would be cut off from the south by a line behind Cyprus from Lefka in the west to Famagusta in the east.

He said "This not only shows Turkey's skill at making war but also the grossness of our people's intention," because "in order to achieve an end which could be achieved in a few weeks at the negotiating table,"
"we even undertook diplomatic marches knowing behind them they would produce results, he said, apparently referring to his trip to London behind Turkey invaded the island July 15.

"In fact the foundations have been laid for a federated Cyprus state with two separate autonomous regions and administrations, and the only basis for separatism is the Greek Cypriot proposal from the beginning as the only basis for separatism."

He expressed belief that the results of the Turkish military operation "removed the obstacles blocking the negotiations" on Cyprus.

Turkey requires military action on the strife-torn island because the Greek Cypriote collapse of the second round of Greece peace talks Tuesday night.

Ereivi said: "Now we have enough time for detailed work towards setting up a new state Cyprus. Now the security of the Turkish-Cypriote is under strong guarantee."

He stressed the danger of the war between Greece and Turkey imminent as Greek President Constantinos Karamanlis said in a broadcast that the Greek army will not restore the Greek-Cypriote troops because this would have Greece de facto.

MacEachen Voices Canada's Concern

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Jean MacEachen called in Greek and Turkish diplomats Thursday to voice concern over the war in Cyprus.

A spokesman for the external affairs department said that MacEachen held separate meetings with the Turkish and Greek ambassadors, Aral Gökmen and Greek Ambassador John Pan-nakakis.

He told them that Canada stood just outside to support its contingent on the United Nations force on the island on the assumption that the ceasefire would be honored. Mr. MacEachen expressed worry about the effect on the peacekeepers of the renewed fighting, which left Cyprus almost wholly under Turkish control.

Although not mentioned by name, Panakakis said he was pleased to hear MacEachen's statement, and he was willing to share the situation of the fortifications, in where Defense is said to have met the tragic end.

And he told the Greek ambassador that he hoped Greece would reverse the decision it announced Thursday to withdraw from the military organization of NATO.

Famagusta Othello's Toss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At the time of the last Turkish invasion of Cyprus four centuries ago, Famagusta was a rich commercial port in the heart of the island.

With the collapse of the city on Aug. 1, 1974, after a 12-month siege of the massive walls, Cyprus fell under Turkish control which was maintained more than 300 years.

Although not mentioned by name, Panakakis said he was pleased to hear MacEachen's statement, and he was willing to share the situation of the fortifications, in where Defense is said to have met the tragic end.

Ontario Officials Talk To Ojibwa Warriors

KEMURIA, Ont. (CP) — Sen-discussed a settlement to the Adirondack Park barricade.

gation was Ontario's equity solution in the talks, which lasted more than 15 hours.
The second meeting site was located near the park, which had been occupied by heavily armed Indians since July 12.
Heating the government de-

After the talk, substance of which wasn't revealed, banks and several delegates returned to St. Paul, Minn.
Thursday's meeting followed three weeks of off-and-on talks that failed to produce concrete results.

Four of a total of 20 park indians who decided to leave because of the lifting of the announcement, were arrested and charged in connection with the occupation.

The militants say the Hare state on this community's outsiders in Indian land by right and was illegally said by the department of Indian Affairs in the town in 1952. As well they have a number of grievances they want corrected, mainly dealing with land employment conditions.

One of the points likely to be high on the discussion agenda is the matter of charges against those in the park should the occupation end.

"You've got to be the strongest."

Slow Grain Shipments Continue

VANCOUVER (CP) — The August sun is melting last month's snow on the coastline, but the harbor here hasn't seen the passage of a grain ship since the month has done little to thaw a bitter grainshipping dispute.
The lengthy conflict, which has slowed the export of grain to the Orient, involves grainhandlers who move wheat and barley from railway cars to the ships.

Minister Trudeau, as well as Labor Minister Jim Harris and Ota Land, minister responsible for the wheat board, have warned the four grain producers involved that if parliamentary report is required to mean the legislation of a consultation report the firms have rejected.

National Economic Plan Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario
Premier William Davis called for revision of a national economic policy to serve in part as a buffer against inflation and as a means of sharing wealth.

At an official speech, he said that the Canadian National Economic Commission Thursday said there must be "a recognition that our sister provinces must share in the economic development of this land."

Latter in an interview, he said that he hoped the government for such a policy might be actually laid at the 1300 annual conference to be held here
Sept. 12 and 13.

He said he hoped the provincial premiers and the federal government could agree on ensuring that the economies of the other provinces grow at greater rate than in the past.

"It's important for Canada, therefore, that it's also important for the province of Ontario."

City Cabs To Try New Rates

At a meeting of the police convention here Thursday, a special fare rate was decided to equal four dollars for a trip from downtown to the city center, with meters for a trial period.

Originally, the city's taxi companies were to switch to meters in June after the fare was raised to four dollars. But the city decided to try the new rates for a trial period.

Owners of the city's two companies feel the new rate might be too high and it would mean they would lose the system out and build a special metering Aug. 25 to meter the results.

Chairman Jim Driscoll said it is important that the rates be posted to the passenger before they get into the car. He said the rates would be posted to the passenger before they get into the car.

It was announced that rates are posted. When a person enters a cab, he should know what it's going to cost. He said the rates would be posted to the passenger before they get into the car.

Mediation Fails
At Quaker Oats

TRENTON — Strike action at the Quaker Oats Co. has moved into its seventh week following a mediation session Tuesday between the union and Local 1717 of the Amalgamated Food Workers and Meat Cutters union Thursday.

Town Water Supplies
To Cross Trent River

TRENTON — New water-main construction will likely begin here soon after the Public Utilities Commission decides the best method for getting water across the Trent River.

The commission, Thursday decided to give the 35-inch pipe the steel-reinforced, siphon design over two, more costly, proposals to string the pipe on MacDonald Bridge.

Estimates from the Engineers Group and Storck placed the water crossing at $150,000 to $250,000 and $250,000 to the two alternatives.

Insurance Worthwhile
—If Storm Strikes

TRENTON — It would take a wilderness, similar to that which swept Brighton last year, before $100 damage could be caused this town's public utilities services.

The estimate was given Thursday by PUC manager Doug Mandel.

Mr. Mandel's comment came during a discussion of a utility insurance plan.

PUC Studies Land Use

TRENTON — The Public Utilities Commission will investigate possible emendations and future use of its storage, garage and other facilities in Trenton, commissionery decided Thursday.

The study arises from PUC concern that land, recently purchased on William Street, might be put to best use, now called the future.

PUC Manager Doug Mandel strongly urged commission to consider a study which would provide guidelines and a design concept for future use and location of PUC facilities.

"Some commissioners felt that all operations should be developed in one area," he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Having shed the legal armor that protected him in the White House, Richard Nixon is about to receive a subpoena that may be the harbinger of further legal entanglements.

The subpoena was filed Thursday by lawyers for John Ehrlichman, Nixon's former domestic adviser. It seeks Nixon's testimony as a defence witness in Ehrlichman's coming conspiracy trial arising from the Watergate cover-up.

His trial, scheduled to begin Thursday, was postponed until next year because he faces trial next month in Washington in connection with the Watergate cover-up.

Although Ehrlichman, 49, had previously pleaded not guilty to the perjury charge here, his lawyer told Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer that Ehr-

CHICAGO (AP)—A general convention of the Episcopal Church today approved a resolution opposing the ordination of women as priests.

Miracle of Caring Seen By World Service Man

By GEORGE CROUCH
AP Staff Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—A man who for a quarter-century has moved across the hemisphere, caring and helping the poor in the world's slums, says that, during those years, the world's slums have changed from "ignoring to caring."

"It's a miracle that has happened in our time," said James MacCracken, long-time executive director of Church World Service (CWS), who was removed from that post in June.

"We all have been in the Judeo-Christian tradition to help and tend the suffering," thought nations historically uninterested only in their own interests. But now the world's attitude toward suffering and starvation has changed with the agency of the whole human family.

"I think it's a miracle that has happened in our time," said James MacCracken, long-time executive director of Church World Service (CWS), who was removed from that post in June.

Priest Helps Tourists To Trap Scarce Water

THROCKMORRE. (Haver)—A French priest has brought from here to the village of this tiny Touraine country, where they have almost been forced to leave their homes because of drought.

The priest, Rev. Antoine, has also the popular reputation of finding new sources of water in the drought-stricken village. He has taught the Touraine to trap the little water which runs high, across the river, with sea snakes that lead the water out to the street used for drinking.

His strategy has attracted the attention of both the Niger government and the foreign donors of relief work.

The interpretation of the doctrine came in the form of a resolution approved overwhelmingly Thursday by the bishops of the Episcopal Church, who met in a bi-monthly session in Chicago.

The resolution, which was passed by a vote of 100 to 10, stated that the church should not ordain women as priests.

Decorating Wedding Cakes—Happy Work for Wellington Man

By ISABEL HUGHAN
Close your eyes and imagine the most beautiful wedding cake in the world. The top tier of rose-bedecked and gilded tulle, the cake, rich with marzipan and with light sugar frosting—imagine all these and set upon silver platters. You would think of a million rhapsodies on a silver tray. The cake would give you a desire to get married, imagining that kind of cake comes easy. But actually setting a cake like that?

Well, that's easy too. Alfred Adams of Wellington is a skilled confectioner who decorates the cake of your dreams.

One of his chefs at the Belleville General Hotel, Mr. Adams has been decorating cakes locally for over 20 years. He began his trade when he learned the tricks and turns of hand that enable him to create master flowers in seconds.

As a confectioner with the R.A.P. during the Second World War, Mr. Adams was stationed in Britain where he got his wife, Mrs. Adams, who is now retired in Ireland, they were returned to Wellington where he made his home ever since. Although he has some opportunity for creative confectionery at the hotel, Adams says, "I've never an excellent catering service for us."

Mr. Adams derives his chief pleasure from being able to make up the first cake according to their specifications.

Deciding on how exactly the cake should look is a painstaking process for both bride and her mother.

"Yes, almost always the bride knows more about it," Mr. Adams says. "I show them books of ideas and have one or two cakes on display, and then we discuss the actual cake. It can take as much as an hour."

"It's important, for example, not to make a tall cake for a short bride, or she'll get lost behind it during the cake-cutting picture."

"There are also long discussions about whether there should be color on the cake or not. Young girls often want white roses the same shade as the bride's dress, and mothers object."

"The wedding gown was always pure white and seemed to give the same variety as the white wedding gown, and modern taste."

"Usually, for the last 15 years, having color on a cake has become more and more popular until now most of the decorating is to involve color, and however it pleases the bride and groom."

that both brides say. Mr. Adams creates his floral lace work and delicate bouquet of sugar flowers and places them on the cake. He lets these harden the night before the actual decorating begins, which takes a minimum of three hours.

With at least 20 different tulle to create the effects he wants, Mr. Adams uses a camera lens as his measuring device.

"You need this type for perfect hand control," he says, "but the metal lens is not adequate for this purpose."

As is usual with multi-tier cakes, Mr. Adams decorates any plastic foam and board and only the top tier is real cake.

If there's a heavy bride, it will keep her steady, he says, "and I've been in perfect condition more than 20 years."

Although his work of art is not meant to last forever, Mr. Adams gets a lot of satisfaction from seeing a cake completely finished.

"I love to see how happy the girls are when they come to pick up their cakes," he says. "Their enthusiasm is infectious."

"I take pride in my work. I always use a good amount of time to make sure I keep the icing white. And my two little grandchildren—two rings and two slips—inspired from Birmingham, England, to put on the cake."

Mr. Adams' greatest pride is in the antique silver serving trays he uses, engraved with his name.

"I hope I can pass them on with the skill of decoration to someone after me," he says.

His younger daughter, Tess, is a six-year-old girl who is able to make sugar peas, roses, and other flowers.

"Naturally, Mr. Adams is hoping she'll keep going, until she can help with the flowers and leaves and other decorations as effectively as he does."

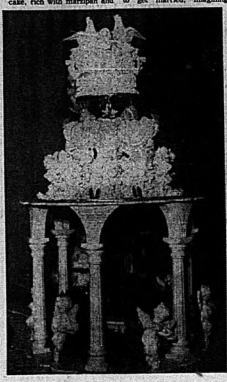

"There's no great secret," he says. "Just practicing, and learning from trial and error, and watching the work of other confectioners."

Debbie Lynn Meyer, wife of Glenn Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Harding, R.F.T., was graduated on July 27 from the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto in graduation exercises held at Convocation Hall, University of Toronto.

A former graduate of Central Secondary School, Belleville, Mrs. Meyer has been accepted on the staff of the new Pediatric Hospital in Ottawa.

LIFE JACKET CARE
Bureaucracy is an important factor in a life jacket. Consumers' Association of Canada reminds consumers that life jackets should be used in two conditions.

To ensure that a life jacket remains in top condition, it should be dried in a well-ventilated area or in the open air, not in front of a radiator or source of direct heat.

Fountain Cake

The most elaborate of the cakes on display is this one, which has as its base a fountain that plays into a highlighted pool of colored icing and doves.

Engagements

Most wedding cakes are more apt than this one in design, and all of them have a "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue" theme. The wedding in always edifies, but they are to be later, Mr. Adams says.

Last Minute Touch

Mr. Adams checks out of his carriages and adds that last little bit of sugar that "makes the cake." All the delicate flowers and tulle work is done before the cake is iced, and then placed on with sugar icing. Mr. Adams says he designs

"Last year we can use up ten extracted 10 tons of honey, this year we've extracted 15 tons."

The speaker is Etha Wilson of Wilson's Apiaries who brought honey to the market square to sell last week.

Prices this year, Mrs. Wilson says, range from $1.00 for one pound in bulk to $1.25 for a pound if you buy more than 50 pounds in your own container.

The shortage of honey is the higher, than last year, prices can be attributed to the weather, a wet spring and late dry spell in early summer.

One main reason for the shortage is that they have no money to sell; just enough to winter over their bees.

Lovers can store extra cheese for one to two weeks but most experts don't recommend it.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Ross Palmer, Tweed are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter Peggy Ann to Donald Harvey Chisholm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Chisholm. The marriage will take place September 7, at St. John's United Church, Tweed at 4 p.m.

Beleiveville Formulating Firm Housing Policy

BELEIVEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, AUGUST 27, 1974

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

A definite housing policy statement will be completed within the next three months, Mayor Robin Jeffrey announced Friday.

Formulated by Ontario's ministry of housing, Belleville for some time has been working on a city housing policy.

Mayor Jeffrey said the statement due for completion early in the month will provide the answer for "how many of what kind of units should be built."

The policy statement, in recommending types and numbers of structures, will also provide a firm picture of future high density growth for Belleville.

The official plan, which should be unveiled this fall, shows high density construction primarily in and around the downtown core.

While the plan does not approve, the policy statement will be confined to residents.

The forecast arrived as a surprise. It got that, said Jeffrey, but it was not so much a surprise as it was a relief.

Commenting on the merits of a higher density plan, Mayor Jeffrey said, "construction around the downtown core is the only answer."

has approved for higher density. The housing now around the downtown core is necessary on any medium density plan. It is the only way to get the most out of the land. It is the only way to get the most out of the land. It is the only way to get the most out of the land.

Police say the driver of the car, who was driving westbound, was not injured.

Bargains in Land Purchases Are Rare in Hastings County

By HARRY MULLALL
Staff Reporter

They'll soon be calling again for bids across the county with questions about Hastings County.

It's that time of year — when hopes of bargain land sales, local prospective purchasers.

Attention is being drawn to the small amount of cash property sales are in arrears with the promised deadline.

Some of them are prepared to fly in and want to know about, alert bidders, he says.

Many think the late offering can be had for the price of land.

But this doesn't discourage bidders.

"At this time we're just jostling with calls and letters from all over the United States and Canada," says the administrator.

Film Festivals Holiday Success

PICTON — A series of Arts and Crafts Film Festivals sponsored by the children's section of the Picton Public Library closed yesterday afternoon with a party.

The six-week program has offered films for youngsters from four to six years of age and for children seven, eight and nine years old.

The program has been a success, with many children enjoying the special program.

Denard observed that, initially, the films were shown for local children. Tourists, however, soon discovered the weekly festivals and a number of out-of-town viewers began to attend.

She described the program as highly successful and noted that it has served as a perfect example of the value of the vacationing young Mrs. Denard said she was producing the film festivals.

Rioters Open Fire In Nicosia Embassy U.S. Envoy

NICOSIA (AP) — United States Ambassador Roger Davies was killed today when a mob of Greek Cypriot rioters attacked the U.S. Embassy in Nicosia, Cyprus, President Chalkiades said.

After visiting the embassy building, Chalkiades announced Davies' death over Cyprus radio.

"I denounce that terrible crime against Cyprus in the strongest terms and express my deepest sorrow and sympathy," he said.

The rioters and Cyprus firemen carried Davies' body out on a stretcher, his white suit stained with blood.

Chalkiades said, still standing in the embassy doorway, "The rioters, who stood next to the stretcher facing the screaming mob."

Officials said a U.S. woman visiting in the embassy was also killed and two other persons were wounded when rioters stormed the seven-story building in a burst of gunfire, bullets and stones.

Chalkiades said his radio announcement that Cyprus police had been unable to control the riot.

"Witnesses said some of the rioters were fired by persons wearing the distinctive black and cross-hatched uniforms of EOKA, the Greek Cypriot guerrilla group seeking unity with Greece."

The mob began with an American demonstration, as the rioters and Cyprus firemen marched on the embassy with banners.

"Gangster in a murder," "Shame to the American," "America will pay," the banners read. The crowd chanted similar slogans, hurled stones and the Turkish army's unarmoured armoured on Cyprus and the Turkish army's unarmoured supported Turkey in last week's war.

The ambassador's car, standing on the street outside the embassy, was set ablaze and burst into a bonfire when the flames reached its gas tank.

A cluster of young men then stormed the black iron gates of the embassy and ripped them open. Five youths from the entrance of the building, the ambassador's residence in a police house on the road.

Barricade of gunfire flared as the demonstrators ran to the building.

U.S. 'Review' of Policy Called Publicity Stunt

ATHENS (AP) — News that Washington is about to re-examine its position on Cyprus was denounced by a congressional Greek politician. Andrew Papanicolaou said it was "a good American publicity stunt."

Papanicolaou, who was named as an alternative leader in Greece's Premier Constantine Karamanlis, was commenting on United States Defense Secretary James Schlesinger's remarks that Washington's policy would shortly be reviewed because of the "impasse" in the Cyprus situation.

The U.S. government has earlier told Turkey to hit hard and partition Cyprus," Papanicolaou said. "Now, want to turn to the Greeks at their hours after leaving them in defeat and humiliation."

Schlesinger, said the Greek politician, was trying to sell a "new line" in Greece. But the Greek people are "not going to buy it."

Papanicolaou was giving his public news conference during a visit to Greece Friday after seven years of exile as an enemy of the former Greek junta. More than 30,000 persons rallied in the airport to give him a tumultuous welcome.

Papanicolaou spent the last five years of exile in Thessalonika, teaching economics at York University.

Asked if he would accept a cabinet post in the government of conservative Premier Karamanlis, Papanicolaou said: "I have not been considered yet."

He said he cannot see himself working in the Karamanlis administration unless the country is in a state of emergency, as in the case of a coup.

Recently, said Papanicolaou, the Greek member would have to answer him that former members of the military regime accused of serious crimes would be brought to trial.

He said the people, who rallied Friday to give him a tumultuous welcome, are "not going to buy it."

Aftermath of Street Brawl

Three Belleville police officers were taken to hospital Saturday in the aftermath of a riot.

Tweed Augustfest Called a Success

TWEED — Augustfest, this community's yearly bubbling blowout, as a new attendance record here Saturday, drew more people than there are residents in the village.

At least 2,200 people thronged the Tweed-Hungerford area for a day-long, boisterous, musical, and dancing, happily well-attended event. As many more were turned away, organizers estimated. It was the biggest crowd since the annual festival started three years ago in this community of 1,200.

It is now obvious, the facilities must be expanded for next year's Augustfest, said Ron Bauman, chairman of the Belleville Civic Committee, which organized the event.

The Augustfest was inspired by a Quebecois festival, the traditional-German summer carnival celebrated with beer. The festival immigrated to Canada by way of Kitchener, Ont. Several other provincial centres have followed suit.

The Tweed organizers borrowed the idea and moved it about two months to take advantage of the holiday season and better weather. There were none other alterations in the tradition to reflect local tastes.

The German band remains an entertainment centerpiece, but the dancing, rock and roll, and old-time fiddling, and western music, and the Kitchener Civic Centre band, which organized the event.

Should YOU pre-arrange your Funeral?
The wise head of every family takes care to prepare a Will and carry ample life insurance with one unselfish motive in mind — to assure his family of security and peace of mind.

Doesn't it make sense then that one should pre-arrange his funeral and leave instructions as to his wishes?

Generally speaking, should it not be YOUR responsibility to arrange YOUR funeral?

Any member of the Ontario Funeral Service Association will sit down and discuss pre-arrangement with you without obligation. Why leave this task to someone else?

End to OHIP Premiums Suggested to Liberals

HAMILTON (CP) — A proposal that the province pay for the cost of OHIP premiums from the family's income tax has been introduced in the Ontario legislature by a Liberal M.P. The proposal, which would allow them to charge only half the Liberal party policy during the election.

The proposal was contained in a paper prepared by a group led by Walter Squire, a professor of medicine at McMaster University. The paper calls for the elimination of OHIP premiums from the family's income tax and the introduction of a family health insurance plan (OHIP) which would allow them to charge only half the Liberal party policy during the election.

Paternity Leave Urged

However, Mrs. Taylor said that she doubts whether employers will accept paternity leave for workers even though it may be an acceptable idea for some couples. WASHINGTON (CP) —

President Ford's surprise offer of amnesty to Vietnam war evaders has invited congressional critics of any form of amnesty and earned a new debate on the degree of forgiveness the United States should extend.

Many congressional leaders agree with Ford that blanket amnesty is not an appropriate remedy.

But many said that some form of conditional amnesty, possibly alternative civilian service, is needed to end the voluntary exodus of thousands of young men.

A major shift in policy from the last two administrations would limit the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Chicago Monday night that his administration is proposing the so-called "earned re-entry."

"I'm throwing the weight of my presidency into the scale of justice with leniency," Ford said. "I reject amnesty, so do I reject revenge."

"In my judgment, there is no alternative should have a second chance to contribute to the nation and to the rebuilding of peace among nations."

Ford said he has ordered Attorney General William French Smith and Defense Secretary James Schlesinger to begin a case-by-case review of 20,000 men convicted, charged or suspected of draft evasion or desertion.

A justice department spokesman said the department is seeking a meeting as early as possible with defense department and selective service officials to examine ways to accomplish the objective Ford announced.

Senator Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.), who has favored complete amnesty for those who reported the war as a matter of conscience, called Ford's initiative "a fresh breeze from the White House."

"It's a positive step," said Vice-president picked Rockefeller.

Ford's Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today said that he will pardon the former New York government's former Republican leader, Robert F. Kennedy.

"I think it's a courageous and appropriate move, reflecting the current desire of this president to bring the country together and heal the wounds," said Kennedy.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said an approach to conditional amnesty is one of the measures which he urged on the White House as a means of honoring the tens of thousands of soldiers.

Senator Howard Baker (Rep.-N.H.) said, "I think it was a very right thing to do. It was both humane and practical and a perfectly sound approach."

Canadian Troops Facing Greek-Cypriots' Wrath

The Turks had what they set out to achieve—control over the island of Cyprus. The island is a small island in the eastern Mediterranean Sea. The island is a small island in the eastern Mediterranean Sea. The island is a small island in the eastern Mediterranean Sea.

NIOSIA (CP) — Canadian troops patrolling the refugee-flooded Cyprus and mountains south of this capital say they are being harassed by Greek-Cypriots.

"What can we say to them?" asked one sergeant standing at a point in the wake of the national Turkish army. The sergeant, the general feeling among the UN hierarchy here was that fighting between the two sides could continue sporadically.

But there was agreement that it would take on the form of isolated Greek-Cypriot attacks on the island Greek-Cypriots were over.

by homicide detectives of the Ontario force.

The station quoted an OPP spokesman that the victims of the unsolved killings in Ontario during a period from 1968 to 1972 include two men, women and four children.

The spokesman said the victims were usually seen in the same places and the victims were usually seen in the same places.

Prince Edward Draft in Council

County Approves Official Plan

By MARY HATHORN

PRINCE EDWARD — Prince Edward County council has approved by a 12-1 vote a draft official plan Monday night.

The council's decision was made at a special meeting with planning committee members and county planner Hilda Blomfield.

Amendments or changes to the plan will be effected through the proper channels, not initiated at council council.

The motion to accept the plan, moved by Reeve Robert Boyce of Wellington, was supported by all members except county planner Hilda Blomfield.

Reeve Ross Cruikshank, of Picton, said he has large-scale commercial or industrial development will be a secondary plan for the town is completed, also, only single residential houses can be built as apartment buildings will be approved under Picton provisions a secondary plan.

Councillors Vote

Secondary Planning: The County Should Pay

PRINCE — In a show of hands, county councillors Monday night approved a secondary planning plan should be paid by Prince Edward County.

The decision followed discussion of the need for secondary planning of the Prince Edward draft official plan was approved by council.

Reeve Ross Cruikshank of Picton said he is willing the town would adopt the plan itself. It seemed necessary to pay for a secondary plan, and, possibly, the salary of a planner.

"In Ameliasburgh, we picked up the tab ourselves," said Reeve Russell Thompson.

Reeve Thompson said the Ameliasburgh plan had been started last year and his township did not expect the county to pay for it.

"I believe Russell (Thompson) is trying to be a bit evasive," commented Reeve Robert Boyce of Wellington.

Reeve Boyce said that the Ameliasburgh township plan was initiated in 1971 and continued in 1973. It was not until 1974 that a county planner was hired.

He suggested that Ameliasburgh had no intention but to pay for its own plan as the township was aware that a county planner would be employed.

"I don't see why it shouldn't be included," said Reeve Boyce as he spoke at a secondary plan for his own village of Wellington.

Reeve of Blomfield said Ameliasburgh retained the of councillors against the plan would make the plan appear as if it was a last-minute decision, according to the Planning Committee.

A resolution from Ameliasburgh to amend the plan, according to request of local council or municipality, the official plan would be subject to review every five years.

Development Problem For East Lake Owners

PRINCE — Reeve Robert Boyce of Wellington, Monday night, said he is not in a hurry to make a decision on Prince Edward's official plan on "indefinite."

Reeve Boyce's comment followed the deputy-reve's observation that, in the plan, some of his shovels acreage on East Lake is noted as prime agricultural land.

He questioned whether he would be permitted to develop it for cottages if he wished. For this reason, he said, he could not endorse the plan.

"You are here representing your township, not yours. You should not say you won't support the plan because it doesn't suit you. Don't base your decision on your selfishness," said Reeve Boyce.

He pointed out that council would be generalizing with the problems of the township.

Deputy-reve Sila replied that many property owners in the north side of East Lake are embroiled with a similar situation and he spoke as their representative.

"If we deal with individual cases we'll be here a week," commented Reeve Boyce.

Trenton Extends Shop Hours For New Plaza Anchor Store

TRENTON — Town council Monday night approved a by-law to extend shop hours for K-Mart, the anchor store for the eastern shopping mall, planned to open here next year.

A town hall spokesman said today the store may now open at 10 a.m. and close at 10 p.m., six days a week, in August, 1975.

If No Dogcatcher - Shoot!

If the dog catcher isn't handy and you can't catch a house dog in your back yard, a pellet gun works well, fellow township councillor Reg. McCreedy said Monday night.

"Shoot 'em," he said. "They won't come back." Mr. McCreedy made the remark to a disgruntled town resident, tired of being eluded because a neighbor's house looks like his bedroom window.

It is not "the last word and final word" on the dogcatching problem.

Reeve Boyce said changes to the plan would be made in a draft plan following a series of public hearings with planners and the planning committee.

He suggested that the plan could be handled as a review every five years.

Mr. Ahmed stressed the plan is not "the last word and final word" on the dogcatching problem.

Mail Proposal Brings Planning Move

PRINCE — A tentative proposal for a shopping mall near Picton has prompted the Prince Edward planning board to move county council to a meeting.

Mr. Wright referred to "a movement" but by certain means it is a "public opinion" for council to direct the Central Prince Edward planning board to complete its secondary plan first.

The mail proposal could be incorporated in the secondary plan, he said.

Reeve Robert Boyce of Wellington, said his village wants a secondary plan as soon as possible, that the county planner should decide the priorities, he said.

Reeve Boyce said that he approved having the secondary plan of the Central Prince Edward planning board completed first.

Council endorsed a motion to amend the secondary plan, he said.

Margaret Trudeau Sews Bride's Wedding Dress

MONTREAL (CP) — Radio host and broadcaster, Neil Coulson has a lot of General in Ottawa and the special thanks for Prime Minister and Mrs. Trudeau.

In appreciation for her services, the Trudeau provided Mr. Coulson's daughter, Margie, with more than a wedding dress for her recent marriage to Mr. Coulson.

Margaret Trudeau made the bride's dress, the ceremony was held in the chapel of the Governor General in Ottawa and the reception took place on the grounds of 24 Sussex Drive, the Prime Minister's official residence.

In an interview here, Mr. Coulson said he was more than pleased with the way things turned out.

"They baked the cake together three weeks before the wedding, using Margaret's recipe," he said.

"I don't know much about sewing, but my wife tells me it was as beautifully finished as the bride as it was on the outside," he said.

Mrs. Coulson's association with the Trudeau began in 1973 when she left the Sisters of Charity and went to Ottawa in search of a teaching job. She answered a magazine classified ad to work on a master's degree and the next morning two girls had remained at 24 Sussex Drive on a part-time basis.

While at university, she met Mr. Coulson and they were working for the Trudeau as a Girl Friday.

The following year she returned to the University of Ottawa and worked on a master's degree and the next morning two girls had remained at 24 Sussex Drive on a part-time basis.

MULTI-CORD 'FIBRE B' BELTED 2+2+2 THE BEST BIAS BELTED TIRE MADE*

*and here is our reasoning...

- Twin-ply Du Pont 66 Nylon for twice the 'safe warning-time' (By test).
- Twin-ply non-slip-top Polyester for the all-time smoother ride.
- Twin belts of 'Fibre B' to hold tread firm, nearly double the mileage.

MULTI-CORD 'FIBRE B' BELTED 2+2+2 is your kind of tire if you intend your current car to do more than 40,000 miles. 'Fibre B' is a Du Pont cord developed specifically for high-performance tires. It replaces steel because of its fantastic strength—5 times stronger than steel, yet provides a softer ride. Can't kink like steel or fall like glass under severe compression. And its fewer pounds mean less unsprung weight per wheel, resulting in less front-end wear. 'Fibre B' is impervious to moisture, can't rot like rayon, withstands heat in excess of 600°—over twice that of the best tire. No other tire in all North America combines all these features into one super tire!

Newspaper Mends Manners of Cuban Youth

HAVANA (Reuters) —

Young Cubans have received a lesson in manners of politeness from the Cuban newspaper, which has been publishing a series of articles on the subject.

The article on these topics by the presser appeared in the "Revolutionary" weekly, Bohemia.

The item laid examples for correct forms of greeting for each day of the "good morning," "good afternoon," and "good night."

It may seem surprising that a serious weekly carries such a lesson in manners, but the Cuban press is not so much concerned with the elementary rules of behavior.

But the article, aimed at adolescents and parents, is serious and answers a basic need.

Many Cuban children seem to need more instruction in the basic principles of behavior than are taken for granted in many other countries.

Western observers attribute the lack of politeness in Cuban children to several factors.

Cuba has undergone drastic changes in its social structure since the 1959 revolution.

The article in Bohemia said it was necessary to teach children "the basic principles of politeness which although they are not new, have been forgotten exclusively by the privileged classes."

It added that those principles of good behavior and good conduct were those of the majority of the population, "an culture was denied to the masses."

The revolution greatly increased the role of children in the nation's life.

School attendance is compulsory for all children, and many are employed in the service of the state.

Female Awakening in India

BOMBAY (UPI) — Sadashiva Rane, a factory worker who lives in a crowded tenement in Bombay's Matunga district, was summoned to the police station the other day.

Rane's wife had complained that she had been "molested."

But when the police officer asked Rane to file a written complaint, the witness.

When he persisted, she said: "Well, I have no complaint to make. No law, I think, would like to see her husband in jail."

However, supporters of the liberation movement have said the very fact that the wife had come to the police station is a sign of a "female awakening."

"It's only a question of time before even working class wives join women's lit," said Mrs. Jha, one of the city's poorest laborers.

Mrs. Jha works in a law firm. She lives in a small two-room apartment, dresses casually, and even owns a car.

She is a member of a small group of women who are working to improve the lot of the women in the city.

GIVEN VERDON, DANCER

Still Dancing Up a Storm

Today we begin the first of a five-part series of portraits of unusual, successful married women.

The series is a service of the Information Center on the Mature Woman, supported by the Science and Medicine Publishing Co. Inc., through the Jervis Laboratories.

Each of the portraits explores the life of a woman who has met traditional standards, and who has achieved her goals.

As more and more women marry later in life, they face new problems and challenges.

These women offer the greatest fulfillment in their lives, and they are the most successful of all.

The mature women series, which have become successful in different fields, are a performer, an educator, a research scientist, a creative volunteer and designer.

While there were to be a few experts who doubt the conspiracy theory, the bulk of the press reports themselves, there appears to be a consensus that the CIA was behind that without being heavily equipped and carrying out a mission that is to be seen as the peace, there is still a fact that a force could not be seen in the area, which has been more evident than when two UN troops were sent to the island arrived outside the U.S. embassy in Nicaragua Monday after the CIA ambassador had stepped down.

It is also worth noting that the CIA has been accused of financing, launching and making of Greek-Cypriot for a few minutes, but the CIA has been accused of being official about the Cyprus problem, and the CIA has been accused of being official about the Cyprus problem, and the CIA has been accused of being official about the Cyprus problem.

The UN's general inability in Cyprus is a result of the fact that the UN is not a neutral body, and the UN is not a neutral body, and the UN is not a neutral body.

Council to Discuss Parking Garage

Plans for the downtown parking garage proposed by the Belleville Parking Authority for the Prince St. parking lot will be placed before city council at its meeting next Monday.

The parking garage, proposed earlier this year by the parking authority would utilize the present public utility commission property as a Prince St. entrance and would also necessitate acquisition of the Prince St. recreational building.

Mr. Colling said Tuesday council will be asked to make the two properties available to the parking authority.

The firm of Morton-Godwin Ltd., Belleville engineers and contractors, have prepared plans for the parking garage and a representative from the firm will present the placed plans to council.

Ameliaburg's Votes "No" Councillors Adopt County Plan Bylaw

PICTON — Prince Edward County's council, voted 12-2 Tuesday night in favor of an Enumeration

For Marmora

MARMORA — The 1974 Municipal enumeration will begin in the Marmora area Sept. 2.

Marmora village will be enumerated by Miss Simmons and Vera Yessens, Dolevo village by Ruby Paramak and Marmora and Lake townships by MacKenzie McCall, Theresa Davidson, and Ruby McCoy. Hansi Munsky and Gordon Wolski will census Rawdon Township.

The councillors attended a training session at Innesburg August 14.

Stickers For Emergencies

MARMORA — This village's emergency crews are delivering 5,000 stickers bearing the fire department telephone number to every home in Marmora village and township.

The bright red stickers — to be placed on telephones — will be an instant reference in time of emergency. Street owners are asked to place the stickers in conspicuous places on the telephone.

Home owners who purchased the stickers with their own funds are making the delivery in spare time. Those not able to place stickers can receive a sticker by contacting any fireman.

Students Seek Home

Two Mexican youths are looking for a temporary Belleville home for the coming school year.

The boys, from Monterrey, Mexico, have chosen Belleville as a place to attend school this year, while they increase their facility with the English language.

Belleville has become a popular city for exchange students, especially those with International Fellowship, an American organization that places Latin American students in North American homes.

Three Latin American students have already lived in Belleville and returned to their home countries. The boys, Rene Silva, 15 and Alejandro Andrade, 17, are home students. They already speak English and want to increase their fluency. They hope to spend an entire year in a Belleville school, probably in grades 10 and 11.

Secondary School teacher representing International Fellowship here, said Tuesday he has met with the boys. He said he could find families willing to take one or both boys.

Enrolling exchange students carries a risk. Children from the bickering family can enter into a reciprocal arrangement with International Fellowship that will allow their children to study in Latin America next year. Only one traveling expense pocket money and a small fee to cover International Fellowship's expenses in arranging the exchange.

bylaw adopting the county's first official plan.

Reeve Russell Thompson of Ameliaburg and his deputy Reeve Horne, however, voted against the bylaw, introduced during county's regular monthly meeting. Horne Township called for a recorded vote.

Deputy-Reeve Horne explained after the session that both councillors objected to the principle of adoption of the plan.

He said Ameliaburg Township council had requested a change in the draft plan. This had been discussed and approved by the county planner and Township planning representatives.

The 10 of 21's Island had been used as summer cottages and the township opposed this development. Instead, three other areas were added to the plan which they supported overnight that the change did not appear on the draft plan.

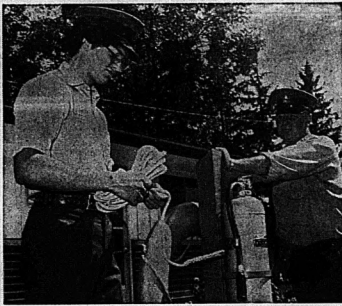

Deputy-Reeve Horne said township council had not intended to vote against adoption of the plan.

Reeve Russ Crawford of Picton and Deputy-Reeve Larry Richardson who did not support a motion approving the plan Monday night, said they supported adoption of the bylaw.

Reeve Crawford explained to plan would prohibit construction of lighted apartment buildings and other structures in Picton until a secondary plan for the town is completed.

For this reason he and the deputy-Reeve did not vote to approve the plan.

Larkin said he believed that if an amendment is submitted immediately to the draft plan any building projects can proceed without delay. Instead that adoption of the plan will not impede building in Picton, both councillors supported the adoption bylaw.

Assistant Bert Lock helps Lock Mariner Jim Howard

Boat Owners Like Trent Waterway

TRENTON — Trent lock reported Tuesday 173 more pleasure craft have passed through the Trent Canal system this August than the same month last summer.

Despite the increase, there has been an over-all decrease in canal traffic this summer. So far this year, 1,200 craft have passed through the lock system, 11 less than the previous year.

"We'll catch up," said Mr. Howard.

Mr. Howard said a late opening this spring is the major reason for decreased traffic. High water levels forced the locks to remain closed until the first week of June — three weeks later than last year.

Providing the weather holds good, the waterway will top last year's mark of more than 1,600 visiting craft, he said.

The Trent Canal System Howard.

remains a popular waterway, said Mr. Howard.

"Boaters tell us they are glad to get back into the system after coming through the Hudson Canal System," he said.

"Everyone we talk to says they are happy to be back on the Trent," said Mr. Howard.

Driveway Entrances, Cattle Culverts Reeve Ponders Costs to County In Building Private Facilities

PICTON — Reeve Robert Howard of Belleville has requested a report to Prince Edward County council detailing the costs of constructing driveway entrances and culverts for cattle passing during roadbuilding in the past two years.

Reeve Howard referred to council's approval of building driveway entrances and cattle culverts at its July meeting. He suggested adjacent counties do not pay for similar installations.

Driveway entrances are constructed to horses' treating on country roads. Cattle passers have built to allow livestock to pass beneath a road. Subject of the debate was a pass on which both the county and the farmer had agreed to equal costs if the project did not go above $1,000. A subsequent estimate was $11,000.

"Evidently, we are the only county with enough money to take it from the taxpayers and spend it on private enterprise," said Reeve Howard.

The reeve said he had made inquiries and, in other counties, the installations are not made at the taxpayer's expense. He noted that possibly the entrances and passers here are substandard.

"Maybe other counties are doing it. I don't know. I have been done over the years," said Deputy-Reeve Allan Pritchard, of Hillier road councillor chairman.

"That is not really a good excuse though," remarked Deputy-Reeve Arlo Head of North Maryborough.

When Kent McDonald challenged Reeve Howard's comments and said he should have discussed the question at the July meeting of the council when the question was agreed to.

"What's wrong with it? Why bring it up now?" he asked. "The year comes on the table. Are you taking a shot at cattle passers or at a specific entrance?" questioned the reeve.

Reeve Howard said he was not questioning any specific entrances. He said he had raised the issue only because he wanted to learn the cost of the projects to the county.

Council Gives

Its Pay To Home

PICTON — Prince Edward County councillors have agreed to donate their honoraria for September and October 1974 to the Memorial Home for the Aged.

Tuesday night the councillors voted that the money be preferably used for music — a sound system in the new home now under construction.

Ditch That Cry-Baby Boyfriend — Let Him Float Away, Says Ann

Dear Ann Landers: What do I think of a 17-year-old boy who cries every time he gets into an argument with his girl and he seems to be having? I'd really like to ditch this dude but whenever I mention quitting, he starts to howl. He's been turned to rubber and my heart aches. The last time I told him I wanted to stop seeing him, he burst his face in his hand and howled, cried until it was raining and then he said he'd just told me he had a brain tumor and probably wouldn't live another year. I couldn't let him off after that. Well, two days later he said the doctor had misheard the news and everything is OK.

I don't want to get in any deeper with this crybaby. As he, is, every girl in school knows his private property and I haven't been asked out in years. Can you help? Madeline

I love my wife and have been married for 10 years. We are both in our 40s. We decided long ago that early morning is not the best time for looking or communication. Without putting it into words we agreed that morning is the time to look at the kids, instead of each other. The teen-agers are a pleasure to behold, even though they are still crying and hair shining. The younger ones absolutely sparkle! I eat my eggs every day and I exchange a few teasing words. I usually off to work and she struggles into gear for the day.

At night when I come home, the little woman looks ready to go to bed and get along great. Besides, looking, when it's morning or night, isn't the whole game—as my kind says, "It's all in the eye."

Dear Chie: Let's hear it for the couple who has learned to live together. Sometimes the highest level of communication is no communication at all.

Dear Ann Landers: Several months ago you printed a cartoon of a mid-oriented person who had a difficult time in his life because he enjoyed his school work for his life.

At night and arranged his schedule so he could sleep in the morning. That "retarded" answer made it impossible for him to sleep. Will you please give equal time to the

Capri Still Delight But Beauty Eroded

CAPRI, Italy (AP) — "Capri was very beautiful," said J. J. "American fans" after "the stock ties, the cream and the holiday dinner in the Bay of Naples," and "it can still delight fra-tine visitors."

"That for one who knew it years ago, there's no comparison."

"The tourists and their money poured in, and Capri went mad."

"Whitewashed houses and hill day villas clinging to the cliffs like beautiful people."

"In the vast streets of Capri, the shops of straw hats, shell beads and pictures of the pope crowd the corners off the sidewalks."

Now Dawson City Mines Tourists

DAWSON CITY, Y.T. (CP)

"There's a new gold rush at this country of the Klondike," stamped of 1897-99, but it's involved mining tourists, not the search of the Yukon community.

About 4,000 visitors are expected this summer, more than the total number who came seeking gold during the gold rush.

"Dawson people no longer need to go to the creeks for gold," said Myron Laka, the territorial government information officer at Vancouver's Yukon House. "Now they just all there and people dig it in their laps."

One Weigand, for example, made a profit of thousands of dollars last year from his claim on the Yukon. "I've been mining for 10 years," he said. "I've been digging a hole in the water and making a shaft into the ground."

Tourists paid for 12 such claims they dug into the creek waters in search of gold.

"We had between 4,000 and 5,000 tourists on our claim last year, mostly on our own claim," said Myron Laka, the territorial government information officer at Vancouver's Yukon House. "Now they just all there and people dig it the agent and he says we've expected up to 13,000 tourists this summer. Of course, they don't all get for gold."

Two of her claims at "Pony Bar" were once rich with gold and changed hands for $500,000 in the halcyon days of the Klondike. She bought them for $1 each four years ago.

"With the price of gold today, these claims may be rich again," she said. "As a matter of fact, we're going to do some mining ourselves this year."

But many claimholders here are angry at some of the tourists and say there may be trouble this year.

Art Fry, who has been mining in the Yukon for 48 years, is not enticed by the tourist boom. "Tourists are a bloody nuisance," he said.

"The Klondike Visitors Association has a claim where tourists can pan for gold. It's supposed to give you as much of what goes on. But I've seen guys in campers stay five days, not pan, but looking at old cabins on other people's property."

"We've had tourists in our showers three times. One time it was a retired fireman from Oregon. Fortunately, someone saw him and got his number. He was staying on the Alaska border with his gold in his pocket."

Maya Collins, a 25-year-old info-chic who arrived here over summer from Vancouver and never left, said the city is growing again after its long sleep through much of the past 40 years.

"People used to think this was a dead town," he said. "Now, with the tourist industry, the price of gold and real estate and with business doing better, there is more money in town than there has been for many years."

There and more people are interested in building homes here and settling down. Dawson has come alive again.

United Church Endorses Grape, Lettuce Boycott

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — With reluctance, the United Church of Canada gave its support Tuesday night to the international boycott of United States labor unions to the importation of grape and lettuce from the western United States.

It was the first time the church has officially given support to the boycott. However, many members, pastors and priests of other denominations have taken individual action on picket lines before retail outlets who sell the imported fruit and vegetables.

They say the cause of the workers in just and Canadian conditions poor. Strike action should support them by not buying the produce.

The general council also put off until winter day a decision on whether it should change its position on abortion. It referred the question to a committee which will report back to another general council.

A seemingly routine resolution from the division of missions in Canada that the church should support the grape and lettuce boycott, ran into a fight from the floor.

"One consideration said it was 'a fight between the union' and 'we have not heard all the facts'."

Major farm workers in California and Arizona say wages are inadequate and working conditions poor. Strike action has been called, they continue.

TTC Strike Continues

Union Revises Demands

TORONTO (CP) — Division 112, the Amalgamated Transit Union, has presented the TTC with a revised set of demands on all but three terms still unsettled in the Toronto transit strike.

The union's new proposals were presented Tuesday by its president, J. D. Spurr, and TTC officials were studying them Tuesday night.

The new proposals excluded three crucial union demands — dependent wage increase over two years, elimination of overtime in shift shifts and an increase in shift shifts and an increase in shift shifts.

These issues will not be included in the agreement is reached on other matters, division president Leonard Moroyan said.

Mr. Moroyan said the TTC had refused again to consider implementation of an exact-free system of payment. He said the TTC has argued that the system would strangle the availability of silver currency. But the union claim with the Transit Commission, he said, and was averted there would be no problem.

The new union proposals came amid accusations about responsibility for the stoppage of the TTC. The union said that the TTC had made a mistake in its calculations. He said the estimate was accurate, although he had done his own estimate. Mr. Moroyan said the total union participation had not cost more than $10 million.

He said the union had a real demand for silver which anyone who is buying as a nation is going up for antique value. If a crumpled piece in under half an ounce, the fact that silver is so doesn't make the slight difference in price.

English silver is always dated, but the buyer must make sure the piece was not decorated at a later date.

Antique Shoppers Should Avoid Fever

VANCOUVER (CP) — Crystal and silver, walnut and maple, velvet and brass, rug and chairs and chairs and can all sit elegantly in a display in a window.

But, says a Vancouver antique dealer, they need not necessarily do so without Dr. Laurence Patrick said that if buyers can show without antique fever, they can build a beautiful collection.

The advice collector should start by learning about antique by reading, looking, comparing and handling. He should buy something from a reliable source that he can compare with other pieces at auction, private sales and other dealers.

Dr. Patrick said private collectors tend to buy junk, but with more knowledge and self-confidence they gradually upgrade their buying.

"Anyone who gets hooked because he doesn't know what it's all about, doesn't know what he's buying, unless he is willing to learn."

He said private buyers and dealers tend to dump some at auction.

"If I buy something, then in my store, I dump it into an auction. I've sold 50 this year."

Dr. Patrick recently attended the Canadian Antique Dealers Association Fair in Toronto, considered second in North America only to the New York Fair.

Furniture went least well and overall sales were not quite up to standard. Two days is not enough time for anyone to consider their buying of antiques.

"I took some super furniture, some five beautiful walnut pieces and none sold, so I had to ship them all back."

He said good Canadiana sold well at the fair.

"The prices in the East are much better than you get here. A Canadiana chandelier made of silver and brass was sold for $2,000. I couldn't believe it—$2,000. It was a rare piece. I did go as far as to inquire about it, but anyone could have copied it for a couple of hundred dollars."

Dr. Patrick said he was the only dealer who took antique trade goods to Toronto and they sold well at $10 a set.

Rembrandt Home Needs Repairing

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The Rembrandt House, one of Amsterdam's foremost tourist attractions, is under way to raise funds for its restoration. The 16th-century structure, built in the year of the great painter's birth, is on quiet, sunny ground along the edge of the canal, which urban renewal turned into a major thoroughfare a few years ago.

the house was Rembrandt's home from 1639 to 1668. It was there he painted the famous "Night Watch." There his son Titus was born in 1641 and died his wife Saskia died the following year.

Rembrandt was forced to sell the house, having come to land times.

Construction experts say the house has suffered for a long time and traffic vibrations to accelerate decay. How cracks are repaired on the facade will be an ongoing revelation.

Almost half the money needed for restoration—estimated at $500,000, or about $45,000—being provided by the national government's monument fund, the city of Amsterdam, the province of North Holland and the Rembrandt House Foundation.

To help come up with more $500,000 for the house which will not be open to the public until being put on sale for $500,000 (about $100,000).

The Rembrandt House draws hundreds of tourists a day to see the famous "Night Watch" and the Rembrandt's complete collection, which number 250, and six original drawings by the great Dutch master.

If all goes well, restoration will be completed by February 1975.

LONDON (AP) — Soaring black market prices for drugs are causing two-agers to switch to heavy drinking, says Marcus Green of London's Alcohol Education Centre. The result is habitual drunks often as young as 17 or 18 and "big time" these youngsters reach the legal limit for going into a pub some are with the glass in hand.

LONDON (AP) — What is possible to be the only complete set of Roman window glass found in Britain was uncovered at an Iron Age settlement at Cranborne Hill, near Bournemouth. The pane, 15 inches by 15 inches and dated between 500 and 50 AD, is closely bound with a color. It was excavated from pieces and will go to the British Museum.

the house was Rembrandt's home from 1639 to 1668. It was there he painted the famous "Night Watch." There his son Titus was born in 1641 and died his wife Saskia died the following year.

Rembrandt was forced to sell the house, having come to land times.

Construction experts say the house has suffered for a long time and traffic vibrations to accelerate decay. How cracks are repaired on the facade will be an ongoing revelation.

Almost half the money needed for restoration—estimated at $500,000, or about $45,000—being provided by the national government's monument fund, the city of Amsterdam, the province of North Holland and the Rembrandt House Foundation.

To help come up with more $500,000 for the house which will not be open to the public until being put on sale for $500,000 (about $100,000).

The Rembrandt House draws hundreds of tourists a day to see the famous "Night Watch" and the Rembrandt's complete collection, which number 250, and six original drawings by the great Dutch master.

If all goes well, restoration will be completed by February 1975.

Provincial Inquiry

NHL is Blamed for Use Of Violence as Tactic

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Free Press says the Ontario Hockey Association's inquiry into violence in amateur hockey has concluded that the National Hockey League's outlook on violence is the No. 1 cause of its appearance at the amateur level.

The newspaper says the one-time hockey of Toronto lawyer William Molloy, blamed as a tactical instrument to achieve that goal.

The investigation was ordered by the Ontario Ministry of Community and Social Services following a provincial junior B hockey game last April in which two players, Bramley Blues and Hamilton Red Wings.

Five players and the Bramley Blues were injured in the fight-fueled contest at one time 14 policemen were at the North York Arena in Metropolitan Toronto to prevent further fighting among players, linesmen and spectators.

Molloy, an associate of Alan Eagleson, executive director of NHL Players' Association, is conducting the investigation by Provincial Inquiry, Free Press says.

The Free Press says the 14,000-word report will file the Ontario Hockey Association and ask for the provincial government to increase its financial support to amateur hockey.

The Ontario sports and recreation department contributed about $20,000 to the Ontario Hockey Association's general body for the sport at the amateur level in the province last year.

The newspaper says the report does not specify how much more should be said but says it has been estimated that the figure is about $200,000 annually.

The report also recommends a certification program for referees and coaches and increased government spending for further research in sports psychology, physical education and coaching methods.

The Free Press says:

The hockey council would be responsible for writing and implementing a new philosophy for amateur hockey, for re-designing game rules, for covering coaching and referee clinics, for educating the public as to its role in amateur hockey and for recommending the abolition of government funds.

The Free Press says Molloy suggests that education and implementation of an elementary school hockey program in the years ahead.

"It warns me that we have sufficient funds for swimming pools but not for school hockey," the newspaper quotes Molloy as saying.

"This is an area that no immediate changes can be implemented but all the evidence indicates that schools would be the best environment for children to be exposed to competitive hockey and structured training, particularly at the lower ages."

Molloy says it is a "natural phenomenon" for children to emulate professional players earlier form.

JIM WOOD

Must Win Says Coach

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Calgary head coach Jim Wood says his Stampedeers are a "must" situation for their second consecutive game when they play host to Saskatchewan Roughriders tonight in a Western Football Conference game.

It is also a must situation for some members of the winless Winnipeg Blue Bombers in their Canadian Football League interlocking encounter with the rock-solid Toronto Argonauts.

"This is another must game for us," said Wood prior to the game. "We had a must game last week against British Columbia Lions. That was for the lions — a morale thing, we needed to keep our team from getting too far behind."

Calgary signed the Lions 20-18 in their first win in four weeks.

In the Bomber camp, the team will be on rookie running back Jim Poulos, who landed extremely sharp in the first exhibition game before getting injured and never regaining that

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Philadelphia Wings, paced by brothers Larry and Terry Lyle, clinched first place in the National Lacrosse League over Rochester Gladiators.

In another game, Toronto points, nine more than the Griffins who have three games to play in the 48 game season. Maryland Arrows are third with 29 points, followed by New York Wings with 26 and Montreal has four.

Syracuse Stingrays with 22. The Tonawandas, seeking the fourth and final playoff berth, have three games remaining.

She Wanted to Go On States Angela's Coach

TORONTO (CP) — Angela Dufresne said Tuesday Angela didn't want to be pulled out of the water at the end of her unsuccessful bid to swim Lake Ontario, her coach said Tuesday night.

"Yes, she did want to go on and she didn't like being pulled out of the water," said Art Dufresne.

The 14-year-old Toronto girl had been in the lake for more than 24 hours when she was pulled from the water less than a mile from the Toronto waterfront about 9 p.m. Monday.

"She was taken to the Sick Children's Hospital after the swim, but allowed to go home Tuesday afternoon. A hospital spokesman had indicated earlier Tuesday she would not be allowed to go home until at least today."

For her efforts, the Grade student will receive a car, diamond ring, private donation of thousands of dollars and a Canadian passport.

The retired at least $1,000 gift, one of them from a First World War veteran, 64-year-old Carl Kinsley, who said he admired her spirit and "that's worth more than a completed swim."

When she arrived home Tuesday afternoon, a hospital spokesman had indicated earlier Tuesday she would not be allowed to go home until at least today.

Natural Gas Shortage Feared by Industries

MONTREAL (CP) — Pre-empting a natural gas shortage next year, that would disrupt industries, an organization representing 11 major industrial firms said Tuesday it urged the federal government to speed gas exports to the U.S.

Deep-freeze Sperm May Prove Useless

OTTAWA (CP) — Men choose to store their sperm in deep-freeze sperm banks may be getting colder—both literally and by faster expectations.

Prof. Richard Haines of Seattle, Wash., president of the Society for the Study of Infertility, said in an interview Tuesday there is "grave doubt" that frozen sperm specimens stored over a long period are capable of fertilizing the egg or female reproductive cells.

Despite this doubt, sperm banks are springing up all over the world, and charging large

R. T. Johnson, elected last month as chairman of the Canadian Gas Users Association, said the group is considering applying to the National Energy Board for a review of existing export licenses because of the "alarming" shortage of gas in Canada.

Johnson said the shortage of gas in Eastern Canada, and additional exports of gas would get to the public interest, while the current shortage continues.

Mr. Johnson said supplies in Eastern Canada will be in adequate next year if gas continues to be exported at present levels.

The acute shortage would last until gas from new Arctic reserves was made available at the end of the decade.

"The tight gas supply is resulting in an acute shortage of ammonia and fertilizers in Eastern Canada with the consequent threat to the production of foodstuffs," the statement said.

"It is causing the postponement of essential industrial projects, and the indicated curtailment of gas usage at an early date is threatening the viability of major enterprises producing pulp and paper, textile fibres, explosives, plastics and synthetic rubbers," industrial chemicals and metals," it said.

The association also fears that U.S. regulations will prevent U.S. gas prices from rising to supply in all Canada, thereby the competitiveness of Canadian industrial gas users.

The statement said that the National Energy Board has scheduled an investigation into gas supplies and requirements for October.

The application for review of export licenses will be made when the Agency announces its findings. "Should such action appear necessary," the statement said.

Members of the Industrial Gas Users Association include Abitibi Paper Co. Ltd., Duxbury Ltd., Canadian Industrial Ltd., Du Pont of Canada Ltd., Poly-mer Ltd. and the Guelph Lakes Paper Co. Ltd.

The canyon is actually a half mile wide, but Knievel says it will keep more than a mile.

Knievel made the jump after four test runs, scoring up a modest ramp and over the trucks, before according to the public to thousands of spectators.

Broadcast Ads Must Meet Code

OTTAWA (CP) — Adherence to the broadcast code on children's advertising has been made a condition of broadcast licence by the Canadian Radio-Television Commission (CRTC) announced Wednesday.

The CRTC said it acted in response to the Commission's broadcasting committee, which "in its report on children's advertising indicated that regardless of how constant the procedures of a self-regulation through the broadcast code might be, a stronger enforcement system would be desirable."

The CRTC said last October that all broadcasters were required to give commitments to observe the code.

"The commission intended that the code should have virtually the strength of a CRTC regulation, while maintaining the flexibility and responsiveness of an industry code," said the CRTC statement issued Wednesday.

Since last October, both the CRTC and the Consumers' Association of Canada (CAC) have monitored children's programs on television stations.

"Concern expressed to the commission has indicated that even though the self-regulatory procedures of the code have proven effective, further assurances were required to ensure adherence to the code by legally enforceable procedures."

The new CRTC policy means that broadcasting stations which do not observe the code may lose their licences when they come up for review by the CRTC.

World Food Storage Plan Urged

QUÉBEC, Oct. (CP) — Food shortages in parts of the world will be combated by the establishment of a worldwide storage program, the president of the Canadian Federation of Agricultural Producers said Wednesday.

Speaking to a conference of agricultural students from across the continent, Guy Fournier, said that since 1980, world grain stocks have dwindled. There currently is enough to feed the world's population for 22 days, he said.

A rising world population aggravates the food supply problem, he said. The world's population was growing at a rate of about two per cent annually or an extra 10 million people each year, most of them in the poorer countries.

Besides improving the world's food distribution system, Fournier, the West must not allow its food production to drop, Mr. Fournier said. If it does, the globe will be faced with starvation verging on catastrophic proportions.

Slick Little Shape-up Knits Necessary for Fall Fashions

NEW YORK (CP) — Knits have become a way of life, and are wardrobe classics. They are no longer fashion news but they are important for fall.

Knits especially are found in trend collections from which designers take their "knits," as in a brown sweater with black little shape-up knits, to the heavy wool, bouclé sweater with large bouclé buttons with a long pleated evening skirt, by Guo Pao.

Elaine Lambert, in her preview remarks to the fashion press at the American Designer Showings noted the two extremes for fall: sweater over under jackets and the bulky cardigan.

Ann Klein even used a cissy sweater as a play-off point-of-view.

The bulky cardigan can be a sweater or a knit fabric and can be worn as a duster or evening jacket. Toot Train revealed this versatility with green sweater in a flame-knit pattern to be worn with a matching skirt and blouse for daytime or a long evening skirt and knit tank-top over an outfit.

Kimberly, one of the oldest (founded 1940) and best-known knit houses, has this to say about fall knits:

"There are several firsts in fashion, notably the plain knitted fleece blend. It's a handsome new idea for fall."

sweater with a thick, soft look but with no excess bulk. Sweater-inspired knits are big."

Most fall collections include a goodly number of knit suits and coats. Adele Simpson added a silver knit sweater over a fitted grey rib-knit sweater coat. Fur trim is popular on everything. Knit shawl collars add a distinctive look to fabric coats and sweaters. For evening, metallic knits provided added glamor as Pat Sandner's crinkled, puffed, long and silky knit dress.

Knits come into fashion about 10 years ago. Actually, of course, sweaters go way back and in the 1920s, with the first appearance of above-the-knee skirts, the sweater dress concept made its debut. It was a logical step to add a few more to the sweater and call it a dress.

Knits didn't really catch on as a fashionable item until the early 1950s, when knit sportswear first came into the market. But only the wealthy could afford them.

Then new yarns came on the market so that knits could be softer, lighter and more pliable. In 1961 double knits were introduced. They were a boon to the knit house. Double knits did much to eliminate sag and bag. At first, only wool was used. Then came synthetics and blends, and washability. By 1963 Kimberly was saying: "A knit may be man's best friend."

friend, but the knit costume has to be the best fashion item for any woman but a kid."

By finding new fibers and blends (pure linen, deerskin, cotton, wool), by adventures in shaping knits which have made her knit a relic of the dark ages, and by creating new textures (faced, corded, piques, popcorn and "battered," brocade effects), Kimberly felt they had made "a knit dress a thing of fashion as well as convenience."

In fact, knits had arrived. They could have been knit and could be cut and tailored the fabric.

Then in 1967 came another major breakthrough. This was bonding. As one designer said: "Until this season knits often owed more of their shape to their wearers than to their designers." Textile designers produced bonding, the use of a latent fabric (usually acetate or rayon) to the back of a fabric or a knit. It gave knits complete shape, and that today knits have achieved bare-couture status.

Incidentally, a number of designers have perfected a new technique for trimming. Margaret is the interlocking technique. It is a variation of the old knit stitch, but of the old knit stitch and dates back to 18th-century America. Many of the favorite knit patterns were later developed by sailors who started knitting at sea.

Curse A Blue Streak And Swear to Stop!

Why are some words "bad?"

Well, it does make some of us feel good to say them.

Swearing is a subject to which I have written about so often that I am sure you are tired of hearing me say it.

Still, it's a subject of importance to just about every family with growing children.

Remember along the way comes the time when Mom and Dad have to take a stand which words are permitted and which are not.

One local family's approach may be different, and may not be the sort of activity to which I devote my time.

But I remember Aunt Betty, who I remember on the theory that evil lurks around underground, and that Devils will be when brought to light, they will all the swear words they know to LOUD. They must be together in alphabetical order, of course, and they came up with 42!

His experiment worked in the process of saying the words over, and the words were some thought to what they were doing. From that day, the problem of swearing was eliminated in the classroom.

Of course, most of his bad words were his family's. The family who lived there along the way comes the time when Mom and Dad have to take a stand which words are permitted and which are not.

lounned more and more to all the words. The words, though, the craves. "You please detect!" he said. "I don't know if I can do that."

Swearing can be described as the use of words which are considered to be offensive or disrespectful.

It is the sound or the meaning that makes words offensive.

Why is it okay for Dad to swear when he hits his thumb with the hammer, but not okay for a kid to swear?

Why is it that men swear more frequently than women, and often curse women (before the word) if a woman swears?

Why do we feel less embarrassed saying one word, and not feel a twinge using the "proper" medical name for that same organ or act?

And finally — where do those bad words come from? Can you find any answers, or are they just interesting?

Spells, Sacrifice, Money Didn't Save Daughter's Life

Dear Ann Landers: For years I have been getting help and advice from your column. Now is my turn to help someone else.

My 16-year-old son, who is a member of our community, has been involved in faith movements, and has been using magic to cure his illness.

Two years ago we were told our daughter had a rare blood disease. When we learned of this, we were told to get her to a body who had "cured" the disease.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 16-year-old son has been involved in faith movements, and has been using magic to cure his illness.

Sea Law Parley Fizzles

CALCUTTA (CP) — The big international Law of the Sea Conference will not meet next week without any negotiated agreement, Canada and other countries will have to wait until next year before hard bargaining over ocean controls gets under way.

However, Canadian delegates at the 146-country conference, were the feasibility of the 120 delegates to work out a global treaty on the use and protection of the oceans should not be viewed as failure. Diplomats in many other countries also share his view.

Thomas, Canadian minister of state for foreign affairs, said the conference, likely to be held in Geneva or Vienna in 1975.

While hard bargaining with other countries started years before the conference opened last week, Canadian officials have not been known, however, to intervene. This includes a determination to ensure that Canadianers are not a peripheral share of the global view of Canada's east and west coasts.

The said Canada has led the way in breaking up traditional concepts of marine law that allowed overfishing and pollution of the oceans.

However, other Canadian delegates have the next conference once will be to spread over two decades, that of five or six weeks duration. The current 120 delegates will be reduced to 100, they said.

But, they believe that the police, compromise and his decision to prove still in dealing with new law questions will eventually win the day for Canada.

The idea of a 200-mile economic zone covering Canada's continental shelves, stringent laws to prevent marine pollution and control of resources, has been agreed in principle by most countries although there is little agreement on details.

For instance, Canada wants the right to set catch limits on stocks higher than those agreed internationally for foreign ships operating near Canadian shores and over the continental shelf. Canada has in the past been accused of overfishing of Newfoundland or frequent poaching in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

The said Canada agrees the right to protect their territorial waters from pollution but insists that should not extend the full width of the proposed 200 mile economic zone which Canada wants.

However, the Soviet delegates favored strengthening existing laws to control the carrying of a vessel's right to refuse for any damage to the marine environment of another state.

Third Toronto Policeman Charged

TORONTO (CP) — A Metropolitan Police police sergeant was charged Wednesday with common assault following a 10 in. incident which sent two officers to hospital.

Deputy Chief Jack Armstrong said Sgt. George Horvath, a policeman for 19 years, had been charged after it was alleged the officer slapped David Marshall, 75, during an incident outside a downtown tavern.

Last week, Constable David McKinnon, 28, was charged with public mischief and two counts of assault causing bodily harm and Constable Ian Witter, 25, with public mischief in connection with the same incident.

The two are alleged to have fabricated a report that Marshall and Gerald Brown, 21, who had been left unguarded in a police car, escaped after attacking against the individual policeman because of the criminal charges announced.

Marshall suffered a broken shoulder and a stitched cut while Brown sustained head and stomach bruising.

Sgt. Horvath is the eighth Metropolitan policeman charged under the Criminal Code since July 21 in three cases involving charges of police brutality by off-duty and on-duty officers.

Deputy Chief Armstrong also said David Fischer, Roger Bennett, Robert Rivers and Kenneth Campbell, all constables on the force, have been charged under the Ontario Police Act for their actions in the Marshall-Brown incident.

The deputy chief declined to name the Police Act charges against the officers.

Ottawa Youth Hostel In Abandoned Jail

OTTAWA (CP) — Bright sunlight streams through the narrow windows of the old Carleton County Jail as young people line up for their morning grab and sit down to eat at brightly painted wooden tables.

About 45 minutes later, the "entrances" begin to drift from the front door to the white heap of laundry snowed in by their stop of rain-soaked sleeping bags.

A bearded man, clad in red sweatshirt and red-and-black jeans, argues with all who approach the desk.

"Good morning! Would you go to a favor? Go down through the door marked 'laundry' to the fourth cell, grab one of the moon and wipe up the floor. 'Thank You're a gentleman.'"

By 10 a.m., everyone is gone. Some will return at 5 p.m., others have gone for good.

The building is not an old, lighted home for wayward youth. It is Ottawa's only year-round youth hostel and business is booming.

BUILT IN 1881

The old jail also is one of the city's historic sites. Built in 1881, it housed as many as 150 prisoners at a time until 1971, when it was condemned and closed.

It also was the site of the country's last public hangings when Patrick Whelan was put to death for the 1881 execution of Thomas D'Arcy McGee, member of the Queen's and one of the Fathers of Confederation.

After the last prisoner was removed, several groups made bids to use the building.

"The ultimately the only people who came up with a viable project were the youth hostel people," said Alan Laidlaw, a 7-year-old native of Scotland. He and his 34-year-old wife, Linda, both former child-care workers, are the hostel's full-time house-parents.

So, the jail became part of a cross-country chain of 56 hostels run by the Canadian Youth Hostel Association.

With an LEP grant and a $100,000 loan from Heritage Canada, the non-profit organization renovated the jail to meet fire and health regulations.

An old bell-and-chain fire alarm that was used until 1971 was replaced by an automatic system. In August, 1973, the hostel was officially opened by Prince Philip.

Now the jail occupants are 42 long, narrow dining rooms that once, was the prison chapel and sleep in bunk beds up outside the cells.

Hotel guests aren't allowed to sleep in the cells because ventilation does not meet city health regulations.

Facilities, extraction fans may be installed in the larger cells so heating could fall asleep in them and other guests may be converted into a family room.

Future renovations will depend on what Ottawa Carleton Regional government decides to do when a three-year renovation on the building ends.

"There's absolutely no sense in making major capital expenditures to find at the end of three years that regional government has decided to close the building," said Mr. Laidlaw. And the land the building stands on is becoming more and more valuable.

Bill Laine, a regional government councillor, is chairman of a three-member commission working to decide the future of the jail.

"I'm impressed with the success they've had so far," he said. "They're really improving the place."

"I'm opposed to protecting the building just because it's more than 100 years old. But if good use can be found for it, that's great."

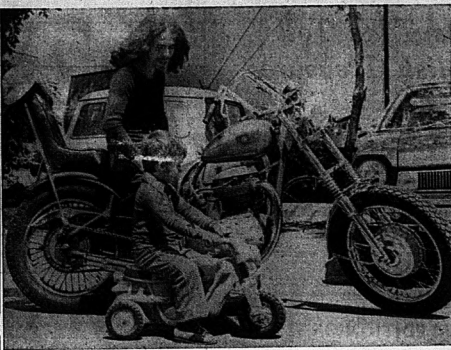

Slated For Success

GLASGOW (CP) — The British Palace, Edinburgh of Sir Winston Churchill, is to be moved with bricks and mortar from England's oldest stone quarry in Cumberland.

The quarry recently exported 12,000 slabs to Canada for roofing the Historical Resources Building in Fredericton.

Train Young Actors

The Canadian Theatre Company is conducting workshops this summer for students aged 12 to 16. They will be trained in acting skills, given a course in theatre appreciation and will stage their own production.

Thinking of Upgrading?

Pibroch In Plastic

GLASGOW (CP) — The swirl of the pipes may soon come from plastic instruments because Uganda has banned export of the African blackwood traditionally used to make the clarinet, which produces the melody. Seamus MacNeill, principal of the Scottish College of Piping, said he has heard plastic pipes in Canada and they "seem to play just as well."

Rates Increased

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Motor Carriage Commission has allowed increases of up to seven per cent in British Columbia trucking rates. The B.C. Automotive Transport Association sought the increases to meet higher fuel, equipment and labor costs.

Nixon Attacks Ontario Land Speculation Tax

OHC to Consider Various Proposals For Low-income Housing in City

Ontario Housing Corporation officials will be at city hall Aug. 28 to provide details and answer questions from landlords and developers about their community integrated housing program.

OHC is inviting proposals for the provision of rental accommodation in the city under three approaches to the integrated housing program.

The meeting at city hall, next Wednesday, begins at 8 a.m. Proposal forms will be available at the meeting, at the OHC office at 121 Front St. E.

The three approaches to the community integrated housing program are rent supplement, provision of second mortgage money, and proposals for the purchase or construction of new units.

Under the rent supplement approach the housing corporation is seeking proposals for the leasing of vacant housing units or units now under construction.

The units must be self-contained and may be in the form of detached, semi-detached, row or apartment as determined by the corporation. The total number of units offered in a single building or residential complex should not exceed 25 per cent of the overall number of units.

Under this program rents based on income are paid by tenants selected from the corporation's list of applicants.

The second mortgage approach is for the corporation to lend money to holders who have already secured primary financing. The second mortgage will bring total mortgage financing to 90 per cent of the total cost of the unit.

In return the holder is required to provide housing to the corporation at the OHC rate.

commodation under the rent supplement program for a maximum of 15 years.

The housing corporation will also consider proposals from developers for the purchase or construction of rental units on land owned by the proponents.

The corporation, as owner, would own 75 per cent of the units at market rate and the remaining 25 per cent to eligible applicants on a rent-to-own basis.

Approval of development proposals will take three, some four, years, he said.

Ontario Treasurer John Oliver, he said, admitted the problem, but has been "objected" to in some quarters. "What he has done is hard work," Oliver said, "but it is not the work of planners who have simply added to the red tape."

Mr. Oliver said — which he also stressed to party workers later — reiterated Liberal party policy: Decentralization of power away from Queen's Park and back to municipalities.

Local boards and committees, he said, would be the best way to handle the problem.

New Printing Process Produces Better Pictures

Camera buffs have a treat in store this week in a photography exhibit at Corby Library.

The marks the unveiling of a new technique in color photography — production of color prints directly from transparencies.

Val Balkhais, teacher of photography at Loyola College, has given up a month of his summer holidays to produce the exhibit, the result of his experiments in applying the year-old technique to simulated processing methods.

Chlachrone, as the process is called, was developed at Ford City, an English and U.S. company.

Darwin Suddenly Popular Resort

DARWIN, Australia (AP) — In the age of "get away from it all," the small town of Darwin, Australia, is becoming a popular resort for people who want to get away from the city.

It is Darwin, the northernmost city in Australia, which is the nearest "Johannesburg" to the city. Darwin is a small town of about 10,000 people, and it is a popular resort for people who want to get away from the city.

Canadians Depending More on Aid of Drugs

OTTAWA (CP) — There is growing evidence that more and more Canadians are relying on drugs to "cure" what ails them.

A Canadian Pharmaceutical Association survey shows that in 1972 about 18 million prescriptions were filled.

Longer life expectancy may be one factor in increased drug use. In 1972, the average life expectancy of Canadians was 74 years.

THE 4 + 2 CONSTRUCTION provides 6 undertread plies for extra strength. That doubles up the sidewall plies too. Naturally 4 + 2 construction costs a lot more to make and is seldom offered for sale elsewhere, let alone at as low a price as ours. Your slight extra cost represents an investment that will pay off many times over: more tread miles, and more gas miles.

Tax Repeal Sought

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Industrial Development Council has asked the Ontario government to consider repealing its 20-per-cent tax on income earned by foreign firms, or at least exempt land acquired for industrial and commercial purposes. A letter from the council says the tax could deter expansion of existing industry and might eventually lead to the relocation of plants outside the province.

BELLEVEILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, AUGUST 23, 1974

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
State Secretary Henry Kissinger says the United States government is studying the Soviet proposal for a 10-day conference to chart the future of Cyprus. But Western diplomats at the United Nations dismissed the Soviet move as a propaganda manoeuvre.

"It doesn't seem to be anything that will get off the ground," one said.

Soviet government state minister Thursday said attempts by members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to settle the Cyprus crisis have failed. It cited the "special responsibility" for the maintenance of peace of the five permanent members of the Security Council—including the Soviet Union—and said the time is right for a conference made to be given a chance to come to fruition," he said.

Ford Turns Attention To Mid East

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Ford is turning his attention to the Middle East at a meeting with the Syrian Foreign Minister after meeting with the Republican campaign leader to map strategy for the fall election.

Today's White House meeting with Abdel Halim Khaddam of Syria is part of continuing talks that Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger are conducting with Middle East officials to lay groundwork for the next stage of negotiations for a peace settlement.

Ford hopes to meet with Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin and Soviet Premier Leonid Brezhnev in the next three weeks.

Ford moved through a heavy schedule of meetings and ceremonies Thursday, ending with a private dinner at the White House with President-designate Nelson Rockefeller and his long-time congressional friend.

Ford stepped up his role as president-elect Wednesday, posing for individual photographs with Republican campaign leaders.

Earlier he took time to pose with a dem seminar up at the White House press conference.

Ford did not come with his planned Tuesday morning press conference this year as he had planned Tuesday morning press conference.

Tellert said no political trips have been scheduled yet.

The ceasefire in Cyprus continued to hold. But a UN spokesman said the Turkish army refused to allow UN troops in Famagusta to deliver food and water to the thousands of Greek Cypriot refugees taken to the refugee camps in Nicosia.

There is enough food in the island to feed the population, but the Turks have captured vast areas, and the Turkish army has those supplies," the officer said.

Grain Export Halt Feared

VANCOUVER (CP) — A possible strike by grain handlers drew closer today as union and management headed towards a confrontation.

The Grain Workers Union (G.W.U.) and the grain companies have now served rally notices to 200 workers, more than one-third of the 600 who work there. The companies, however, said notices have gone to about 100.

The union, which voted to strike last Wednesday, said it had a 50-per-cent majority in favour of laying off notice as soon as the notices take effect—scheduled for later today.

The companies responded by saying they will not work unless a picket line goes on.

A meeting between the government and the grain companies has been scheduled for Monday in Ottawa, but that now may be a futile exercise.

The federal government, which has promised to begin a settlement if necessary, has repeatedly urged the companies to accept its recommendations of the conciliation report of Dr. Bill Perry.

The union has accepted the findings of the report, but has refused, saying it is highly unlikely that the companies will accept the recommendations.

Volume of White House Delays Trial of Nixon Aides

WASHINGTON (AP) — The trial of seven top Nixon aides in the Watergate cover-up case will be delayed at least three weeks because of the volume of White House tapes to be used as evidence.

The United States Supreme Court, however, has been asked to delay the case until next year because of what defence lawyers say is a flood of testimony stemming from Richard Nixon's tapes. The case is scheduled to begin in U.S. District Judge John Sirica's court in Washington on Sept. 30 after the U.S. Court of Appeals here strongly suggested

Out on the meadows of Pleasant Playground yesterday, scores of laughing, running, laughing children ignored the weather, and traced their way through the annual Thunder Playday.

Around the edges of the field, in the stoney shade of trees, mothers sat fanning themselves. Feeling babies' feet, jolts and longing for the cool of evening.

The official culmination of the summer's playground program sponsored by the Thunder Playday Committee, the Playday rumpus along from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Organized by 34 team-superwives who have coordinated the six-week program in 13 township playgrounds, Playday was a success in spite of the scorching temperatures. Over 200 children attended the event.

In the morning prizes were given to winning playgrounds in sack races, wheelbarrow and two-legged races, water-popping contests and softball throwing. Tied for first place at morning's end were Harroby and Douglas Atkins playgrounds.

Smaller children occupied themselves happily in the play area created this summer during the "Nature's Playthings" project, a portion of old trees, woven climbing beams and sand piles.

At noon hour the thirty bench swayed for lunch and a treasure hunt for "dinosaur eggs" which luckily turned out to be enormous watermelons.

A penny carnival amused and entertained everyone in the afternoon, with activities of all kinds and prize gallop. By the end of the day, the watching mothers galloped their tired, grass-stained brows and the older boys wheeled away on their bicycles.

The playground supervisors, delighted with the way "it had all turned out," packed away the seats and balloons and softballs, and stole away home to cold showers and regeneration.

Wiring Main Issue

City council will be asked Monday to consent to a subdivision electrical policy that describes complete underground installation of a "wiring" issue.

The subdivision issue committee met last week to discuss addition services and what companies could be made concerning subdividing.

Alderman Joe Cox, council chairman, said complete underground wiring "is the ideal but it can be unrealistic in some cases."

City council now has no firm position on the issue, said Ald. Cox. He said he hopes council is "wiring two much" in a council policy statement.

The committee is composed of mayor, four councilmen and a representative of the Quinle Fairgrounds Association. The committee is calling for light standards with only a single wire of wire exposed and buried wiring into a hole in the pavement.

In a high class development, complete underground wiring is mandatory in the subdivision's recommendation," he said.

Alderman Says City Council Wasting Time Nit-picking

Alderman Joe Cox, said the Hastings Council, that the city council is "wasting too much time nit-picking."

Lack of Serviced Land At 'Critical' Stage

Quinle planners are serving notice to determine how much land can be served in the area for residential development.

In the week of reports concerning the scarcity of land in the city, the subdivision committee is now in a critical stage.

Alderman Joe Cox, chairman of the committee, said the Hastings Council, that the city council is "wasting too much time nit-picking."

The survey will establish all available land, separating "land that can be easily served from the land that might have more problems with it," said the chairman.

The outcome of the committee's work will probably be a recommendation to plan to amalgamate with Jarvis Township, said Ald. Cox.

Meters Coming Up

Belleville's two taxi companies are equipping their cabs with meters in preparation for the new method of calculating fares that goes into effect Oct. 1. Centre Taxi has installed a few meters for a trial run, making partner reports to the Belleville Police Commission on the difference in fare.

Pete Lott adjusts the "flag" on a meter, which can be shut off during heavy waste in traffic tie-ups.

taxi council, said council is considering itself with meters that could be more suitably handled by city hall staff.

"Council should be directing its energy to the formation of policy that will provide a framework for the city manager," said the chairman.

With a city manager-type of municipal government, when much of the routine business is delegated to department heads and the mayor, "we as councilmen are wasting our time with nit-picking," he said.

City council said lengthy discussions about what name should be given a new street and what other tricks should go on a township are a waste of council time.

"We're elected to serve the people, not to choose brick red," he said.

He said there is an increasing awareness among councilors that "red tape" could reduce some of the red tape. The committee's function, he said, is to supervise and write paper before it goes to council.

Taxi Meters Causing Concern Among Belleville Cab Owners

Belleville's two taxi companies will get an extra month to convert to meters, said the city's Police Commission.

Installation of meters in five Centre Taxi cars will reveal information on the use of the Central Taxi owner Grant Devlin told the commission.

He and Chequer Taxi owner Don Devlin were given until Oct. 1 to have meters operating in their cabs. The trial run date first decided upon was Sept. 1.

At the request of the two taxi companies, meter rates have been changed.

The new rates will be 75 cents for the first one-fifth mile (30 seconds), and 15 cents for each additional one-fifth mile.

The trial run will last until the first mile. Then, the cost of the first mile will be $1.10 and thereafter after will cost 50 cents. The waiting rate is unchanged at $1 an hour.

Devlin said passengers had been charged, during the trial period, by the existing meter rates. The meter rates had been recorded by the police commission.

Devlin said that, in the past, there's no way I can give you an accurate figure about the difference between meter and meter rates, said Mr. Devlin.

He said he will have all his taxis equipped with meters on Sept. 1 and will also the commission's comparison report to the city.

The two owners gave comparison figures for long-distance runs in the city. A 100 trip in Madeo will cost $1.10 and 100 trips in the city, they said.

The trip to Peten will cost $1.10 and 100 trips to Toronto International will cost $1.10.

The hearing rather more about meters than I wanted to know," remarked Mayor Robo Jeffery.

Davis Hopes Public Opinion Will Force Reforms in Hockey

WALLACEBURG, Ont. (CP) — Premier William Davis is not hopeful that public opinion will force another hockey bill into the province to adhere to a government report's recommendation that hockey players who engage in fights be expelled from the game.

On a tour of western Ontario Thursday, the premier said he would not commit his government to legislation governing hockey violence, despite a Labour Party reaction from amateur hockey officials to the suggestion. "I expect to hear from Mr. Davis," said a spokesman for the Ontario Hockey Federation, which had received an investigation report from the Ontario Hockey Association (OHA) last week.

we can or cannot (legislate) at this point."

Mr. Davis visited Ridgeway, near Chatham, where he opened a new sewer, then turned the spot for a hotel at Wallacburg, took a boat cruise and opened a luncheon at Midland's Bay.

During the day he took time out to discuss with reporters the implications of Mr. McMurtry's report, specifically the recommendation that hockey players be shown out of games for fighting. Instead of the recommended one-minute penalty, he said, "I still believe the recommendation is a live-minute penalty."

He said it is premature to consider legislation. "I don't think we've reached the point where we should be

Nixon Sees Davis Dodging Byelection

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader Robert Nixon said Thursday he will seek a provincial byelection this fall in the Eastern Ontario riding of Stouffville.

Mr. Nixon charged at a news conference Thursday that Premier William Davis was dodging a byelection as long as possible because he is afraid that the traditionally Progressive Conservative seat will fall to the Liberals.

Fern Gaudin, former labor minister in the Davis cabinet, resigned the seat in June to run in the federal election. The Liberals are expected to win the seat in the next election. The Liberals are expected to win the seat in the next election.

He said a simple amendment to the election act, passed when the Legislature returns, would permit Mr. Davis to call a fall byelection.

"But I think the Tories are afraid that they cannot hold on to the seat," he said.

He said Donald Deacon, member of the legislature for York Centre, came to western Ontario to discuss regional government and other issues "but all we are hearing is complaints about the Davis government."

On other subjects, Mr. Nixon said Mr. Davis is attacking the National Hockey League for encouraging violence in the game. He said he would support legislation to end the violence.

Mr. Nixon and Mr. Deacon were scheduled to visit Harry's (they about 130 miles west of Ottawa today to discuss Progressive Party's legislative operations before ending their tour.

Woman Escapes Injury

TWICE - A Glasgow woman escaped serious injury today when the car she was driving went out of control on a Tabor Township road a mile east of Hurley.

Looka Mae Duggan of RR2, Ottawa, hit a service truck before her car rolled on its side in a ditch. The driver, the car was estimated at $200.

Antifreeze Fraud

TORONTO (CP) - Fraud charges will likely be laid soon against dealers selling an alcohol-based antifreeze which is being sold as regular antifreeze.

The alcohol-based solution has a boiling point, and will evaporate under warm summer weather, high driving speeds, and other heavy uses they said. Ethylene glycol, a permanent antifreeze, will not evaporate under these conditions.

Some wholesalers have been selling large quantities of antifreeze to service stations, making it impossible to tell that ethylene glycol will be sold to the motorist, police said.

Police said that the alcohol-based antifreeze is legal as long as it is not marked permanent. Service station operators have been buying the antifreeze and reselling it to their customers.

Members of the Ontario Automobile Association in Cambridge had complained that the antifreeze was sold to the public. Customers in Cambridge had complained that the antifreeze was sold to the public.

One-Day Trip

Campbellford Offers Varied Activities

By SHARON ALBRIGHT

It tells you something about the town of Campbellford to know that Ontario's first conservation area was formed there nearly 100 years ago.

Concerned about the mass slaughter of fish and game, newspapers formed a wildlife protection association in 1874 which lobbied at the provincial level until 1908 when Game Officers began carrying out conservation measures.

A one-day holiday to this area famous for game fish (thanks to these early conservation efforts), makes a pleasant drive on a summer's afternoon.

Begin a trip to Campbellford by deciding to take the leisurely route.

Forable the old Highway 10 to Siding always a pleasant drive. If you start out on a Sunday morning, for example, plan to arrive at the Siding Fairgrounds at 10 or 11 a.m. for the start of the weekly Flea Market. Held every second Sunday, the features antiques and collectibles and some nice lunch.

It costs a person to get in.

The Fairgrounds can be reached in Siding, Ontario, by following the main road straight through town until you hit a gravel road. Continue a short way to the grounds, following signs.

After a look at the flea market, back track along the same road a very short distance until you come to the Old Marston Road. Signs will tell you the way to Campbellford.

It is a winding but good road that twists through some of Ontario's countryside. You'll notice that you're taking a lot more time to get to the town than you did last 100 years of Ontario architectural history by looking at the farm houses and barns along the road.

If you're planning a picnic, here is the look-out for Central Canada's Factory or, a little later on, Empire Cheese.

On the road you'll come to Hubbs' Hill United Empire Loyalists' Pioneer Cemetery, worth a few minutes visit. The tiny graveyard sits on a hill overlooking the countryside.

You can picnic in a "First Memorial Park," a newly developed park still labelled "undeveloped." In this case that's a happy designation because it means no fee for camping or picnicking or parking. There are picnic tables and washrooms.

The park includes, with a 2,000 year old Indian burial grounds, many trails by the river and a comfortable river bank, you can swim at Crown Bay Park.

Continuing north for that, you can swim at Crown Bay Park. Along the way you'll see some of the best fishing in the area. Along the way you'll see some of the best fishing in the area.

Global Perspective

Rocky Dillard (Editor) Vern J. Heap-lip of Milwaukee is in the real estate business, but he has been making as much as big a name for himself as an environmentalist who believes the community interest should be seen not just local, but national and international.

During a visit to Belleville recently he pointed out that 25 percent of Canadians live below the poverty level, while in the world at large some 70 percent of the population lives in abject poverty.

Mr. Heaplip wants to see greater emphasis on education and sharing of resources, and again from a global perspective.

It is sound thinking. At the same time — and this we recognize — there are people with urgent needs at home. The recent events in Kenya for instance should not be looked upon the government or upon service organizations. We can no longer project the self-identified image of "a fortunate people."
We may be just that, but there are blights, hills, and many areas of need that must be met.

There is plenty to be done right on our doorstep. Let's make the world a better place
... but let's not neglect the home front.

New U.S. Envoy

Since one-time child movie prodigy
Bridget Temple began a career in politics, with special emphasis on world food needs and on refugee and environmental problems, she has travelled much of the world and made a name for herself.

She has exchanged the fantasy world of 40 years ago — and how undying are the memories even now — for the harsh realities of real life and dedication to improving the lot of people everywhere.

Now Shirley Temple Black — her husband is a company president and they have three children in their twenties — has been named U.S. ambassador to Ghana. This is a new and rewarding position of challenge for the actress and Black and the family separation that will ensue (daughter Susan is 22, and daughter, Liza, is 20, and Charles Jr., 22, and daughter, Liza, 20, are children) may be difficult they are clearly mature and educated enough to weather it.

At least the family, though often apparently, give every appearance of being a happy one, and their situation is not that which has made orphans for example of the son and daughter of U.S. ambassador
Roger Davies, who was slain in Cyprus.

Mrs. Black has some shrewd observations on the role she now plays and that which she played in the past. In an interview with Frederic A. Morris of The Christian Science Monitor recently she said: "In the real world stories of hardships and the work is a lot harder." She added however that the work is rewarding "because you feel you are making some kind of progress, even if nothing big happens overnight."

Unfathomable woman — Shirley Temple Black.

Tribute To Nurses

John D. Keeble lives across the bay and will be 90 this September. Recently he was in hospital, but is home now and has sent us some verse in tribute to his nurse.
The nurse, Keeble makes it clear he thinks highly of all the nurses but one in particular, "a brown-haired young lady," seems to have transcended his illness and is cheerful and devoted to her tasks and to the patients' needs.

"The task was too great or too small for her, according to Mr. Keeble who says she "bucked up my spirits," ensured that everyone was comfortable "before finishing the day, and though tired still at the end of every one."

We are sure there are many nurses like this who are surely contributing to the well-being of all who as patients come in contact with them. They are a credit to their profession.

Soviet Plan For Makarios' Return Under Study

By RICHARD JACKSON

An irony of the continuing Cyprus crisis is that the so-called "Soviet solution" is vowing the return of Archbishop Makarios, in getting as an eventual compromise line to appeal to all principals involved.

It would not, however, be the total satisfaction of the United States. Turkey, to give generally, has given contributing to the situation which has now somewhat enhanced Makarios' prospects.
But the view is that the second Turkish offensive to divide the island, which in Greek eyes the Americans practically consider, has so altered the Cyprus situation that both now might be forced to welcome
Makarios, albeit reluctantly.

From the Greek point of view, the fledgling Aden Government of Prime Minister Karamanlis would hope that a political lightweight unable to control Greek-Cypriot tempers in the wake of his humiliation, with his peace talks, might be the only one still acceptable to all.

Observers suggest that an essential first step to Cyprus is to try to dampen Greek-Turkish hatred, and that the archbishop may be the best man for the job.

In this context, there is wide agreement that Acting President Glafos Clerides is a political lightweight unable to control Greek-Cypriot tempers
in the wake of his humiliation, with his peace talks, might be the only one still acceptable
to all.

Summer Theatre Schedule Pumps Producer's Adrenaline

LINDRAY, Ont. (CP) — Day-to-day in the end my feet don't hurt. Sweating producers are eight weeks on the Kavalera Summer Theatre here, getting up in the morning and going to bed at 2:30 a.m.

"It's pretty insane," he said, "but it's fantastic to pump and I suppose from the first one figures have almost doubled in four years, he expects even more people this year.

"The choice of plays is one of the biggest things," he said. "Just last year we had 100 and they have to be in good taste."

"Some of these comedies are semi-classics. I don't do anything experimental. I'd love to do that in the winter but not now."

Mr. Sweeping said he gets applications from all over Canada and the United States for parts in his plays.

"We're listed in theatre and union periodicals in both countries. Our reputation has spread to the point that to have a play here is a sort of a recommendation for something. Normally a play takes two or three weeks to produce. In some places such as Toronto's St. Lawrence Centre it takes up to 12 weeks.

Rehearsals for the plays start every evening at 10 and actors are limited to five hours work a day by union rules.

They're paid $100 a week, but he said he's not sure if that's the best way to do it.

"I'm not sure if that's the best way to do it," he said. "I'm not sure if that's the best way to do it."

Can Air Canada Asks More

MONTREAL (CP) — An application for a fare increase on transatlantic passenger flights will be filed with the Canadian Transport Commission today, a spokesman for Air Canada said.

The increase, to take effect on March 1, would raise the fare for a round-trip ticket from $100 to $110, the spokesman said.

Although the fare increase was approved unanimously by the board of directors, it still requires approval from the government.

The fare increase would be the first since 1964, the spokesman said.

Stored Eggs Ruined

OTTAWA (CP) — A spokesman for the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency confirmed today that improper storage has forced the destruction of nine million eggs destined for the processing industry.

However, James D. Fisher, partner in a public relations firm representing the agency, denied that the taxpayer would foot the bill for the ruined eggs. He said it is irresponsible to say that the loss would be borne by the producers.

"It's the negligence of the producers," Mr. Fisher said. "They don't give said to the processing industry in said that the cost of production as the producers subsidize export of eggs in the country."

He also stressed the cost of the problem is not the cost of the eggs, but the cost of the processing industry in said that the cost of production as the producers subsidize export of eggs in the country.

He will be the first Canadian prime minister to visit Japan since 1971. The Trudeau and Tanaka deal first talks last April in Paris while attending the funeral of French President Georges Pompidou.

Trade and economic matters will be a key concern during discussions in Ottawa, Terauchi said in official Japanese media. He said the two leaders will deal with expanded cultural and educational ties when they hold talks during Tanaka's Sept. 22-23 visit to Canada.

Country Living

The move to the country by city folk is nothing if not visible and there is a lot of building going on.

But where is the sense of style, design, or whatever, in dwellings sprouting up all over the place?

True they are to all appearance well-built, functional. But many look as if they might have been transplanted from the city and dumped down on some lousy rural road.

Ultimately, if the trend continues, these rural areas may become a hodge-podge of city-designed, city-type homes, with some semblance of loosely-defined character arising but with the rural character largely missing.

There seems to be no real planning where rural development is concerned. Dwellings, style building (as it still pervades), along with the professional, but the entire picture seems to lack planning coherence and any sense of support with the distinctive characteristics of the countryside.

Summer's Colors

It is a long time from May to September, as the humming-birds arrive. But that faded season is not far off and despite summer's best efforts in these late days of August there are spots where the landscape is turning already.

Gardens still bloom though and the surrounds of many a city are brilliant as the summer fades. There is one in Pinnacle Street which is in a class all by itself. Lowly, faded, style building (as it still pervades), along with the professional, but the entire picture seems to lack planning coherence and any sense of support with the distinctive characteristics of the countryside.

Around about the city are other displays that enhance the spirit of the past. Many in one Bloomfield that is a mass of color may be the last of the season just past the county educational board's establishment.

To quote again from the sensitive words of another song: What a difference a day makes.

Proponents Of Fitness

Lloyd Perchal headed the Canadian Fitness Institute and was an unerring proponent of a physically fit society.

Mr. Perchal however was a victim recent the heart attack that strikes many a citizen these days and at the comparatively early age, by today's standards, of 45. Now there is word that another man prominent in recreational and fitness circles — 60-year-old John Tetik of Kingston is in a similar state of work and believed drowned. His overturned canoe was found drifting on Devil Lake north of Kingston.

Former RCMP sergeant, commander and fighter pilot, the 60-year-old Mr. Tetik was prominent in armed forces and was involved in recreational programs. He conceived and recovered the SRX physical program which became the standard for many of the allied armed forces as well as catching the attention of the public generally.

These two gentlemen will be missed, but their passing will not be without impact on the fitness level in Canada or the rise of others devoted to the fostering of healthier individuals.

For the young people, not to say all of us, there is the example of swimmers Cindy Nicholas and Angela Lewis. Both of them are significant too are the observations of Nicolaas Rosenmayr, professor of sociology at the University of Guelph. He discounts that men and women decline mentally and physically as they grow older.

Rosenmayr says research shows that the heart does not deteriorate as the individual ages. It is a loss of strength but this might be overcome through careful training. He contends intelligence keeps on growing and believes that older people themselves should be allowed to work past present retirement age.

Of course all this will not come about if the individual does not have a program for maintaining fitness. The sedentary life combined with over-eating is not the way to do it. Thus, when he begins to feel the discomfort of the individual can be his own best friend or worst enemy.

China Feeds 800 Million People: Minister Hopeful World Can Cope

By JOHN D. HARRISON
 Foreign Affairs Analyst

The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) has announced that the world can cope with the growing demand for food.

Out of their domestic capacity the Chinese have been able to maintain one of the highest levels of food production in the world.

Everyone estimated it was a long, tough battle. The specialists who could know—land, water, and food—estimated it was a long, tough battle.

To quote again from the sensitive words of another song: What a difference a day makes.

Mr. Perchal headed the Canadian Fitness Institute and was an unerring proponent of a physically fit society.

Mr. Perchal however was a victim recent the heart attack that strikes many a citizen these days and at the comparatively early age, by today's standards, of 45.

Now there is word that another man prominent in recreational and fitness circles — 60-year-old John Tetik of Kingston is in a similar state of work and believed drowned.

Former RCMP sergeant, commander and fighter pilot, the 60-year-old Mr. Tetik was prominent in armed forces and was involved in recreational programs. He conceived and recovered the SRX physical program which became the standard for many of the allied armed forces as well as catching the attention of the public generally.

These two gentlemen will be missed, but their passing will not be without impact on the fitness level in Canada or the rise of others devoted to the fostering of healthier individuals.

For the young people, not to say all of us, there is the example of swimmers Cindy Nicholas and Angela Lewis. Both of them are significant too are the observations of Nicolaas Rosenmayr, professor of sociology at the University of Guelph.

He discounts that men and women decline mentally and physically as they grow older.

Rosenmayr says research shows that the heart does not deteriorate as the individual ages. It is a loss of strength but this might be overcome through careful training.

He contends intelligence keeps on growing and believes that older people themselves should be allowed to work past present retirement age.

Of course all this will not come about if the individual does not have a program for maintaining fitness. The sedentary life combined with over-eating is not the way to do it.

Thus, when he begins to feel the discomfort of the individual can be his own best friend or worst enemy.

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — About 130 city recreation employees walked off their jobs here Monday in a dispute over who will turn out the new lights after baseball games at the Whiting Pier diamond. Firemen originally were given the task of turning out the lights, but recreation workers say the job belongs to them. Civic authorities in gesture of conciliation, said Monday night the lights would be turned out by the coaches of ball teams using the field, but the workers replied they want a special shift on duty to look after groundskeeping and turn MONTREAL (CP) — A 22-year-old man, convicted manslaughter in the shooting death last February of his 16-year-old daughter, was sentenced Monday to 47 weekends in jail. Judge Paul Reeves ruled that Claude Benette was defroding his mother, brothers and sisters from the father when the incident occurred. He ordered Benette to be at a prison every Saturday at 8 p.m. for 48-hour periods. The father, André, was shot nine times with a 22-calibre rifle. Evidence showed he was a heavy drinker who often beat his wife and children.

Couple Escape Injury

PICTON — A Kingston area couple narrowly escaped injury Tuesday morning when a house fire broke out from a stove front on Main street.

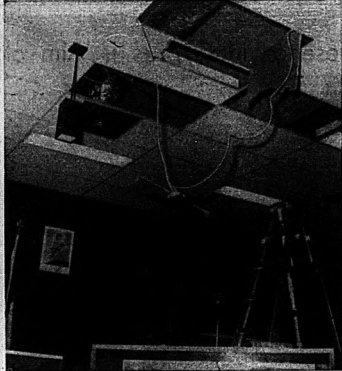

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Egan, 60, of 212 1/2 English street, were walking past the Allison Block when the fire broke out from the stove. It was determined by the fire department that the roof of an animal over the stove had tipped over and landed on the edge of the stove.

Constable George Wright of the Picton police department said the couple escaped and were uninjured. The house fire was very old and several of the jobs had been done but not fixed, he said. The fire was taken to the station further, he said, of this type.

Tent City Folds for Another Year After Successful Summer At Trenton

TRENTON — Tent City — houses for more than 2,000 campers — is folding for another year — now is being used as a parking lot and will be folded next year.

The camp, at Canadian Forces Base Trenton, annually draws thousands of youngsters to its training courses that last from two to six weeks.

The camp is jointly sponsored by the national cadet organization and the department of national defence. Since June, when the program began, 2,000 boys have spent under canvas and trained in every facet of camp and social life.

"We're trying to make them into better cadets and better soldiers," said Camp Officer Sgt. Gil Drevett.

Woman Pilot Claims Unfair Discrimination

OTTAWA (CP) — A woman pilot with 28 years' experience has claimed she was discriminated against because of her sex when she applied for a job with Air Canada. She said a subsidiary operating daily short-haul scheduled flights from Ottawa to Montreal.

Lena deLoraine says in an editorial in the May-June issue of Canadian Pilot that she knows of at least two men with no qualifications inferior to hers who were hired to pilot the company's Twin Otter aircraft on the OTM flight.

She rejects the position of A. J. Toulon, director of Air Canada's flight operations, who was quoted in Montreal as saying there is "absolutely nothing there."

Mrs. deLoraine says she was told in a letter of rejection that her qualifications were not as good as those of the men who were hired with 2,000 to 3,000 hours of pilot-in-command of single-engine aircraft.

Most of these applicants are former Canadian Forces pilots, she says. An unfair advantage was given to them over pilot-entrants from becoming commercial service pilots.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Post, Carrington Place are pleased to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Elizabeth Joanne, to Harold Kirby, Brimington, Wilkesville. The wedding will take place Saturday, Sept. 28, Rednerville United Church.

Illegal Dumping Charged By Two Belleville Residents

Two local environmentalists have charged that Belleville's municipal council has been slow to demand a cleanup of illegal dumping sites in the city.

Charmone Young and Kevin Young, who live in the Belleville area, and although complaints have been made for more than a year, little, if any, action has been taken.

Mr. Young said one such dump is located on Bond Park Ave. He said details of almost every description have been dumped on the site, where drainage flows directly into the bay.

He told council the majority of the environment has been "passed the buck" when asked to investigate the matter. Pressed by council members for names of the persons responsible for the dumping,

Mr. Young said Gosselin Construction had dumped debris on a Hamilton Ave. area, while McHugh Construction and McIntyre and McIntyre had dumped debris on Farley Ave.

Mr. Young said dumping permits allow for the dumping of "solid" waste, but not hazardous waste.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey admitted the city has a problem and although the council has approved a public education program is required.

Mr. Peoples covered the same subject in a letter to Mayor Jeffrey. He said the city should be responsible for the waste and hide it from view.

Mr. Peoples asked the council to make the city a joint public statement on the issue and to make the future concerning waste and litter problems.

Fire Destroys Home

Miss Ryan, an elderly woman who lives on the River Road, said a fire destroyed her home on Tuesday night.

The Corbyville employee said the fire was on his way to work, and managed to escape the flames.

Mr. Ryan escaped his burning home in his pajamas. Bob Flynn, resident first-aid, and the township fire department arrived at the scene.

All of Mr. Ryan's household contents and personal possessions were lost.

Youths Captured

TWEED (Special) — Three young suspects from the Pine Ridge Boys' Training School were taken into custody by provincial police after the car in which they were riding went out of control and rolled on Highway 7.

The 1966 compact auto was reported stolen in Brownsville. The driver was estimated at 18.000. There were no injuries.

The three boys, two of them juveniles, have been returned to Brownsville.

Contamination Linked To Township Sand Pile

A Sidney Township sand pile used on waterways was described this week as the source of contamination by three private consultants.

The consultants said they were satisfied that the sand and gravel contained a high level of contamination, including the construction of a special pond to store the sand and fill on a site, preventing ground seepage into nearby wells.

The ministry said suggested council provide water to the landowners until the water returns to satisfactory standards.

Mr. Peoples said they were satisfied that the sand and gravel contained a high level of contamination, including the construction of a special pond to store the sand and fill on a site, preventing ground seepage into nearby wells.

Lawyer Lays Charge

A Toronto solicitor lawyer has laid a charge of contempt of court against the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Officer.

Peter Tichie, Tuesday gave an information before a justice of the peace that Constable Thomas Ross of the Belleville detachment of the RCMP had, during the period of June 17 to July 6, 1970, obstructed justice by interfering with a defence witness, to wit, John Dodd.

Tichie said a man identified as John Dodd, a resident of July Allen and Brenda Wickens were among several people arrested April 9 by Tichie by the RCMP and Tichie police on charges of trafficking in narcotics.

Tichie represented Miss Allen as defence counsel in the trial for the Hastings County court in Belleville Sept. 26. Bruce Rennie of Trenton represents Miss Wickens.

The maximum penalty for obstructing justice is 10 years in prison.

Mr. Tichie practised law in Belleville for 16 years before moving to Toronto a year ago where he now specializes in criminal cases.

Man Hurt In Crash

SCOTARBIE — A Belleville man was injured in a Kingston General Hospital early today following a car crash on the Scotiabank Road near the Sluicing Drive.

Injured was Donald MacIntyre, 27, driver of the car. He received a fractured ankle, internal injuries and cuts, said police.

He was taken to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital to Kingston.

The accident occurred shortly after 3 a.m.

Lucky 13

Three East Belleville 13-year-old boys — twins Grant and Gregory Walsh of 260 Herrington Ave. and David Allen were lucky Tuesday afternoon when they landed this 34-inch northern pike. Grant hooked the fish in the Bay of Quinte at the mouth of Bell's Creek out of the city, while the other two boys helped in the landing. The boys were fishing from the shore.

Those Hazy, Lazy Summer Days

While administrators work at janitorial tasks inside, strikers take it easy on the picket line outside the Ann St. education centre of Hastings county board of education. The striking members of Local 1022 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees have dug in for a long battle and have picketing down to a science. They have tackled their placards to trees and brought lounge chairs to the picket line. On the line are Owen Duxbury, Bert Stappley, Gerry Dufour and Tony Potts.

Young Campers Enjoy Summer in Sun

By HARRY MURRAY, Staff Reporter

By then, Quite Children will be making the last mile to the Oak Hills for the last time.

For nearly two months four youngsters have had young summer fun and around the campsite.

Despite the fact it's one of the largest multi-purpose trails in Ontario, the 25-mile Leslie-Miller Trail has had public attention and support since it was created three years ago as a Local Initiatives Program project.

the Bayview-Badkawa area who have participated in project since it started this summer are (from left) Daryl Boudreau, 6, Kevin Woudkirk, 7, David Morrison, 8.

Leslie said she first had the inspiration for the outdoors program last September when she talked to trail directors about an outing for high school students. Later, she saw the project offered youngsters at Belleville and Trenton municipal playgrounds a day in the country. Then, she said, she reasoned that the Glen Miller, Bayview and Lakeview, where playground facilities are sparse, might profit from such a project.

She said she found youngsters could be taken from different areas on specific days, trained in campcraft, acquainted with the outdoors on a day-long hike and then allowed to put such knowledge to work on an overnight camping trip.

The concept was approved — a $250 grant — and the first trip was held on September 13.

But to involve as many participants as possible, plans of organization was needed. Leslie, a former summer school counsellor, enlisted the aid of friends Sandra Hackett, 13, of Bayview Drive, and Geoff Leslie, both 18, of Trenton.

They canvassed public schools for participants by children between the ages of five and 12 years, and also went out from organizations including Hastings County board of education, Midhurst Park Community Council and Trenton recreation department.

The Lower Trent Region Conservation Agency gave permission for camping on the Sager conservation area in the Oak Hills while the local fish and game club also granted a site.

The campsite drew an average of 12 youngsters nightly. They were taken to the sites in a rented bus. The campers have been on-thusland. Only one boy from more than 200 children to far has confessed to being homesick the next morning, says Leslie.

Bad weather has forced cancellation of two nights. Despite the occurrence of children there have been no accidents. Leslie says the only problem encountered was hard rain mosquitoes and poison ivy.

However, she has been quick to let the youngsters on the poison weed.

As a result, Leslie says only three campers have been bitten by mosquitoes and one boy took home about three dozen for the tiny ticks and clings under his biology.

New additions to the Reference Collection:
A copy of the Source Book of the Hudson's Bay Co. 25th Anniversary, July 1974, has recently been donated to the Library by the compiler, Mrs. Percy Macdonell, and has been added to the Canada's History collection. The book was one of the pioneer families in Hawke township, having come to the area as United Empire Loyalists in 1784. Historic Sites of Ontario by Nick and Rose Wilks. This is the first volume in the forthcoming Encyclopedia of Ontario. Historic site plaques are familiar to everyone. Hundreds are listed in the book, arranged alphabetically by location, with a brief description of the historical event or person commemorated, providing a good introduction to many of the little-known facts of Ontario history. The Cook and the Mad: or, Redneck Cookery. This reprint of Canada's first cookbook, which was published in Kingston in 1821, provides a delightful glimpse into domestic life of 120 years ago. In pioneer cookbooks such as this, "receipts" for bread, puddings, and meat were interspersed with advice for the housewife on such matters as bedroom remedies, drying fabrics, removing spots, and how to "cure a snake's head". The Frasered U.E.L. — Kate F. Mosier. "An account of the life and times of certain Canadian native people" written by an Indian, tells the story of some of the Six Nations Indians who settled in southern Ontario after the American Revolution. The informal and entertaining narrative describes the daily life of these Loyalists as well as portraying many of the legends and superstitions of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The Hawthorn's Health From A to Z — Peter D. Rasmussen and Susan M. Wierford. An indispensable reference work for anyone involved in caring for horses, this equine veterinary dictionary explains terms in language which the layman can understand. Numerous photographs and line drawings, most references, a table of common names as well as scientific names of the features contributing to an east to west. Official Rules of Sports and Games, 1974-1975. The eleventh edition of this British publication includes the rules for 30 sports, some of which, such as cricket, are more common to Britain. However, most are internationally known sports. Rules are set down clearly, aided by diagrams and small drawings of players.

Hippies Weeded From Katmandu

KATMANDU, Nepal (Gunter) staided streets of Katmandu, Nepal, those hippies who have been spending their winter on the sandy beaches of tropical Goa, on India's west coast, when the weather in Goa gets too hot, they move up to mountaintop Katmandu where the air is still comparatively cheap despite inflation.

In the narrow streets of the city a room can be rented as little as $6 or $8 per week to $12 a month. Accommodation is basic: a bare room with a wooden bed for a bed (cushions can be bought cheaply) and a rudimentary bathroom.

Food in Nepalese restaurants on a small form here, is also cheap. Forty-five cents will buy some lunch, a dish with a little meat and a vegetable, a sweet and coffee or tea. Most of the hippies here, wearing back packs or ragged clothes, with head coverings and ornaments, are people who gave up their jobs or interrupted their studies to travel for a few years.

Typical is Karl 26, who gave up his well-paid job as a salesman in Germany. First he came to Katmandu, where he has been travelling since he was 19 years old.

At the Indra, a popular restaurant where customers' shoes are left at the entrance next to a statue of Buddha, he recalled his first trip to Katmandu.

He said that a few years ago he could move around peacefully without money. In Katmandu and Pakistan people were so hospitable that money was not necessary, but too many would-be hippies had left the grove that laid the golden rule.

What I like is just the change of life. I was fed up with a routine.

A few old-time hippies are still around. A Frenchman from Geneva has been travelling in India for six years.

At the Indra, a popular restaurant where customers' shoes are left at the entrance next to a statue of Buddha, he recalled his first trip to Katmandu.

Newfoundland's Team Could be in Trouble

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The team play and offensive fast games at St. Catharines City and Country Club may cause problems for members of the Newfoundland team in the Canadian Interprovincial Junior and Senior Championships.

Coach Tom Vining said in an interview his players are used to playing in ice as a hard-fought game as St. Catharines, a day, where the championships begin today.

The first man Newfoundland will compete against is the Ontario team. The Ontario players represent the Junior team in the championship.

The three best scorers in the team make up the provincial total in the 3000 team competition, which included 10 players from Newfoundland and ended in early September.

Last year Robbie Jackson, the Quebec team to seven-time win over runner-up British Columbia.

CARLETON, P.E.I. (CP) — The Red and White Redskins, who regularly is the centre of a controversy, was released Thursday by Washington Redskins of the National Football League because of a fight he had with a assistant coach.

B.C. Undeclared; Oshawa Team Comes to Life

Globals' Pete Landers Produces for Tony's

VICTORIA (CP) — British, who suffered severe leg laceration and dislocated shoulder, was taken to hospital after three days of treatment for the season.

While B.C. was establishing itself as a strong contender, Oshawa's Tony's were fulfilling pre-tournament predictions that they should retain the title for Ontario.

Tony's upset 1-0 by York (Sunday), won their second third game with Pete Landers, their leading scorer, making two scores relief apiece.

The Ontario champions barely won 1-0 over Newmarket, 1-0, but followed with an 8-2 rout of 1-0 Northwest Territory, 1-0, and a 3-0 victory over the Thunder Bay, 1-0, on Saturday morning.

Seven games are scheduled today, and the round-robin play ends up with two games Thursday morning. Extra games are needed to decide the championship.

No. 9 for Howe

Hull Takes No. 16

EDMONTON (CP) — No. 9 in the best known number of the National Hockey League, in hockey after being identified by the National Hockey League, made the decision earlier when he said that Howe should keep No. 9.

The question of who would wear the number now that they have been resolved by Team Canada is a mystery for the series with the Soviet Union.

When the team composition was reported Thursday for training camp at Edmonton Gardens it was revealed that Hull will wear number No. 16.

Nova Scotia Tech Is Best in Canada

HALIFAX (CP) — "It'd have to hide my head in shame if I couldn't say it was the best in the country."

Dean A. E. Stevens said this with a bit of modest reduction when the administrator was asked to appraise the school.

But he meant it: that Nova Scotia Technical College is the best in Canada, the professional school that engineering and architectural faculties as a standard of excellence.

Students flock to Tech from every province in Canada, to be one of the few who graduate from the school without a job offer.

Dr. Max Baker, who retired from Tech as an engineering professor after more than 30 years on the faculty, has watched some of the former students become leaders in their fields.

"The boys that graduate from this institution have always been more than able to hold their own with any others," Dr. Baker said.

Since its founding in 1887, the college has been the only technical school in the country with an independent degree-granting status. All achieves are part of universities.

The unique situation, however, will change this year, when the college merges with neighboring Dalhousie University.

The idea of amalgamation has been greeted with enthusiasm by staff and students. Dean Stevens said, "The merger in fact was recommended by a faculty committee."

In effect, the merger will be a continuation of a trial period that began five years ago with Dalhousie.

As the only school with the power to grant technical degrees, the college long has had an affiliation with universities in the Atlantic provinces. Students wishing to study at some general engineering or architectural courses at their own universities and then come to Tech for the final few years to earn their undergraduate degrees. A program of similar studies and research began in 1940.

Engineering courses offered by the college include civil, mining, mechanical, industrial, chemical, metallurgical and electrical.

A separate school of architecture was approved in 1980 and has formed a reputation as one of the most progressive in the country. There also are departments of extension and applied mathematics.

The college's own administrative structure will remain intact, another five or six years, Dean Stevens said.

Changes in its name will reflect this, when it becomes the Nova Scotia Technical College (Dalhousie University).

The college campus hunk is in the south section of the city, a few blocks from the waterfront and two blocks from the downtown core. There are 500 undergraduate and graduate students and about 40 on the faculty.

"But you know, this school took up with the total number studying toward a degree from Tech, you really should include those taking related courses at any of the associated universities. On this basis, I believe this school is the third largest in the country."

The degree-granting change in provincial legislation. This is the first time a degree has been awarded in a sitting school in the Atlantic provinces.

Dean Stevens is obviously proud of the students and he says the quality can be traced to the high school level. "I think the education the Maritimes is effective in preparing the students to undertake their studies."

He said recent drilling beneath the floor of the Atlantic Ocean by the Deep Sea Drilling Project was a first attempt to drill into the deep and volcanic rocks beneath the ocean floor.

A great deal was learned about the kinds of problems technology must face if we are to ever sample the deep levels of the ocean basin.

One problem encountered in the project was changing the drill bit and successfully pushing it back into the hole.

Mile-deep Drilling Possible

HALIFAX (CP) — Tech today expects for drilling deep ocean floors for scientific investigation and the discovery of natural resources but it will likely be a long time before any deep, says Dr. Roy Brydeman of Dalhousie University.

"There is no reason why technology-equipped drilling ships cannot go as deep as a mile beneath the ocean's floor," he said in an interview.

But for the near future exploration will mostly be confined to the surface of ocean floors.

He said recent drilling beneath the floor of the Atlantic Ocean by the Deep Sea Drilling Project was a first attempt to drill into the deep and volcanic rocks beneath the ocean floor.

A great deal was learned about the kinds of problems technology must face if we are to ever sample the deep levels of the ocean basin.

Finger Pressure Said As Good as Acupuncture

VANCOUVER (CP) — First it evolved 40 years ago in Japan as acupuncture, now it's being used by Mr. Namikoshi's father.

Acupuncture, the Chinese art of inserting needles into specific points on the body, has enjoyed wide popularity for some years. Now, a Japanese method which promises relief from a long list of ailments, is making a bid for popular acceptance.

Toru Namikoshi, son of the late Dr. Namikoshi, says it can be used to treat migraine headaches, asthma, hysteria, heart disease, eyestrain, effects of alcohol, muscle cramps, constipation and diarrhea. At well as chronic ailments, it can be used to prevent heart disease and even increase sexual potency.

In contrast to acupuncture, which has been used for centuries in China, akupressure is developed in Japan. It involves the use of the thumb to apply pressure to specific points on the body. The pressure is applied to the points, double the number of points in acupuncture, and pressure involves either massage, pressure, blood vessels or stimulation of the nerves. Treatment may involve several sessions under the patient's thumb.

More clinically, he said, it is used to stimulate fatigue and to stimulate the body's self-curative abilities.

But, it isn't just a massage school in Tokyo, which he said, has 50 students who must take a two-year course, pass government exams and learn the body for several months.

Most common ailments treated include various combinations of fingers and the palm of the hand are also used.

Mr. Namikoshi said treatment involves more than 60 pressure points, double the number of

Montreal Shop Loses Its Piper

MONTREAL (CP) — For 34 years, killed George Morgan, a well-known Montreal downtown department store by abandoning his bagpipes, playing a 15-minute solo at the top of the store.

Now this famous bagpipe long-time customer of O'Leary's store has disappeared. Morgan, 47, was killed last week in Edinburgh, plans to pack his bag and his pipe and move to Vancouver.

Shortly before his employment at the store ended, other residents, plans which Morgan with the firm, his son, the son of the late George Morgan, who was killed during a farewell on the street.

One of the papers, Dwyer's, will replace Morgan in his daily slinging position down five flights of stairs to the store's ground-floor exit door.

I'm leaving for adventure, for a change of life," Morgan said. "I have been a locomotive fireman, a carpenter, a draftsman, an industrial salesman, a teacher of high school and university — and, of course, a piper."

He started playing the bagpipes when he was 17 while working for the London, Midland and Scottish Railway as a fireman.

In 1950, he advertised a newspaper advertisement offering employment as a full-time piper in a Canadian store.

The store's owner, Alvin Nelson, auditioned Morgan in Edinburgh and lived him on the spot. Montreal piper had accepted the Montreal store's closing on a musical note since 1965, but only on Saturdays.

Montreal provided a new lease of life to the bearded Scotsman. When he wasn't piping, he learned carpentry, steel welding and education and earned diplomas in educational technology.

Although he plans to find work in the education field in Vancouver, Morgan, a veteran of many pipe bands, doubts he'll ever give up the bagpipes.

"As you get older a hobby like this becomes more and more important," he said.

Motorcycle Bandits Rob Italy's Tourists

ROME (Herald) — As the summer season reaches its peak, the Italian police are facing a new type of crime: motorcycle bandits who grab bags, coats or glasses and even take tourists off into the traffic.

As well as tourists, old ladies and other vulnerable people are attracted by the "robbery" of the "motorcycle bandits" who have learned defense methods against the thieves, and tourists are usually more unwilling victims.

Robbers of the "motorcycle" are highly developed and experienced. In the case of the "motorcycle bandits," the second step is to grab the bag while the driver speeds away. The second step is to grab the bag while the driver speeds away. The second step is to grab the bag while the driver speeds away.

The other technique involves the use of the thieves' second step is to grab the bag while the driver speeds away. The second step is to grab the bag while the driver speeds away.

THE INTELLIGENCER, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 28, 1974 23 that once the victim has been robbed, there is a high hope that he will get back documents or other objects in the bag.

Police explain that the thief is not interested in the money, but in the fact that he is not prepared to take the risk of being caught with the bag of documents or change books. One way in which the thieves often "recovered" back in the past, Spain and France.

Alphorns May Soon Be Scarce

APPENZEL AUERROD (AP) — If they stop making the alphorns in Switzerland, one of the national symbols of the country will vanish along with this art.

With just about 10 farmers and herders still making the instrument in their spare time, the alphorn may soon become a thing of the past. Perhaps the nation's and still regarded as a symbol with good luck from Mother Nature, make the producing of this craft, even as an occupation, unappealing.

The process begins with a search through the woods for a young fir that has been bent by the pressure of snow. After the fir (with the right shape) is found, it is stripped of its branches and allowed to lie in the sun for a long time.

The trunk is then hollowed out, polished, bound with natural sheep and varnished until it is waterproof. Chiseling out the interior to look like the right instrument takes about 70 hours.

Ornaments are usually brass or silver. The mouthpiece, one of the major parts of the alphorn, is also made of wood.

Alphorns are generally 12 feet long. However, the largest one, made by Albert Christen, was 30 feet long and took approximately 300 hours to complete.

NEEDS STRINGING LINES

The unusual sound of this instrument, which takes a pair of strong lungs to blow, can be heard for over three miles. It is used mainly in the Swiss Alps to call cattle home and to calm the storm or storm or storm.

Devout Can Ride

TEL AVIV (AP) — One of the more unusual products available in Israel is an elevator which is a bicycle. One can ride on the Sabbath.

It runs continuously and stops at every floor, so the passengers need not have to push any buttons. All work is forbidden on the Sabbath, and even pushing a button is considered work.

Romania Offers Health Package

BUCHAREST (Inter)—It's the holiday with a difference. If the local media pouncing for message before breakfast and a car ride at lunchtime.

After the black tie package holiday and the Drexel package—a tour of Romania's smoking casinos—this is the heeppening package, pearls in hand currency.

There is a chance the traveler will go home feeling better and wealthier, but Romania's enterprising medical tourism office provides no guarantee.

The heeppening package is based on Romania's eye-brained medical discovery, the installation drug removal (L), a controversial procedure which is said to delay the effects of age.

For 300, foreign tourists aged 40 or over are offered a 14-day stay in luxury quarters at the institute of geriatrics at Bucharest.

The package includes full meals, a hospital, even breakfast, although, according to the institute, the package is not for the elderly but for the young.

The package, advertised in the holiday bulletin of Western newspapers and sold through travel agents, has become widely popular, although, Romanian authorities caution that geriatrics is no wonder drug.

First introduced in 1932, it is described as an energy giving preparation which combats anxiety and depression, aids concentration and helps regenerate body cells.

The drug's discoverer, Dr. Ana Adina, now 76, supervises a string of geriatric centers and says she has used the drug successfully on several internationally-known personalities as well as thousands of ordinary workers.

Dr. Adina says she has treated thousands of patients for years and that it has given her outstanding results.

The late president, Jani Poni, was among patients at Geriatric before the clinic was opened to tourists.

The invitation to spend two weeks at the main clinic or in several hotels adapted for the purpose, is intended to gain wider recognition for the drug as well as to make money.

The Geriatric clinic, in a parkland setting, is part hospital, part hotel, part spa.

The guests stay in two, three or four bed rooms, with private bathrooms, and are served by a staff of nurses and attendants.

The package starts with an intensive series of card-punch blood tests and allergy tests, followed by massage or other forms of physiotherapy, prescribed by resident doctors. Morning are for treatment, afternoon for rest or recreation.

The average age of guests is about 60. When they leave, their health is improved, and they are able to return to their own countries and can buy a two-year supply of geriatric or medicinal, a derivative, which is sold for the "rejuvenate," said Dr. Adina.

Folksy Conductor Turned into Cop

AMSTERDAM (AP)—Amsterdam's street conductor, once renowned for his folksy humor, into a plainclothes enforcement agent who stalks on-pedestrian riders on the city's transit system.

The conductor went out in the city's transit system on the Dutch capital's 200 trains by automatic ticket vending and bright yellow panting trousers.

The new system depended heavily on the honesty of the city's commuters, many of whom flunked the test.

City transit officials estimate that Amsterdam loses two million dollars (about $750,000) annually in unpaid fares.

First the problem was tackled by uniformed assistants who worked in pairs and raised slightly under three per cent of all passengers.

Plainclothes men were introduced experimentally last year and the detection rate went up to 4.5 per cent. They work in teams of six—flashing a badge when challenged—and go through a crowded train much more quickly.

City transit spokesman Jan

Freese said problems started right after introduction of the automatic system.

"It's funny—passengers on a train don't see the inspector as someone who 'hunts' down people without tickets. It's an accepted method of control. It's not different with the train."

Another problem, said Freese, was that people missed the winch-riding conductors of old, who helped up the old folks and filled with the girls.

Freese said these problems have been overcome and the control system is now virtually trouble-free. Most offenders simply pay the automatic $10 fine, which is levied on the spot.

The control system also traps a large number of foreign visitors, who get confused by automatic ticket vending and occasionally pointed again in England, France and Germany.

About 30 per cent of commuters pay fines on trains, said Freese. The conductors recognize their confusion and often allow them to avoid the fine by buying a regular ticket. But then there are wily Amsterdamers who carry a 10-mark bill and claim to be Germans if they are caught.

Despite the domination of the new ticket scheme, Amsterdam street cars are still paid for by a casual length. Crowded trains are not paid for by commuters from one step to the next.

"That's not the idea," said Freese. "The idea is to have a cash-paying system for a cash-paying system."

People Big Part Of Arctic's Lure

MONTREAL (CP) — The Far North, with its bewitching tales of 19th-century whaling, and hunting legends, has long been a magnet for writers, filmmakers, and adventurers.

The wreckage along Canada's rugged Arctic coast is testament to the fact the region has had no fewer explorers than the land has had no fewer legends.

The lure of the North is not new, however, said a 60-year-old American recently answered the call of the wild in the same line as his many predecessors.

Mr. Deukens, a professional filmmaker from Grand Rapids, Mich., Canada's Arctic is the greatest

"It is a land that has been lost but never forgotten," he said in an interview.

Traveling by canoe and on foot, Mr. Deukens has paddled and walked along rivers and coastlines, belated 19th-century and dodged ice packs for the last eight summers to explore the Arctic.

Apart from wanting to film dramatic life sequences for the Far Northern movie company, which will be shown at high schools, churches and service clubs in Indiana and Michigan, Mr. Deukens simply finds the Arctic irresistible.

"People in the North are the way people should be everywhere, and the way they would be if they didn't live in the North," he said.

"It's the people, and a curiosity. I have always had about remote areas that make me want to see the Arctic."

This summer, with movie cameras and hiking gear strapped to his back, Mr.

Deukens planned to fly to Proville Bay and from there by boat plane to Somerset Island, 1,000 miles northwest of James Bay.

He anticipated it would be like a homecoming—his tent, canoe and other supplies still are on Somerset Island from his trip last year, when an emergency forced him to abandon them.

"Last summer I was stranded on Somerset Island when ice broke in and I was trapped," he recalled. "There was even a three-day blizzard and I was in a polar bear's den."

"I managed to avoid him away by sheltering at night."

Mr. Deukens said a pilot on a nearby island settlement in Peely Bay had given him a crash landing, which he used to signal the RCMP.

"I was rescued, but I didn't want to be taken much over with me," he said.

After recovering part of his gear, Mr. Deukens planned to canoe to Haffin Island, and after photographing its beautiful series of rocky fjords and wooded blue waters, on to Pond Lake, 1,000 miles from Proville Bay.

From there to his pickup point on Hamilton Bay is another 200 miles, where he'll take the same back home.

"It is not the kind of journey that I would recommend for a tourist," he said.

Ocean Drilling Reveals Earth Crust's Secrets

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (CP) — Drilling to record depths beneath the Atlantic by the Deep Sea Drilling Project (DSDP) has yielded new information about formation of the earth's crust and demonstrated that the ocean floor is within reach.

The DSDP expedition completed by the KIPAC drilled five holes on the western flank of the mid-Atlantic Ridge, close to the point where French and Irish Sea submergence are investigating the floor of the Atlantic Valley.

A report from the Scripps Institution of Oceanography here says each of the five holes extended previous record penetration of 300 feet into the oceanic crust beneath the ocean floor. The expedition penetrated to a total depth of 430 feet.

Scientists recovered about 1,200 feet of core samples and sedimentary rock.

Two of the deepest penetrations were achieved by the use of remote-control equipment which allowed the drilling even when the drill is in a hole on the ocean floor, over 4,000 feet beneath the water surface, after replacing a worn-out drill bit.

Examination of the core showed that the upper part of the volcanic oceanic layer is made up of submarine basalt flows interlayered with deep-sea sediments. Sediments grew very volcanic rocks as the depths increased.

Scientists speculate that this volcanic-sedimentary sequence probably formed on the floor of what was the Mid-Atlantic Ridge some 3 million years ago.

"A great deal was learned about the kinds of problems technology must face if we are to sample the deep levels beneath the water surface," said Dr. Patricia Annamari of Dalhousie University in Halifax, one of the project coordinators.

"With the success of this attempt, very deep drilling of the land rocks of the ocean floor for science and for revealing the mineral resources potential of the deep sea is within reach."

An international group of scientists took part in the work which is managed by the Scripps Institution under a contract with the National Science Foundation.

Years of traffic delays — like the one viewed here by the cabinet colleagues — will soon be a thing of the past on the Bay Bridge causeway. Studies will start immediately to replace age bridge with start high-level span, Mr.

Rhodes announced. Details, see front

Ford Ready to Accept Cut in Defence Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has signalled his readiness to accept congressional cuts in the United States defence budget while his administration seeks to pursue spending for other agencies in the effort to curb inflation.

Administration economic advisers have suggested that if the economy worsens the president would be prepared to make public service cuts.

Administration advisers said that as part of his lighteningprocess, the president will be forced to deal with inflation which originally had drawn him from office.

At his first presidential news conference, Ford re-emphasized the drive to economize as his major legislative priority.

Body Identified

BRIGHTON — The body of a woman found two miles east of her home Monday in the burned out wreckage of a car was identified by police today as that of Mrs. Albert B. Bush, 41, of Belleville.

The 41-year-old Trenton woman was found by her husband Monday morning on the private driveway to the family's summer cottage. The Police family lives at 433 Dundas east.

Police said the fire in the house "burned the body beyond recognition" and that an "investigation is continuing."

Indian Concert Planned

A new musical experience is to take the Quinte residents Sept. 17 when a quartette of Indian musicians presents a traditional classical Indian musical.

The group is coming to St. Catharines to perform at the auditorium Sept. 17, at 7 p.m., and is headed by Parvati, a virtuoso veena player. A veena consists of a large shell.

The musical ensemble comes from Mysore and has been in Canada for a number of years. The group will play for an hour, and will be a full performance by Gail Parmar.

She will play and sing, including some of her own compositions. There is no charge for the concert, but a collection will be taken in aid of Bangladesh.

Dief Wants Help For Country's Aged

TORONTO (CP) — A federal department of geriatrics asked established for the growing population of old people, former Minister Jeanne Diefenbaker said today.

Mrs. Diefenbaker, who will be 79 Sept. 18, told an audience at the Canadian War Veterans convention that Ottawa should develop policies to help the elderly live in dignity and self-respect.

She said she was generally against increasing the size of the cabinet but her exception would be made for a new department of geriatrics.

The aged now represent about one per cent of Canadians and she said she was the fastest growing segment of the population over the next decade, Mrs. Diefenbaker said. They deserve their own dedicated service, because "how much ability is being lost," by the automatic pensioners at age 65.

Mrs. Diefenbaker spoke at the CNE delegates' luncheon on the day in Senators Day at the exhibition. Representatives of seniors' groups were present.

Not a Criminal

Alfred Cernia, a 35-year-old draft resister from Port Huron, Calif., and Santa, his wife, are just about settled in Canada after five years. Cernia is a tanner and believes that he would never return to the U.S. if he could be considered a criminal in an amnesty plan. (AP Photo)

Sexist Images

With school around the corner again, educators are turning to the mass media in looking for examples of the "sexist" meaning of course images that tend to stereotype boys and girls in traditional male-female roles.

The Ontario Teachers' Federation has been declared in recent days that teachers should take responsibility for this endeavor. Under fire in particular are public school textbooks that project the image of women, confined to the kitchen and making the machines and performing skilled tasks.

A start has been made toward such a radical turnaround in the thought process. And a number of new textbooks are in the way. One is "Pretend to be You and Me," an ingenious children's book conceived by actress Maria Thomas (televised "Mist Girl") and now reportedly in book form.

And in New York great success has attended the showing of seven short non-fiction films. Collectively entitled "The Girl and the Boy," they are the work of a self and a Movie Makers program, the films show girls displaying talents, boys talking about, depicting themselves as well as heroes and show boys as well as girls being sensitive and tender.

As Mario Thomas book indicates, however, it is all right to show emotion, even cry. An eight-year-old boy, for example, said he liked the films but that "girls always think they're better than boys but that movie showed it's not always so."

It is a big breakthrough where the boy-girl growing-up process is concerned. These are the kind of publications that the film can be made available in Canada too that are needed these days. Timely too, with school about to resume.

We note however that letters from concerned to children about to start kindergarten, while sending personalized name cards, can jump boys and girls together, can't they? In accompanying letters, "Put him in the car," for example, if it is too early to write "Put her in the car," or "Put her on Mary," even "Dick or Jane," would suffice!

Ford's Faux-Pas

Greeting Little League players from the United States, Canada and the Philippines last Friday, President Nixon spoke of the victims from "foreign" countries.

If Mr. Ford is the "internationalist" he claims to be, even while he was making it, there is no reason why Mr. Kissinger's advice, he should refrain at least from such alien terms as "foreign."

In these days of easy communication and the "global village" syndrome, the word "foreign," coming from the head of the world's most powerful state, is something of an anachronism.

Richard Nixon may have put his foot in it in other ways, but when he was making it, there is no reason why Mr. Kissinger's advice, he should refrain at least from such alien terms as "foreign."

Strong and Free?

It is too bad when Ottawa is so strong on Arctic sovereignty and the rest of us are strong on it, when it is not passionately, about the "true north strong and free" that the word runs off to the Americans to borrow an "internationalist."

That is the word from Edmonton. Officials of Northern Development Co. Ltd. officials of the Central Arctic coastline is hampering efforts to deliver supplies to eight isolated communities before freeze-up that they often say, is not.

Latin-Americans in Canada Fled Economic Ruin at Home

By JOHN D. HARRISON

For the lower middle class in a country's best people when the economic situation is so dire that the social structure falls apart. They have fled to Canada and other countries elsewhere.

This was the decision of about 10,000 South American immigrants now living in Toronto and other parts of Canada. It is that they fared better in Canada than at home, growing up of professional and working class people who have fled to their Latin homelands.

Boat-building Business Rescues Prairie Town from Oblivion

AROLA, Sask. (CP) — By all rights, everything should have been dead and buried for Arola since the deadly flood that when it was ended-stated in the railway and housed a population of about 1,100.

Could between larger towns that tended to attract the business and the flow of people off the farms and away to the city, the town could well have gone the way of countless Saskatchewan communities that were once little more than a handful of houses.

Instead, says Mayor Chris Leibel, "we're coming back." The population is more than 600 after falling to 540 in 1971, a new business is coming to make plastic boats, seven new houses have been started this year, two trailer homes are being set up and a 10-unit residence for senior citizens will be built.

Like a comparatively few other fortunate towns, Arola survived because of government money that might appear virtually unnoticed in the cities.

As elsewhere, one town's success had to be another's loss and in Arola's case the irritated river was Carleton, 18 miles to the east, he two southeastern Saskatchewan towns claimed first over a courthouse almost 70 years ago, then over a hospital built about 30 years ago.

There's friction between Arola and Carleton," Mr. Leibel said with perhaps a flicker of satisfaction as he added, "there always has been back from the day when they fought the courthouse to here."

That prompted the outraged Carleton residents to send a delegation to Ottawa to protest, but it did little good since in 1912 Arola also got a land title from Ottawa.

"That settled more in fact to the first," Leibel said in detail, the hospital came. Voters in Carleton lost and in Arola's case the adjacent rural municipality of Moose Mountain had a local doctor's plan to set up a hospital, a he rejected down the road to Arola and prompted another round of bitter political fighting. The town of Kistiv and the rural municipality of Birch in the favorable Arola votes in the election.

Since the hospital was in place, Carleton residents found themselves drawn into it and contributing to its cost. Their tarry decision to accept the hospital themselves received little sympathy from the provincial government, which naturally opposed disposition of services in a small area.

The old rivalry over the hospital, however, was settled this year, said Carleton Mayor Harold Silcox, referring to an agreement whereby the 18-bed hospital will be expanded into Carleton's old residence home for its 1,100 citizens.

While the hospital was not essential to Carleton's economic health, Mr. Leibel credits it and the local high school and school work effort with allowing Arola to survive the long years of social operations as a steel mill, brick factory and a flour mill.

Even the two elevators rising from the wood that veils the town from the nearby highway are only the survivors from a group of six.

"With economic survival," said Mr. Leibel, have come all the classic benefits of small-town life.

"The thing I like about a small town is when I walk down the street I can say 'Hello, Joe,' or 'Hello, Pete.'"

He does just that in a stroll over to the recently renovated hotel, casually hearing the door close as he descends of four floors the weekly Standard is in its 73rd year of publication in Arola, the only stranger in town, there is no stranger in town.

Expanding on the common theme, he described how people hand together to put in the town's new hospital beds; shows attract 150 persons, and a host of community activities from hockey to the Legion draw large crowds.

Arola, however, is not free from the problems that beset other small Saskatchewan towns. Young people leave — "we haven't got enough industry to keep the young people here" — and a third of the town's population is over 65.

Many are retired farmers, attracted by the offer of a $5 per $10 if a house is built on lot within two years of purchase. Normally, the $5 would go for about $100, said the mayor.

Governments, he said, could do more to help towns like Arola by such means as putting agricultural department representatives in the small communities.

Instead he complained, the provincial industrial minister and M.L.A. for Estevan, Mike Thompson, "does his best to divert some small industry going to be in a shop over in Estevan."

Mr. Leibel said nearby towns have helped the town somewhat, but that is often by restricting the elsewhere to stop and by the shortage of agricultural equipment for local agents to Lake Mavor Lakes in Carleton, Mr. Leibel said the higher farm prices have brought a few more young men into farming, but neither faces a great slowdown in the trend to fewer farms.

Mr. Silcox said he doubts that more people can be put on the farms, even if they could, because of the decline in farm population. "I can see any business counting here right now, not with the trading area we've got."

An exception is a $200,000 hotel proposed for the outskirts of Carleton, to help serve tourists attracted to nearby Moose Mountain Provincial Park.

On the other hand, Indians while their Bear Reserve and planning their own shopping centre. Silcox thinks that could be a big blow to Carleton's future, but he doesn't begrudge the Indians the right to self-development.

Another possible blow would be curtailment of activity by Marathon Oil Co., which employs 30 persons in the area, on the fringe of the oilfield. Saskatchewan oil fields.

Mr. Silcox said the oil industry protected the town from the effects of past agricultural depression, but reductions are possible. The industry has protected that through some provincial taxes leave it no incentive for further expansion and development.

Overall, the mayor predicted "won't be swelling off pretty well the way we are. He takes a detached view of agricultural prosperity."

"The success of farm income is limited in where it goes, you know. Granted, there may be a few more grocers and things, but they sell anyway."

Canada Is Satisfied With Parley Progress

CARACAS (CP) — Canada is satisfied with the progress of the United Nations third Law of the Sea conference as there are reasons under present circumstances to declare unilaterally a 200-mile economic zone. Also the United Nations minister of external affairs, said Wednesday, MacEachron, who also is official head of the Canadian delegation at the conference, said Canada "fully expects" actual drafting of a global treaty covering use and protection of the ocean will begin at the next session of the Law of the Sea Conference, scheduled to be held in two sessions in 1975 at Geneva and Caracas. The current conference ends today. "I don't believe Canadian policy is fixed on circumstances in which we would declare unilateral action," MacEachron said when asked if Canada would take over ownership of the continental shelves if the next session fails to formulate a treaty acceptable to Ottawa. It's also clear in my mind that the present circumstances which prevail are not those which justify unilateral action," he told a news conference.

Canada's aim is to achieve management control of the continental shelves with the right to set catch quotas for foreign fishing ships. It also wants the power to set anti-pollution measures, and to supervise exploitation of the seabed within its proposed 200-mile economic zone or to the edge of the continental shelf, whichever is furthest from the coast.

Quebec Unions Defy Agreements and Law

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec unions are turning increasingly toward defiance of their collective agreements and the law in a race to ease the pain of rapidly rising consumer prices. About 1,000 workers are engaged in 12 illegal walkouts, while another 4,500 are off the job in 21 legal strikes, Quebec Labor Minister Jean Coutu said in an interview Wednesday.

Mr. Coutu said cost of living is the major issue in the walkouts.

In addition to strikes, thousands of construction workers are conducting work slowdowns which have brought down and soon predictions from businessmen and analysts for government intervention.

Organized labor's need here is illustrated by Fernand Dumont, secretary-general of the Quebec Federation of Labor. "If you wait until it's legal, you are going to be struck pretty thin," he said, adding that it is "time to give these multi-national, multi-billionate companies a lesson."

UN Veteran Wins

Solomon, 65-year-old Union member, an independent voter. Nationalist workers, snatched the Eastern Township riding of St-Jean from the Liberals Wednesday in a landslide victory he hopes will be the first step of a political comeback for the party everybody thought was dead.

Mr. Bellemare, brought out of political retirement earlier this year to take the badly-battered but still-rich party in hand, kept a strong lead throughout returns from 141 polls, ending with a comfortable 1,820-vote edge over Liberal incumbent Jean-Gabriel Beaudin.

He polled 7,811 votes compared with Mr. Beaudin's 6,133 while third-place Jean-Denis Barabant of the Parti Quebecois

Ottawa's Failure to Show Has Fans Urging Action

Base Soccer is a coach with the Ottawa Senators. He is convinced that the team is not showing the spirit and energy that it has been capable of in the past. He is urging the fans to get behind the team and help it to get back on its feet.

There were plenty of fans in the stands at game time and many more were waiting outside to see if there was a match before they moved in to the benches.

"That kind of thing," says Walsh, "is a real disappointment. It's a real disappointment that the fans are not showing the spirit and energy that they are capable of."

"It's the second time in as many years that an Ottawa team has failed to put in an appearance for a scheduled game," he says.

"I've had it happen before when the team has been out of the game for a while. It's a real disappointment that the fans are not showing the spirit and energy that they are capable of."

Walsh may have the feeling that through no fault of its own, the team is not showing the spirit and energy that it has been capable of.

Local fans know that no one in Belleville was responsible for the Senators' failure.

But many of them feel that the Ottawa Senators team should be required to play a performance level and a large one, before being accepted by the fans.

Cliff Black of Belleville, second vice president of the OASA, and co-owner for the Ottawa Senators, says officials in Ottawa have been contacted and a request has been made for compensation.

That is, an attempt to bring money to have the game played over the costs incurred by the Ottawa Senators.

"We've asked that the people in Ottawa give favorable consideration to covering the Belleville club's expenses," he said.

Belch went on to explain that when this year's Belleville-Ottawa game was being scheduled, some thought was given to what had happened in 1973 and efforts were made to have the first game in Belleville.

"Alma's Park wasn't available on the night the game was to be played," he said. "We had to go to Ottawa and come home with a loss."

The way things have turned out, the team is not showing the spirit and energy that it has been capable of.

Belch admits that the Belleville team will have more play in the game until after the long weekend.

In the meantime, local and out-of-town fans are urged to show their support for the team.

But, naturally, what the team needs is more play. And continued support at the game could prove the capital aggregation along the trail to a potential victory.

Walsh says, "We're not just a team, we're a community. We're a team that is part of the community and we're a team that is part of the community."

Newcombe in Form

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — John Newcombe partyed as merrily as the pain of an achy hip and wounded pride by crushing a highly-nervous first-round opponent in 20 minutes Wednesday in the U.S. open tennis championship.

The defending champion from Australia, seeded second behind Wimbledon winner Jimmy Connors, of the United States, smothered Newcombe, 6-4, 7-5, 6-1.

Newcombe, a second alternate, was not told until an hour before the match that he was to play Newcombe in the first round for Sweden's Leif Johansson.

The 21-year-old Aussie, as in the case of his brother-twin, Chris Evert, was given a day's grace by the tournament players' union because he had been on a bad, busy day.

Fifth-seeded Tom Nijssen of Australia and a surprise job on courtmaster Colin Dibley, 6-4, 7-5, 6-1.

Marga, said the Cuban-born champion would take only three more matches, adding that the boxer was considering the establishment of his own film studio.

BILLS GET CRAIG

Films Boost Province's Economy

EDMONTON (CP) — Four groups were established in April, 1973, to "encourage and enhance" film production in the province in the last year will inject nearly $10 million into the province's economy, says C. E. Ross, director of film development with the provincial government.

Ross says the province's success in attracting movie production "has been beyond our expectations," and predicts a future for the industry.

Alberta first won consideration as a location for television movies with a Canon-Paramount production shot at Fort Teck. Broadcasting Corp.'s movie of the week, The Production, Black Harvest, was filmed in the Lac du Bonnet area.

"This film was followed by Pioneer Woman, a Paramount production shot in the Western Lakes area. It was an ABC movie of the week. A third film, Snow Town, was filmed in the Seebe-Edmonton area. It was a CBS movie of the week. The film is being distributed by Sun International."

Walt Disney Productions is currently filming The Boy Who Could Fly in Edmonton. The production is based on a Canadian novel set in southeastern Manitoba, and results in a film of 60 minutes.

Ross is enthusiastic about the results of almost three years of steady sell to the major United States film studios to consider Alberta as a location for filming Western and other outdoor movies.

"There may still be years in which we will be fortunate to get our movie produced here, but I think we are going to see movie production in Alberta increase," he says.

Ross says Alberta's success in attracting large studios rests largely on good cooperation by federal and provincial departments, as well as direct interest of Alberta industry Minister Fred Pearce.

The provincial government's film development industry of providing co-operation, says Alberta is developing more services all the time to serve the film industry, and is creating jobs on locations which have already attracted primary studio interest.

Transportation for Donor's location manager to find the Drumheller location was provided by the government department.

Medical Missionary Returning to Nepal

CALGARY (CP) — It's a long jump from the modern Potlatch hospital in Calgary to a primitive medical mission halfway around the world.

But Dr. Gerald Hamilton, who has signed up for a five-year term as a medical missionary in Kalamand, Nepal, described practicing medicine in the small country between China and India as a "total reversal of the perfect." In 1971, Dr. Hamilton worked in the U.S. military, filling in for another doctor. He was then assigned to a surgical unit in the U.S. military, where he was involved in the Vietnam War.

He returned to Canada in 1973 and joined the faculty of medicine at Potlatch. The small hospital outside of Kalamand, where Dr. Hamilton practiced in 1973 was made of local stone, corrugated iron and bamboo.

All supplies had to be back-packed several miles to the hospital. He administered his own anaesthetic and sometimes hooked up blood transfusions. At one point he had to perform a Caesarean section on a woman who had never done before, on a woman who had never done before, on a woman who had never done before.

This time, Dr. Hamilton will be working in a capital city in the larger hospital of 150 beds. He has a staff of physicians with the all over the world, but the local staff is "pretty primitive," he said in an interview before leaving Calgary.

The hospital is operated by the United Mission to Nepal (UMN). Dr. Hamilton described as a unique body made up of churches and missions all over the world.

The mission with a kind nursing education in 1957 by an American couple, Dr. Bob and Betty Fleming, she was a medical doctor and a nurse. They were not as distressed by the lack of medical facilities that they lacked the aid and received plenty of help from the U.S. military.

Since then the mission has grown to 175 workers—doctors, teachers, agricultural extension workers, nurses, hospital and other projects by the UMN.

Dr. Hamilton said Nepal is a country of strange contrasts. Just 1951 its borders were closed to foreigners. After a small revolution, the country opened up to outside influence and money. The country is rapidly becoming a modern city, with taxis, hotels and night clubs, but the people are still poor.

Most of the population of 11 million is under-nourished and disease-ridden, often through improper diet and ignorance. Dr. Hamilton said.

Dr. Hamilton and his family plan to spend the first four months learning Nepali, which has some resemblance to Hindustani. They planned to take the youngest of their five children, five-year-old Jennifer.

The rent are grown up and attending university in Calgary and Winnipeg.

Mr. Hamilton said he has no definite task given her by the all over the world, but the local staff is "pretty primitive," he said in an interview before leaving Calgary.

Calcutta Extortionists Prey on Philanthropists

ROMNEY (CP) — There are ways and means of making easy money. Perhaps the best way is to exploit the gullibility of people who are not as sophisticated as you are.

Seems Like Old Times for Jonas

WINNIPEG (CP) — To the happy Don Jonas, it was the glory years of 1971 and 1972 when Winnipeg's aerial snow machine was turned across the land.

"In the second half," said the valuable quarterback, "we'd go into the middle passing game, what we wanted to do and re-ally have to work on it."

The Blue Bombers did it Wednesday night, dominating the 21-30 Western Football Conference game.

After three seasons of being second, consecutive years after three seasons of being first, the Bombers are back to the top of the CFL.

It appeared the Stampeders might get a final chance when the Blue Bombers forced three turnovers on their 100-yard drive, 32 seconds left in the game.

But Jonas, never taking his eyes off the field, saw the Stampeders' defense was tired. He called a play, and the Bombers' offense was able to score on a 10-yard pass to Don Jonas.

Bob Laroc, John Hadden and Dave Talley scored on touchdowns from 10, 10 and 10 yards, respectively.

Saltsch handed away the ball seven times, leading to the Blue Bombers' winning touchdown by Hadden.

Each team failed up 17 first downs but Calgary had the territorial edge with 180 yards passing and 40 first downs.

Overlooked Players To Get Their Rewards

MONTREAL (CP) — Offensive linemen and defensive backs are the overlooked players in the post-season selection of Canadian Football League players.

A new award has been established to honor the outstanding offensive linemen in the league, as well as a change in format whereby the best defensive linemen in the league will be honored.

The award for the outstanding offensive linemen will be worth $2,000. It brings to five the number of outstanding players in the league.

The monetary award for the outstanding defensive player, set last year by George McGowan of the Montreal Football Club, named Edmonton Eskimos, has been increased to $3,000 from $2,000.

Calgary coach Jim Wood said he couldn't fault an offense which had put 20 points on the board and didn't feel his defense was caught seriously out of position on Winnipeg's scoring drive.

"It's just that Winnipeg could do no wrong in the second half."

The turning point, he reflected, came when Lids and Hospital Workers To Strike

SENIORITY (CP) — More than 50 non-medical hospital workers, members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE), have agreed to go on strike Sept. 3 at 10 Northern Ontario hospitals unless management at the hospitals is able to agree to a new contract. A union spokesman said the workers are seeking a 10 per cent raise in wages and a new pension plan.

The union has reached tentative agreement with management at the hospitals on a 10 per cent raise in wages and the remaining 10 months of the new contract. But they are seeking assurances that their jobs will not be contracted out to private firms, the spokesman said.

The workers, making an initial demand for a 10 per cent raise, are concerned mainly with the future of their jobs. P. O'Day, president of a CUPE local at St. Joseph's Hospital, said the union is not ready to go on strike as the new contract is not ready for approval for job security.

More Time
CHATHAM (CP) — Candidates in municipal elections in Chatham this year will have an extra day to file their nomination papers.

Under the new Election Act, official nomination day falls this year on Nov. 11, because of a government holiday.

So candidates will have until Nov. 11 to file or withdraw nominations. Leo Martin of London, municipal administrator, said, municipal administration officers for southwestern Ontario said Wednesday.

Fees Raised
WASHINGTON (AP) — New rules increasing the fees of United States pilots on ocean-going vessels in the Great Lakes by about 25 per cent will take effect Sunday, the transportation department said Wednesday.

Under Secretary of Transportation John Harman said to said candidates that while the fee changes, the latest one has not been made jointly with the Canadian.

Ban Smoking
KINGSTON (CP) — Visitors and staff at Kingston General Hospital will be prohibited from smoking in public areas after Saturday, as part of a campaign to reduce the incidence of lung cancer and heart disease. The hospital's tobacco and alcohol control committee said Wednesday.

Plan New Plant
ONTARIO (CP) — Valley Chemicals Ltd., a new chemical plant, will build a $25-million plant to produce chemicals for use in polyethylene products, said the company's president, Claude Bouchard, Ontario minister of industry Wednesday. He said the site for the new plant is in the town of St. Catharines.

Going West
OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau is going to Western Canada next week to promote the federal government's policy to attract investment in the west and to attend a summit in the U.S. for British Columbia Premier Arthur Lang.

CP Rebuked
OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian transport minister rebuked the railway to carry rail baggage cars for passengers on the Toronto-Buffalo train when regular car equipment is being repaired.

16 Arrested
CHATHAM (CP) — Sixteen persons were arrested Wednesday after 200 pictures prevented supervisory personnel and two transport trucks from entering the International Harvester Co. plant, where a strike has been on for eight weeks.

Thirteen Cars Derailed

MOULTON STATION, ONT. — Thirteen cars of a 25-car freight train were derailed over here Wednesday and fell over an eight-foot embankment into farm fields.

Canadian National Railway officials and provincial police officers are investigating the cause of the derailment, which involved cars in the middle of the train. There was no immediate claim of damage to the train and its cargo, which was going from Welland, Ont., to Hamilton.

Computer Delaying Help for Students

TORONTO (CP) — A provincial spokesman says about 20,000 applications by university and community college students for financial aid under the Ontario student award program are tied up in a computer- and school equipment week.

The awards, part loan and part grant, are given to post-secondary students who prove they need money to continue their education.

Stabbing Not Reported As Wounds Seemed Slight

KINGSTON (CP) — Provincial police were not notified immediately after a stabbing at the Joville Institute Saturday because it was first thought that prisoner John Robert Martin was not badly wounded, police director William Chittly said Wednesday.

Martin, 32, of Owen Sound, is in the intensive-care unit of Kingston General Hospital after being stabbed in the chest and arm by another prisoner.

The spokesman said kidnapping and computer problems in the ministry of colleges and universities, plus a larger number of applications this year than last, were behind the delay.

Several universities and colleges are making contingency plans to handle students who have not yet received replies to their applications for the financial awards.

Police said it appeared one person stabbed Martin and they interviewed prison staff and prisoners.

Local Residents in Arms Over Papineau Park Decision

Natural Resources Minister Leo Benoit's decision to proceed with development of a provincial park on Papineau Lake has not ended controversy surrounding the project.

The minister's announcement outlining reasons for his decision was challenged Thursday night as "unreasonable and disingenuous" and "revelation of the real issue" by a Papineau Lake Cottage Association representative.

Harold Caribrier, president of the association, said he believes there has been a key spokesman for the cottage owners who said property owners intend to continue their protest.

Mr. Benoit's action of the situation, he said, made it appear the cottagers are simply opposed to a park on the lake. The reasons behind their protest, he said, are more complex.

"We are objecting to this park not only as cottagers but as taxpayers," said Mr. Caribrier. "The economic viability of this project is terrible."

"This is going to have to be settled in the courts," he predicted.

Cottagers already have begun a legal fund. The association's executive committee is working with lawyers to discuss development's decision.

"We have specifically said we're not opposed to parks. We say there are a lot of other sites equally good and that there would cost less to develop," said Mr. Caribrier.

The development will mean costly expenditures in an area where landfront property has been selling at $100 per foot of frontage, said Mr. Caribrier, who estimated if a mile of frontage had to be taken over it might cost up to $200,000.

Meanwhile, the government holds thousands of acres of Crown land in the area, he said.

Two possible sites mentioned by Mr. Benoit in his report are on the north shore of Papineau Lake, Caribrier said, these are "excellent" locations and cottagers intend to continue to invite the minister to view them.

Mr. Benoit had ruled the total public interest had to be served in the dispute.

"The total public interest is not served when they spend the kind of money they have to spend to establish this park," he said.

The park also will operate at about a $40,000 annual deficit, Mr. Caribrier claimed. Budget-Wicklow-McClure township would lose about $1,000 a year on a grant-in-aid of taxes shortfall. The municipality, he said, will have more roads to maintain because of the park.

Township council voted 3-2 for an alternative site, but Mr. Benoit, now "in mind over counsel's wishes," said Mr. Caribrier.

Cottagers have also questioned the government's capability to exercise control over certain elements that use public land.

Mr. Benoit also overrode the minister's contention that more cottages would be developed on the lake.

The minister began the pool for more campsites in the area, said Mr. Caribrier. Yet, statistics in the province show that the government is unable to build more facilities fit to capacity, over 100 per cent occupancy, he said.

LONDON (CP) — One of Britain's most reliable forecasting organizations predicts Canada's impressive economy will continue to grow but the rate of growth will decline next year.

The National Institute of Economic and Social Research says in its annual report that the 1974 growth rate of the Canadian economy will be about 3.5 per cent, compared with 4.5 per cent in 1973 and 5.5 per cent in the third quarter of 1973. And next year's growth should not exceed four per cent.

But the review stresses that the slackening in growth is part of a worldwide recession, and the Canadian record looks good in comparison with most other Western countries.

In fact, its comments on Canada provide the only optimistic note in a gloomy report. For estimates of the growth rate this year has been declining by 0.5 per cent each year since 1971 and little hope of improvement.

Other major economies surveyed, the institute predicts an average growth rate this year of only 3.1 per cent, falling to 2.5 per cent next year. The institute says that in 1975, the report says, it is probable that the world economy will continue to show signs of recovery.

How Equipment Is Removed

Ever wonder how they remove excavation equipment from the construction site after they've dug the hole?

At the Royal Bank Plaza construction site in downtown Toronto, two cranes were used to hoist a large backhoe and two bulldozers.

Feux Follets Has Come Long Way

"Feux Follets has come a long way since its humble start during the 1950s in a Montreal saloon. The 1972 move to the Charlottetown Confederation Centre and the glimmer given the company by Artistic Director Alan Lund have provided a very polished, professional package indeed." So wrote the Ottawa Journal reviewer when "Feux Follets" opened for a week's engagement in the 2300-seat Opera House at the National Arts Centre.

The Ottawa Chorus paid this tribute to artistic director Lund: "...we owe a debt of gratitude to Alan Lund and his 'Feux Follets' for providing us with the mirror in which Canadians may see their own reflection, and find, perhaps to their surprise, that it's a much more interesting image than the rest of the world would have us believe."

At the beginning of a nine-week tour, "Feux Follets" anticipates that the week's engagement at the National Arts Centre will be close to capacity houses. Following the engagement in Ottawa, "Feux Follets" will travel to Spokane, Wash., for the World's Fair where it will be featured in the Canada Week program beginning Aug. 23. Upon returning to Canada further engagements are scheduled in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces.

CAMPERS TAKE NOTE: The state of Virginia has 420 public fishing streams, 100 miles of trout stream, 200 campgrounds and 19,000 individual camps.

School Talks Continue

A glimmer of hope was shown by Hastings County Board of Education yesterday that the 30-day CUPE (Canadian Union of Public Employees) strike may be over this weekend, as both sides set down two days of intensive bargaining.

The Progress school board team of trustees began talks with CUPE negotiators (representing striking maintenance staff) at 10 a.m. today in the Sun Valley Motor Inn.

School custodians went on strike when negotiations for a new contract broke down after 17 hours, following a vote to reject school board offer recommended by a CUPE negotiator.

The two-year offer was turned down because it was only an hour increase the first year, followed by a 6.6-cent an hour raise in the second. Workers are asking for a cost-of-living clause in any new contract.

Under the old contract, custodians received from $2.65 to $3.10 an hour.

Stephen Chou, a board member, said the strike is moving through today's talks. "We're confident," he said.

Mr. Chou, in a brief description from the negotiating table, said there is no word whether negotiations would be brought to a close now and whether negotiations would be held in a week, he didn't say.

The union holds a motel room for two days, said a CUPE spokesman. The only room from the sealed conference area went to move district members from one room to a smaller room where a late-phase was available.

A motel employee said about 15 men are in the conference room.

United Community Services Announces 1974 Target

Belleville's United Community Services (U.C.S.) board Thursday set this year's "United Action" campaign goal at $140,000.

Last year's annual fund-raising campaign netted $120,000.

Despite a threat of an annual contribution boycott by the board, the board is optimistic that the target will be met.

It passed a motion last Tuesday, Sept. 2 to complete the target.

The August session of city council will require an amendment to the "United Action" campaign goal.

At its meeting this week only part of the target agenda was completed by the pre-arranged 7 p.m. closing time and council will reconvene next Tuesday, Sept. 3 to complete their business.

One reason for this week's 7 o'clock adjournment was the late start of the 7 o'clock adjournment at 4 o'clock in caucus and then at 4 o'clock in council.

Herbert Coleman, driver of this Dempster's truck, got on line on Thursday when he attempted to pull into a parking lot at Stewart-Warner on Pine St.

The box on Coleman's truck caught a Bell Telephone cable and snapped the pole in two places. About $400 damage was done to the pole and cable.

Finishing Touches

Picton public utilities commission workers were busy Thursday tidying up place, a huge Ann Walmsley mural. The art piece will remain as a permanent feature of the buildings being a vacant parking lot.

Picton Gets Murals

PICTON — A Picton parking lot Thursday received a face lift through a huge mural by artist Ann Walmsley.

Walmsley, a graduate of Prince Edward College Institute, was commissioned by the Picton Board of Public Utilities to create a mural of the town's history.

The mural, which is 100 feet long and 10 feet high, is a masterpiece of art.

It depicts the town's history from its early days as a fishing village to its present day as a thriving community.

The mural is a permanent feature of the buildings being a vacant parking lot.

Train Upsets

At Zagreb

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — The express train filled with workers returning from vacation bumped the tracks and overturned as it approached Zagreb station Friday night, spokesman said today that 120 bodies have been recovered from the wreckage.

Dr. Zora Stajkovic, a member of the medical team working on the disaster-reported to the world in Yugoslavia's history-said as many as 20 to 30 victims may be buried under the wreckage.

Of the 200 persons on board, it was not known how many cars were derailed, but railway officials could not estimate the number of passengers aboard.

The world's worst rail disaster occurred in Yugoslavia, Dec. 1, 1957 when 543 persons were killed, says the Guinness Book of Records.

Investigators arrested the engineer, his assistant and the station superintendent, but no charges were filed. Yugoslav law permits detention without charge during an investigation.

T-4-1-7, the Yugoslav press agency, said the cause of the disaster has not been determined.

Survivors said the train was traveling at about 60 miles an hour when the coaches flipped 30 yards from the station. One witness said the train ran into the station like a torpedo.

Officials said identification would be difficult on many victims because they were badly disfigured.

Others were put to work this morning in sort yards of debris. Rescue workers were sent to the spot and would go to nearby villages.

The scene of the disaster was littered this morning with victims of human bodies and luggage.

Police cordoned off the area, and special teams were put to work to identify the bodies.

It was the worst rail disaster in Yugoslavia's history, said the press agency.

A passenger on the Athens-to-Belgrade German train-the Helios Express-said the train was travelling unusually fast as it approached the station in Zagreb.

Yugoslavia's second largest city, its last stop had been in Belgrade, 30 miles to the southeast.

The coaches were derailed.

The locomotive derailed from the lead car and continued to travel up the tracks.

The train originally was supposed to be the train from Dortmund, West Germany, to Belgrade.

The U.S. reaction was actually extremely rapid, he said.

U.S. Army Deserter Returned to Canada

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ronald J. Anderson is back on his adopted Canadian soil as the U.S. Army deserter went over to the United States.

"I'm sure there's no amnesty," it's a great thing to know that a million of 30 million people is better off.

Anderson said after coming to the border into the land he now calls home and the army of his wife, Marie.

He was released late Friday after spending a week in the stockade at Fort Lacombe, where he was held without any charges, said a Canadian official.

Anderson, 35, was a deserter from the U.S. Army in 1967. He was arrested in Seattle, Wash., who said he was taken to the U.S. Army stockade at Fort Lacombe, where he was held for 10 months before being released.

The U.S. reaction was actually extremely rapid, he said.

C. G. S. General Anderson called the army "the appropriate apprehension" and a violation of Canadian sovereignty.

Anderson's return to Canada was a great relief to him, he said. He was a deserter from the U.S. Army in 1967. He was arrested in Seattle, Wash., who said he was taken to the U.S. Army stockade at Fort Lacombe, where he was held for 10 months before being released.

TORONTO (CP) — A few buses were operative within an hour at Metropolitan Toronto's transit system today after a walkout at least partly ended by a court order of the government's emergency legislation to halt the action of 4,500 transit workers.

By 8:30 a.m., EST, only three or four of the system's buses were operating, but Toronto Transit Commission (TTC) officials anticipated that the walkout would be ending as the day goes on.

Under the legislation, the provincial attorney, Lt. Gov. John Evans, said that the walkout would be ending as the day goes on.

Workers Voting

CUPE School Strike Brings New Proposals

Striking school and central maintenance workers this morning in Belleville were examining terms of a new agreement reached Friday between the union and Hastings County board of education negotiators.

The new package was hammered out during a bargaining session suddenly called Friday at the strike of Local 100, Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) started the end of its second week.

The CUPE members met in a session at the Hastings County board of education to discuss the offer.

The proposal contained new wage schedules, although offers on the contract were not made known.

Main issue in the strike is a demand by union members for a cost-of-living adjustment clause.

Douglas Lindsay, CUPE negotiator, said today the new proposals were defined during bargaining Friday that lasted nearly five hours at the Sun Valley Motor Hotel.

Mr. Lindsay said the new proposals did not constitute "an entirely new package" but an "improvement on the wage and economic terms" earlier talked about by both sides.

The two-year offer turned down by the local 100 members which launched the strike Aug. 20, included 50 cents an hour increase the first year and 40 cents the second year.

Under their old contract, which expired April 30, year salary, for custodians and maintenance workers ranged from $2.10 to $1.80 an hour.

Quinte Apple Gains Popularity In Canada, U. S. and Abroad

TRENTON — An early apple developed at the Dominion Experimental farm at Smithfield west of here has brought international recognition to this region.

The variety, appropriately named Quinte, now is in production in the fruit growing provinces of Nova Scotia, Quebec, British Columbia and Ontario as well as in New York state and the British Isles.

Since the Quinte was officially released to orchardmen in 1954, the popularity in export Canada has continued to increase. It ripens three or four days after Crispin Beauty and seven to 10 days before Melba. It is a pinkish red, obviously contributed to its success in the marketplace in competition with other variety brands.

In addition, the tree appears to be as hardy as the McIntosh, resembles Melba in growth habit but bears earlier.

The latter factor appeals to orchardmen concerned with the economics of producing fruit for the roadside trade in commercial apple growing areas of Canada.

The Quinte is also the early variety fruit farmers in England have been looking for. They started to plant the cultivar growing stocks soon after the first supplies were made available to the nursery.

At present, H. B. Hoomey, the superintendent of the Smithfield Experimental farm is visiting the British Isles and the national fruit trials and preparing the performance of the Quinte under overseas conditions. While he is there he is especially interested in learning the results being obtained in England due to an efficient growing area and a climate less severe than Canada's.

He is planned to observe and study growth regulators as they are applied by orchardmen in England. He said he is especially interested in learning the results being obtained in England due to an efficient growing area and a climate less severe than Canada's.

New Package Goes to Vote

Striking school custodians and maintenance workers were called in session this morning to vote on new proposals reached with Hastings County board of education. Bidding in at Bel-ville Collegiate meeting in Gerry Rogers, one of seven-man negotiating committee for Canadian Union of Public Employees Local 1022.

Gilmour Rehabilitation Camp Causes Concern Among Residents

By HARRY McNEILL, Staff Reporter

GRAHAM — A proposed rehabilitation project for juvenile delinquents on Cabot Lake near here, has brought protests from local residents.

A letter has been written to Premier William Davis and other provincial politicians protesting the project as "undesirable." The local town council has also had a special meeting to officially register its objection.

Target of the opposition is Boy's Harbor, Incorporated, a voluntary group recently organized in the Toronto area, to launch the rehabilitation scheme.

Boy's Harbor proposes to lease a former staff training camp on Cabot Lake — in the cottage and nearby areas of Tabor and Cabot Township — from the natural resources ministry. The camp would become its own community in what a Boy's Harbor spokesman describes as a "new concept" in juvenile rehabilitation. Delinquents referred by courts and other authorities would be involved in group living, training and recreation.

Tuesday, it passed a motion objecting to the rehabilitation project, "amidst a heavily populated tourist area" and asked the centre be located elsewhere.

Council also delegated Vera McGowan, a former reeve and now president of the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Region, to organize the local protest.

Reeve Spradell said his main concern is control of the camp.

"I think the people in the immediate area are definitely worried about it. Those kids could roam at large quite a bit."

In a letter being sent to councillors at Queen's Park, Mr. McNeill says "both" a centre "will lower cottage owners in a very undesirable position." He says "property values will be reduced as it will be purchased cottage property with an institution such as this as a next door neighbor."

Reeve Spradell said township council had received a letter from Rev. Bell, a month earlier but did not realize all the ramifications at the time. Following the Banquet discussions, a special meeting of township council was called.

Flag Holds Key to School's Ties With Early Loyalists

Ever wondered about that "honey flag" Loyalist College flies in front of its original building, now called the Pioneer Building?

Several sharp-eyed observers have noticed its flying of the flag, a sort of "honey flag", some have remarked.

Most assume it's a mistake and chuckle quietly to themselves. They're partly right. There's something missing from the banner, and therein lies the story of Quinte settlement.

It cost Loyalist $60 a year, double the cost of a Canadian flag or a Union Jack, to that piece of bunting in front of the Pioneer Building. But the college does it willingly, as part of its contribution to "instant history" and as a tribute to the Loyalist pioneer settlers of this district.

The Union Jack, superceded in 1963 by the maple leaf flag of Canada, is a composite device. In its makeup, the history of Great Britain is obvious at a glance to the knowledgeable.

In the center stands the cross of St. George, patron saint of England. It is a red cross on a white background.

In the 13th century, England and Scotland united. The cross of St. Andrew, patron saint of Scotland, was superimposed on the flag of St. George to produce the Union Jack.

And there the matter rested for its instance on historical accuracy. Scythians and Co., of Toronto, charges exactly double the usual cost to produce the flag. The cost of the Canadian flag, a few pennies, is about $15. The flag goes through two a year.

Visitors to Loyalist College often stare in wonder at the school's unusual flag. The flag, an early version of the Union Jack, depicts the school's heritage.

German Students Make City Home for Year

Six of the eight exchange students from Lahr, Germany, who will spend the next month attending school in this city were officially welcomed at an informal reception at City Hall Friday morning.

The six German students, who arrived a few days earlier than expected, were welcomed by Alderman Ben Corke, president of the student exchange group and by City Manager William P. Rubin. Jeffrey was unable to attend.

Mr. Puncell extended Mayor Jeffrey's personal welcome to the young visitors along with the official city welcome and expressed the hope that their year in Belleville would be both a happy and educational one.

Alderman Corke said he trusted that the visiting students would have a year in Belleville which they never would forget.

During their stay in Belleville, the visiting students will live with "host" families and attend city schools. Friday, Alderman Corke presented his appreciation to parent patrons for arranging accommodation at short notice and several days ahead of schedule.

The German students — five boys and a girl — signed the Ben Burns booklet with one of them, Ben Burns, presenting a gift to the city, accepted by the city manager.

Quinte Delight

Mrs. Donald (Carol) Boxer shows four-year-old son Brian freshly picked basket of Quinte green apples. The harvest still not in full swing, has been underway for several weeks since the early varieties started to ripen.

It is at the fetus near term, such tests indicate insufficient surfactant. It is possible to accelerate the production of the by injections of corticosteroids (cortisone like substance).

You will want to discuss this with your obstetrician before becoming pregnant again, since all doctors are not always in agreement as to just how late in the pregnancy one should be given the steroid. It is a fact that the placenta are concerned. I'll give you the same answer I give in this column to others who ask it. It is better to have them in a jar than inside of you. You may feel fine now, but you never know when they will cause problems, and when they do, the problem of removal can be more complicated. 0.57

Dear Dr. Thomson: I showed your letter to a colleague, a neonatologist—somebody who specializes in problems of newborns.

The current theory on RDS is that it stems from a deficiency of surfactant, a chemical in the lungs. This is a material normally high in lecithin, a chemical essential to the proper absorption of oxygen at the surface of the lung.

The problem occurs more frequently in premature infants, babies of diabetic mothers, and those delivered by C-section.

As a matter of fact, RDS can be predicted through chemical tests for the lecithin in the amniotic fluid, the fluid in which the fetus is immersed prior to birth.

As a rule it doesn't. But a mother could have more in the lungs or bronchial tubes and not know it.

Home-bound Students Can't Get Plane Seats

PARIS (AP) — Scores of Canadian and American students, stranded in the last few days but many are still waiting. Students in the departure lounge said there are more than 100 left, some without money for lodging.

A U.S. ban on student travel on U.S. flights, the peak return season has combined to create the situation, said G. Chénier, director of Air Canada for France and Western Europe.

Some students have been stranded at Charles de Gaulle Airport in Paris for several days, and Chénier said he had to start re-examining all airlines in London, Amsterdam, and other European cities.

Chénier said some students here have managed to return home in the last few days but many are still waiting. Students in the departure lounge said there are more than 100 left, some without money for lodging.

Many are on waiting lists for flights to Canada a week or longer from now.

Chénier said a decision by the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board not to allow student fares on U.S. transatlantic carriers forced returning students to concentrate on Air France and Air Canada. The condition demands similar situations elsewhere in Europe, he said.

"But all our flights are full until Sept. 9 or 10," Chénier said, adding that reservations have been made far in advance by passengers paying regular fares.

He said even if some students were willing to pay normal fares, tickets would only go for a flight from Paris to Montreal Aug. 27.

"We flew from Nice to Paris on Air France, which had said in Nice that our Paris-Montreal flight was full," he said. "But when I got to the airport, I found it was full."

"To charter a plane would not be worth it because it would have to come to Europe empty. The roundtrip student fare is only a few dollars more than the regular one-way fare."

He added that some students that they were booked in advance but were bumped from flights at the last minute.

He also denied that a computer malfunction caused a number of reservations to go astray.

But Michele Allouy, a 20-year-old university student from Auburn, Ala., told a different story. She said she reserved her return home in Nice on Aug. 20 for a flight from Paris to Montreal Aug. 27.

"We flew from Nice to Paris on Air France, which had said in Nice that our Paris-Montreal flight was full," he said. "But when I got to the airport, I found it was full."

that announced the schedule for the next year. The prime minister and his wife, Margaret, were enjoying the wilderness solitude when a bulldozer began to clear the area.

There is no verbal report of what words were exchanged when Mr. and Mrs. Trudeau dashed through the woods to face a startled bulldozer operator. But reports suggest that if the machine was to knock down another tree it would have to wait for the prime minister first.

Needless to say, the NCC was taken aback. With protestful deliberation, an NCC official said the proposed road-building project "is in limbo."
